Kissinger: U.S. Has Power

Washington (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger said Thursday the United States has "the military power and the political will" to resist Soviet Expansion in Africa, and offered Moscow a choice: conflict or cooperation.

"The Soviet Union's irresponsible and impermissable intervention in Africa remains a very dangerous element" in world affairs, Kissinger told a news conference on the eve of first official trip to black Africa.

"The United States has the military power and the political will to resist irresponsible actions."

Rejecting Ronald Regan's claims that he is ready to settle for "the best deal" he can get with the Soviets, Kissinger said U.S. policy toward Moscow is a two-fold affair.

"One, we will resist irresponsible action or Soviet use or supply of military power, or the use of surrogate forces," he said, meaning by "surrogate forces" the estimated 15,000 Cuban troops in Angola and other African states.

"Two, we remain ready to work for a more peaceful world."

Asked what Societ action would satisfy his demand for "responsible" behavior in Africa, he said Moscow would have to reduce its supplies of military equipment and advisors, and Cuba would have to withdraw its forces from the continent.

Premier Fidel Castro Monday called President Ford "a vulgar liar" for suggesting Cuban troops were in Africa at Soviet instigation.

Discussing the positive potential of U.S.-Soviet relations, Kissinger said a second-stage strategic arms limitation agreement is still "possible and desirable" and added, "I would not exclude the possibility of significant progress this year."

Kissinger leaves Friday on a two-week trip to Kenya, Tanzania, Zambia, Zaire, Senegal, Ghana and Liberia — his first trip as secretary to black Africa.

"We are certainly going with an attitude of good will," he said, and a desire to demonstrate both U.S. opposition to white minority regimes and concern for close ties with black African nations.

"We are not going with the intention of attempting to set up puppet regimes," he said. "The only sucessful African policy is one in which African nations can achieve their objectives without outside intervention."

He said he would not meet with any of the white leaders of Rhodesia, where black guerrilla warfare is on the rise.

He said he believes it is still possible for blacks to achieve majority rule in Rhodesia by peaceful means.

Indians Display Art, Craft Work

By CYNTHIA JOHNSON

Although the growing popularity of Indian artwork and crafts has brought about a decline in some of the workmanship, Mrs. Anita Da believes that American Indians "still have some top craftsmen."

Mrs. Da — who owns a studio of Indian arts at San Ildefonso Pueblo, N.M. — is one of the exhibitors taking part in Friday and Saturday's Indian Expo 76 at the State Fairgrounds.

The increasing demand for Indian art is welcomed by Mrs. Da because "Indian people are finally getting a fair value from their work."

More Learning

And "with the trend as it is . . . more and more Indians are" learning the techniques involved in the various tribal art forms, Mrs. Da said.

In addition to those who work in the traditional forms, "there are also contemporary Indian craftsmen" whose work reflects a more modern influence.

As in all cultures, these contemporary art forms are not always well-accepted by traditionalists, Mrs. Da said. However, in her estimation, the contemporary product is "just as beautiful" as the more traditional.

Expressing some fear that demand may diminish quality, Mrs. Da said that there are still many Indian craftsmen who take pains to devote the necessary amount of time to their work.

Method Famous

A Pueblo Indian, Mrs. Da is the daughter-in-law of nationally known potter Maria Martinez, who is famous for her method of making a distinctive form of black pottery.

In addition to the jewelry she has brought to Lincoln, Mrs. Da will have on display several pieces of black pottery done by her mother-in-law.

Although the black pottery is still being made by people who have learned the method, Mrs. Martinez, now in her 90s, has retired from pottery making.

The pieces she made are now collector's items, Mrs. Da said.

45 Tribes Represented

Mrs. Da's exhibit — as well as those of many other Indian craftsmen representing 45 tribes and a number of states — can be seen from noon to 6 p.m. Friday and from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Saturday.

In addition to the arts and crafts exhibits, Indian Expo 76 — which is sponsored by Haymarket Art Gallery — will feature intertribal dancing from 6 p.m. to midnight Friday and a show incorporating Indian fashions, jewelry, music and dance at 8 p.m. Saturday.

FEA Wants To Decontrol Oil Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Energy Administration said Thursday it wants to end price control and allocation of home heating oil, diesel fuel and other "middle distillate" oils by July 1.

Administrator Frank G. Zarb said the proposal if carried out, would have virtually no effect on consumer prices.

The FEA said it would hold public hearings and consider comments before deciding whether to send the proposal to Congress.

Under the law, the proposal would take effect after it is submitted to Congress unless either the House or Senate disapproves within 15 days.

The agency has already proposed ending controls on residual oil, a heavy fuel oil, and Zarb said it would act, when appropriate, to end controls on other petroleum products including gasoline and jet fuel. He did not specify any date.

The proposal to decontrol home heating oil and diesel fuel points out that these middle distillates have been in ample supply since the end of the Arab oil embargo of 1973-1974.

"On the basis of evidence available to FEA," it said, "the existence of the price and allocation regulations respecting middle distillate now tends more to create market distortions than to achieve the objectives" of the energy law.

It said that FEA and many members of Congress concluded "that market conditions may be appropriate for an end to price and allocation controls."

The existing price control system does not impose a single rigid price but allows for seasonal fluctuations and the pass-through of changes in the cost of domestic and imported oil.

Regulations governing the allocation of petroleum products were used during the Arab embargo to assure fair distribution during the shortage and have continued in effect even though the shortage has ended; their main effect since then has been to freeze relationships between suppliers and customers in their pre-embargo patterns.

Deputy Administrator Eric Zusner told a news conference that while decontrol might allow some dealers to try to raise prices, the increase of competition allowed by the end of regulation would tend to counteract that trend so the net result would be little or no price increase that would not have occurred even under controls.

The regulations allow some price increases and Zausner said that distillate oil prices probably will rise with or without controls but would not be worsened by the end of the controls.

The agency scheduled public hearings on the proposal for May 12 and, if necessary, May 13, in Washington.

Colorado Regulators To Show Their Need

DENVER (AP) — Colorado Gov. Richard Lamm on Thursday signed the nation's first law designed to force governmental bureaucracies out of business unless they can prove they're needed.

The citizens' lobby Colorado Common Cause proposed the so-called Sunset Law six months ago to control the state version of supergovernment: a system of regulatory agencies and programs that Common Cause feels has exceeded its statutory authority.

The law's concept is not complicated.

It gives an agency or program a life of six years. Within that period, the legislature must call in directors or supervisors to justify the agency's or program's continuance.

If the legislators are satisfied, the program or agency will continue for another six years, during which the process will be repeated. If witnesses can't justify themselves, they will be given a year to complete their business, with no reduction in their authority.

Among boards to be reviewed are those licensing and regulating barbers, cosmetologists and shorthand reporters. They come up for review on July 1, 1977.

"There is a whole history of agencies set up for the best purposes, but in fact they sometimes don't work for the best purposes," Lamm, a Democrat, said in signing the bill.

"I'm not so sure that any of these affected Colorado agencies are in that category, but they all can benefit from this review process."

Other states and the federal government are examining the concept.

On the federal level, Sens. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, and John H. Glenn, Jr., D-Ohio, have teamed with Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., to support the "Government Economy and Spending Reform Act of 1976."

That would place most federal programs on a four-year life plan.

Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo., recently introduced a similar bill. A team of other U.S. senators and representatives has drafted a bill calling for a mandatory review of specified "areas" of federal regulation and termination of regulation.

The Sunset measure approved by the Colorado Legislature was introduced in January by Rep. Gerald Kopel, D-Denver, after a presentation by Common Cause during the 1975 summer interim period. It cleared the House Judiciary Committee the next day, was approved by the House on Feb. 4, and sped through the Republican-controlled Senate on March 31.

Other agencies under the law are Colorado's major commissions, including the Public Utilities Commission and the real estate, insurance and banking boards.

The boards being reviewed next July are among 38 trade and occupational licensing boards coming under surveillance. They deal with such things as medicine, accounting, mobile home sales, electricians, plumbing, social workers and collection agencies.

Two agencies were killed by the Legislature before they had a chance to come under the new law. One was for the licensing of midwives, the other for the licensing of ore buyers.

Plan Z Raises Home Water Bills

by LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

The new water rates adopted by the City Council this week will increase most homeowners' bills, but lower large industrial customers' water rates, a report released Thursday shows.

The figures released by Mayor Helen Boosalis also indicate that the rates won't produce the $5.2 million in revenue needed to run the water system. The new rate plan, dubbed Alternate Z by the council, would generate $4.8 million.

The report from the administration contradicts council members' assertion that the new formula would produce required revenues.

Figures Questioned

Several councilmen accused the water department of using a different set of figures than given to the council last week. Under the information the water system gave to the council then, Chairman Max Denney said, $5 million would be produced by Plan Z.

Said Denney Thursday, "I don't know why they changed the figures."

"I have a feeling we're getting the runaround."

The information was compiled by the city water system at the request of the mayor. She has until Tuesday to decide whether to veto the rates adopted by a bare council majority. A veto could throw the whole rate controversy back into limbo again.

Only four councilmen voted for plan "Z". Those same four lawmakers met privately over lunch last week with a Chamber of Commerce committee chairman.

Who Wrote Plan?

Although the four councilmen claim the chamber didn't write Plan Z, the remaining three lawmakers charged that they did. Council members Sue Bailey, John Robinson and Bob Jeambey claimed the rates would benefit business and industry by shifting higher bills onto homeowners.

Councilmen Dick Baker, Steve Cook, Max Denney and Bob Sikyta pointed out they never said the water rates would be lower for anybody.

A comparison of the old rates with the new shows that most residential users will pay a few dollars more each month for water.

For instance, a person using 31 hundred cubic feet of water a year has been forking out $18.96 a month for water. Under the new rates, he will pay $19.79.

Up More Than $2

A homeowner who uses a moderate amount of water, or 145 hundred cubic feet of water annually, will pay $54.58 instead of $52.33.

A high user of water, who consumes 499 hundred cubic feet of water yearly, will pay $189.01 under the new rates compared to $187.63 under the old.

A residential user who consumes 1,583 hundred cubic feet of water annually and has been paying $594 will pay $617 under the new rates.

Industries, such as Goodyear, would pay less under Plan Z. As the only customer falling in the highest usage category, Goodyear will pay $9,726 less under the Z rates. The plant's $128,946 bill would drop to $119,220.

Businesses which use between 12 and 54 million hundred cubic feet of water yearly will have lower bills, also. In examples given by the water department, the rates will drop one user's bill from $53,608 to $42,705. Another customer in that schedule will pay $27,589 under Plan Z compared to $29,486 under the old rates.

Some Up, Some Down

Water bills of some nonresidential customers who use under 12 million hundred cubic feet a year will decrease. For others it will increase.

A commercial customer using 36,448 hundred cubic feet a year will pay $9,776 under Plan Z and $9,717 under the old rates.

However, a customer using 96,808 hundred cubic feet will pay about $10,000 less in water bills, from $35,504 under the old rates to $25,686 under the new.

The council had agreed to replace the individually calculated base demand formula with an increasing block system of higher rates as consumption increased.

However, under Plan Z only residential customers are charged more as consumption increases. Nonresidential users are charged a flat rate.

Policemen Vote In Union

By an overwhelming vote, Lincoln police officers agreed Thursday to have a union represent them as the exclusive bargaining agent in labor negotiations with the city.

The vote was 176 to 1.

Police officers, sergeants, detectives and lieutenants were eligible to vote in the election which named the International Brotherhood of Police Officers, Local 544, as the sole negotiator for the officers.

Not everyone voted, since 219 officers were eligible to cast ballots at the County-City Building polling booths. Only a majority vote was needed.

Monitoring the election were University of Nebraska Law School Dean Henry Grether, city personnel department staffer Harvey Schwartz and J. Murry Shaeffer, attorney for the police union.

Brickyard Delegate Seeks Second Look

A large, but not very vocal, crowd attended a public hearing on Lincoln-Lancaster County air pollution standards at the City-County Health Department Thursday night.

Only one person spoke in direct opposition to the proposed standards, Howard Petty, representing Yankee Hill Brick Co.

Petty said that he felt "at least four pages of the proposal are directed at Yankee Hill," and added his company would like to take the matter up with the City Council.

Directing specific remarks to the area of fluoride emissions, Petty said that, as a rule, most brickyards have this problem. He said that he knew of only two in the country that used scrubbers to remove the pollution "out of several hundred brickyards," many of which are in closer proximity to towns than Yankee Hill.

Petty asked the board to "restudy the proposals and resubmit any statutes which seem applicable" to business and industry in Lincoln.

During the meeting preceeding the hearing, the board was told by supervisor Dr. Gary L. Walsh, that the community of Bennet wished to terminate its interlocal agreement with the department and have an air sampling instrument removed from the town.

Walsh said that the device had been removed and that he would attempt to convince the town council to reconsider their decision.

Bennet's problems stem mainly from the fact that the town has all dirt streets, he noted.

Petty said that he felt "at least four pages of the proposal are directed at Yankee Hill," and added his company would like to take the matter up with the City Council.

Directing specific remarks to the area of fluoride emissions, Petty said that, as a rule, most brickyards have this problem. He said that he knew of only two in the country that used scrubbers to remove the pollution, "out of several hundred brickyards," many of which are in closer proximity to towns than Yankee Hill.

Petty asked the board to "restudy the proposals and resubmit any statutes which seem applicable" to business and industry in Lincoln.

During the meeting preceeding the hearing, the board was told by supervisor Dr. Gary L. Walsh, that the community of Bennet wished to terminate its interlocal agreement with the department and have an air sampling instrument removed from the town.

Walsh said that the device had been removed and that he would attempt to convince the town council to reconsider their decision.

Bennet's problems stem mainly from the fact that the town has all dirt streets, he noted.

Bomb Blast Rips Boston Courthouse

Boston (UPI) — A dynamite bomb wrapped in a paper bag exploded in a downtown courthouse lobby Thursday morning, injuring 20 persons.

Four victims of the bombing remained hospitalized One man had his foot blown off.

Officials immediately acted to prevent the incident from igniting further trouble in the tense city, although there was no evidence the bombing was related to recent incidents of racial violence. Police could give no motive for the bombing.

Mayor Kevin White and Gov. Michael Dukakis appealed for calm and planned to lead a "procession against violence" through the downtown area Friday.

An anonymous telephone tip had been received at the courthouse 20 minutes before the 9:12 a.m. blast, which shredded walls and shattered windows just as the police bomb squad pulled up to the building.

The incident touched off a wave of fake bomb threats, resulting in the evacuation of two state office buildings..

Police had conflicting descriptions of the possible bomber, but finally cancelled all of them.

Police Commissioner Robert Digrazia said the explosion in the second floor lobby of the 15-story Suffolk County Superior Court Building was in "no way at all related to the racial attack" Wednesday night in which whites stoned a black woman and her child. The city has been jarred repeatedly in past days by racial beatings and stonings.

The FBI and police investigated whether the bombing was a reference to the attack on the black woman or to a man awaiting trial for murder.

"There was blood all over the floor; I was even slipping on it as I tried to help the injured," said capitol police officer Dennis Sullivan, one of the first to arrive at the scene of the bombing.

Assistant Dist. Atty. Paul Buckley, his suit splattered with blood, said "everyone seemed to be moaning and crying" after the explosion. "Some were screaming. Others were sitting down on the floor, bleeding."

A police spokesman said the call may have referred to the attack on the woman and child or to an upcoming murder trial.

FBI Checking Everything

"We're not overlooking any possibility," said FBI Supervisor Bernard McCabe. "As far as saying which Jackson she was referring to, we have no basis for saying anything."

Toni Jackson and her son were the victims of the stoning. Anthony Jackson, 36, of Boston is in jail awaiting trial on murder charges in the slaying of two Boston area coeds picked up hitchhiking four years ago.

"I'm lucky to be alive," said a stunned Nat Dosreirs, who was standing outside the probation department on the second floor when the bomb went off about 9:15 a.m. "All I know is this bomb went off and when I turned around there were bodies lying all over the floor."

Digrazia said a victim of the explosion described a male suspect who left a package on the floor. The victim said he told the suspect, "you've left something on the floor."

When the victim heard the package ticking, he was unable to escape in time.

Could Be Worse

"If it had happened 20 minutes later, 60 people would have been there, lined up, waiting to get their criminal records. Twenty minutes later — Jesus," said Assistant District Atty. Richard I. Clayman.

He said he smelled what "I believe to be gunpowder" when he emerged from his sixth floor office. Police said the bomb was made of dynamite.

Bewildered state employes wandered around in the first floor lobby of the courthouse after the explosion.

"There's a hole up there about 20 feet in diameter and a huge chunk of steel and concrete was hanging from the second floor ceiling," said one eyewitness.

About 300 persons were evacuated and the building sealed off by police.

Tensions High

Racial tensions have been high during recent weeks because of controversy over busing of children under a school desegregation plan ordered by a federal court, not located in the building.

The two most seriously injured victims of the explosion, including a man who lost his foot, underwent surgery at Massachusetts General Hospital.

The block-long building houses the state superior court for the Boston area, Boston Municipal Court and the Massachusetts Supreme Court.

A sign in the first floor lobby warns persons, "All bundles and packages are subject to search." But hundreds of persons flow through the building daily without inspection.

Key Watergate Witness Walters To Leave CIA

Washington (UPI) — The White House Thursday announced the resignation of Deputy CIA Director Vernon Walters, a key Watergate witness who testified he tried to stop the FBI Watergate probe on Richard Nixon's orders.

Presidential press secretary Ron Nessen said Walters, 59, an Army lieutenant general, was leaving the No. 2 agency post because CIA Director George Bush "wanted to build his own team."

The announcement said President Ford was nominating Associate Deputy CIA Director Henry Knoche, 51, to succeed Walters.

An intelligence community source said the main reason for Walters' departure was Bush's desire to have a career professional running day-to-day operations and helping Bush restore morale damaged by Watergate and the intelligence investigations.

'Smoking Pistol' Tape

This source also said Bush wanted a deputy free of association with the Watergate period and Nixon's brief effort — disclosed in the so-called "smoking pistol" tape recording — to have the agency stifle the FBI's early investigation.

At CIA headquarters, a spokesman said the move suited Walters' plans to retire from the Army after a 35-year military career. He emphatically denied any connection between Walters' Watergate involvement and his departure.

"For crying out loud!" the spokesman said. "Any suggested connection between Gen. Walters' friendship with former President Nixon or Watergate and his leaving the CIA does not do him justice.

"He has been a distinguished Army officer for the past 35 years and served three presidents directly as an interpreter."

He said Walters asked the Army last month for permission to retire.

Nixon, who considered Walters a loyal friend, transferred him from Army duty to the CIA in 1972. Ford appointed him deputy director last year.

Disclosed Orders

Walters gained national prominence as a witness at the televised Senate Watergate hearings in 1973, where he disclosed the White House had instructed him to quash the June 1972, FBI Watergate probe on national security grounds. Nixon's precise role in that effort, however, remained unclear until the later disclosure of the White House tape recording that forced his resignation.

It showed that, on June 23, 1972, White House chief of staff H.R. Haldeman told Nixon the FBI probe was touching politically dangerous areas and recommended:

"The way to handle this is for us now to have Walters call (FBI Director) Pat Gray and just say, 'Stay to hell out of this . . . This is the CIA.' "

The tapes show Nixon approved that suggestion. Testifying at the Watergate coverup trial in November 1974, Walters confirmed he told Gray the FBI investigation "could expose . . . CIA covert operations in Mexico."

Gray testified, however, that Walters refused to put that in writing and abandoned the White House plan, telling Gray, "I'm not going to let those kids at the White House kick me around."

Cigarette Pack Rumor Crops Up In Florida

Orlando, Fla. (UPI) — Out of the goodness of her heart, Sharon Palmer spent months collecting thousands of empty cigarette packages.

She thought they could be swapped for dialysis treatment for a 9-year-old boy with kidney trouble.

She was wrong.

Mrs. Palmer fell victim to a puzzling and apparently baseless rumor that, with many variations, has plagued good Samaritans for a quarter-century.

Cigarette companies do not redeem empty packages. Neither does anyone else, says a spokesman for the tobacco industry.

Mrs. Palmer estimates she saved about 10,000 empty packs after being told by a storekeeper that each 100 packs would buy three minutes of treatment on a dialysis machine for a 9-year-old boy. Many of her friends pitched in to help collect the packs.

The boy described in the rumor is nowhere to be found around Orlando, according to Michael Vaughn, executive director of the Kidney Foundation of Central Florida.

"It's a farce," says Vaughn, who has tried in vain to trace the rumor to its source locally. "A lot of people's valuable time is being wasted.

"We can find no reason for it," he said. "There apparently is no malice, but it's causing the National Kidney Foundation a lot of trouble."

Rubber Workers Union Official Waiting For 'Piece Of The Pie'

Cleveland (UPI) — An official of one of the largest United Rubber Workers Union locals in the country said Thursday the nation's leading tire manufacturers have "shortchanged us so many times" that a strike against the rubber companies will not end "until we get a piece of the pie too."

The URW called a strike against Firestone Tire and Rubber Co., Goodyear Tire and Rubber Corp., B.F. Goodrich and Uniroyal at midnight Tuesday when its three-year contract expired.

The URW continued negotiations with Firestone in Cleveland Thursday in an attempt to set a pattern for a new master contract covering the other three firms and 70,000 union members at 47 plants throughout the country.

"We're anticipating a longer strike than what we feel is probably necessary, and unless the companies come up with a better offer we're not going back," said John Corpolis, vice president of URW Local 5 in Akron which covers 5,000 Goodrich employes.

"They have shortchanged us so many times, we're not going back until we get a piece of the pie too," he said "I think the memberships of all our locals are united in their thoughts. Unless there's a change of proposals on the companies' part to try and assist us, we're not going back to work."

The four companies have offered wage increases totaling $1.05 an hour over a three-year period and also included a cost of living clause which was not in the last contract.

The URW has asked for $1.45 an hour in catch-up increases for production workers and $2 an hour for skilled trades, an uncapped cost of living escalator, general wage increase and increases in pensions and insurance programs.

URW President Pete Bommarito, in a letter to all union members which was released Thursday, said the companies have made enough in price increases in the last three years to have covered the equivalent of an 114% increase in labor costs.

"We also know that in several European countries each of the big four companies have contracts which provide full cost-of-living escalator clauses," said Bommarito. "Rubber workers absolutely refuse to be treated as second class citizens here in the U.S."

Two Cubans Killed In Embassy Bombing

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Dumped smoking on the doorstep in a black briefcase, a bomb ripped through the Cuban Embassy Thursday, killing a Cuban man and a Cuban woman and critically injuring four Portuguese, officials said

The Cubans were identified as Efrain Monteagudo and Adriana Cocho, both employes at the embassy but not diplomats The Portuguese government apologized to the Cuban ambassador, Francisco Astray Rodriguez, for the bombing and promised a "rigorous investigation"

The explosion at the embassy's sixth-floor offices in a 10-story building in downtown Lisbon was strong enough to drive a yard-wide hole in the concrete floor, cave in two walls, and pitch metal window shutters across a busy six-lane thoroughfare

Police pointed their investigations toward the large community of refugees from Angola many of whom blame the Cubans for the civil war that caused hundreds of thousands of Portuguese colonists to flee the African territory There is a Cuban expeditionary force in Angola numbering more than 10,000 men.

Police and witnesses put the time of the explosion at 4:45 p.m. — 9:45 a.m. CST — when offices in the building were filled to capacity.

Inside the chancery the metal furniture was rent and twisted. Clogging the floors were chunks of plaster wall and fragments of three wooden doors

A large crowd formed on the street outside the embassy after the blast. Police in full riot gear sealed off the entrance to the building

Antonio Parada, a doorman at the building, said he saw a black imitation-leather briefcase seeping smoke just outside the embassy office door a minute before the explosion

"I ran to the phone for help," Parada said "I was going to throw it (the bomb) out of the window but I didn't think there would be time Right when I got to the phone, the bomb went off

A few minutes earlier, Parada said a man about 30 years old went to the sixth floor, carrying a black briefcase

There have been lots of threats from refugees and others, Parada said

Mrs. Palmer estimates she saved about 10,000 empty packs after being told by a storekeeper that each 100 packs would buy three minutes of treatment on a dialysis machine for a 9-year-old boy. Many of her friends pitched in to help collect the packs.

The boy described in the rumor is nowhere to be found around Orlando, according to Michael Vaughn, executive director of the Kidney Foundation of Central Florida.

"It's a farce," says Vaughn, who has tried in vain to trace the rumor to its source locally. "A lot of people's valuable time is being wasted.

"We can find no reason for it," he said. "There apparently is no malice, but it's causing the National Kidney Foundation a lot of trouble."

'Psi Research Out Of Closet

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — After more than 40 years of research, scientists say they have proved that psychic phenomena are real.

Psychic phenomena include extrasensory perception (ESP), telepathy, precognition (to know in advance), clairvoyance and psychokinesis (making something move without physically touching it). Such phenomena defy the known laws of science and researchers call the power "Psi."

For years scientists who studied psychic phenomena were scorned and sometimes forced to conduct their research in secret. Now, there is an emerging science called parapsychology that studies Psi.

Parapsychology has become so accepted that the Smithsonian Institution has sponsored a traveling exhibit on the subject. Debbie Dawson of the Smithsonian staff described the exhibit — called "Psi Search" — as separating fact from fiction, outlining how far the study of Psi has come and showing where it's headed.

The exhibit opened at the Morehead Planetarium in Chapel Hill on Thursday. Several of the world's leading Psi researchers were on hand because it was in this area that the scientific study of Psi began 46 years ago.

On hand for the opening were Dr. J B. Rhine and his wife, Louisa, who in 1930 worked under Dr. William McDougall in setting up the parapsychology laboratory at Duke University in Durham. The Rhines pioneered the modern methods and concepts on which parapsychology is based.

McDougall left Harvard for Duke because "it was a peaceful place for that research," Rhine said. Though scientists opposed to psychic research demanded the program be shut down, the university stood firm and let it continue, he said. Money for Psi research came from J.B. Duke, head of the wealthy family which endowed the university, he said.

The exhibit is the first time factual information about psychic phenomena has been compiled for the public, said Fran Hynds of Los Angeles, who came up with the idea two years ago. "What most people don't know is how much garbage they're getting hold of (about psychic phenomena)," she said.

Judge Says Firm Must Pay $12,500

Wentz Heating and Air Conditioning Co., 1500 Center Park Rd., has been ordered to repay about $12,500 to 15 customers it overcharged for fuel oil more than two years ago.

U.S District Judge Albert Schatz upheld a Federal Energy Administration (FEA) order which said the company overcharged for No 5 fuel oil between Nov 1, 1973, and May 31, 1974.

Wentz requested a federal court review In response, the FEA asked that civil penalties be assessed against the firm.

Schatz said Wentz was unable to tell if the oil was covered by federal price regulations because they were not widely distributed and there was "considerable confusion."

He did not assess civil penalties

Man Put On Probation For '73 Airport Incident

Thomas Lawrence Flum, 23, of Detroit, has been placed on two years probation for attempting to board a plane at Lincoln Municipal Airport with a concealed weapon.

Flum was charged after a switchblade and a butcher knife were found in his baggage prior to boarding the plane in July 1973 U.S District Judge Robert Van Pelt found Flum guilty

Flum appealed to the Eighth Circuit Court, arguing that he hadn't tried to conceal the weapons.

The Eighth Circuit Court upheld Van Pelt's ruling The U S Supreme Court later refused to consider the case.

Ohio Firm Asks $124,000 From Beaver Lake Corp.

Willard Improvement Co., Inc., has sued Beaver Lake Corp., a Nebraska land developer, for $124,419, claiming it defaulted on a contract.

In a U.S. District Court suit, the Ohio corporation contends the developer refused to pay for a sewer and water distribution system it constructed. Willard Improvement later filed a lien on the Beaver Lake property, it says.

Beaver Lake Corp. filed a $145,000 U.S. National Bank of Omaha surety bond on Dec. 31, 1975, the suit claims. Willard Improvement wants the court to order the developer or the bank honor the contract.

'Golliwhoppers' At NWU Built On Tall Tales Of U.S. Folklore

By DEB GRAY
Star Staff Writer

Did ya ever hear about the time that Br'er Rabbit helped Br'er Coon outfox a bunch of wily frogs in a sand pit?

Or the time that foolish Jean Sotte went out to sell a cowhide and returned home with a chestful of pirate treasure?

Well, these are golliwhoppers — tall tales from American folklore. And, as the 15-member cast of the Nebraska Wesleyan University "Golliwhoppers!" production tell us, these folk tales are an important part of America's heritage.

"Golliwhoppers!" is a play by Flora Atkin which director David M. Clark adapted for the production. Its free-form, audience participation spirit is reminiscent of "Godspell."

Most of the people who attended Thursday evening's production in Enid Miller Theater had passed the pre-pubescent age. Which was really too bad.

For "Golliwhoppers!" is all that good children's theater should be. All cast members gave energetic performances — they obviously enjoyed being on stage, and the audience obviously enjoyed having them there.

Free punch and cookies were served at intermission. Cast members waited in the foyer to talk with the children as they left the theater.

The occasional opening night muff-ups, a few weak vocals here, some out-of-sync dance steps there — all these criticisms are out of place, buried under children's laughter, as about 60 characters — all the way from Big Jesse Febold Ebenezer Chopalong to alligators to wild boars to Br'er Rabbit — took over the stage.

The production is not only entertaining, but also educational.

The tales in this play are not as well known as the legends of Pecos Bill or Paul Bunyan. They draw from a wealth of lesser known stories out of Appalachia, the Louisiana Bayou Country and Texas.

Perhaps the most appealing tale is "The Sun Snatchers" with its striking Indian imagery. The story tells how the sun was placed in the sky, so it could move to the west and to the east, warming all parts of the world.

The remaining productions of "Golliwhoppers!" will be at 7 p.m. Friday and Saturday and 2 p.m. Sunday.

2 Omaha Men Given Extra Terms

Wichita (AP) — Two Omaha men who conducted a four-state crime spree that ended last June with their capture near Russell, Kan., were sentenced to additional prison terms Thursday in U.S. District Court.

Maekie Smothers, 19, and Leonard L. Coleman, 22, who earlier pleaded guilty to federal charges of kidnaping and using a firearm to carry out the kidnaping, received sentences of 15 and 25 years, respectively, from U.S. District Court Judge Wesley Brown.

Smothers was earlier sentenced to 26 years in prison by an Iowa court in Council Bluffs on state charges of robbery and rape, while Coleman was sentenced to 50 years for robbery, kidnaping and escape.

Brown said the federal sentences would be served after the state prison terms.

The spree began June 29 when two men were shot and two women were kidnaped in a park near Council Bluffs. By the time it ended the next day in Russell, the suspects had crossed through Nebraska and Colorado, six persons had been kidnaped, Smothers and Coleman had been wounded, three cars had been stolen and a service station had been robbed near Quinter, Kan.

Six of the eight original charges against Smothers and Coleman were dropped after they pleaded guilty to the remaining two.

Ousted Councilman Suing To Regain Scottsbluff Seat

Ousted Scottsbluff City Councilman Roger Green has sued the council, claiming it unconstitutionally removed him from office.

U.S. District Judge Warren Urbom set arguments on a preliminary injunction for April 26. Earlier, he denied a motion for a temporary restraining order.

The U.S. District Court suit claims the council misapplied a 1917 state law barring public employes from serving on councils in cities with council-manager forms of government. The council's action deprived Green of due process, it says.

The suit also names the City of Scottsbluff and four individual councilmen.

On April 12, the council voted 4-0 to oust Green, a faculty member at publicly supported Nebraska Western Community College. Green, a councilman since 1974, was disqualified from voting on his ouster.

The suit asks that the council be enjoined from its action until constitutionality is determined.

In an affadavit, attorney Jeffrey A. Knoll siad "at no time . . . has he (Green) participated in or voted on any matter affecting Nebraska Western Community College."

Scottsbluff Mayor Donald Overman said earlier that the council vacancy has not been filled because Green was expected to seek the injunction.

Sexual Assault Charge Faced By 14-Year-Old

A 14-year-old youth has been charged in Lancaster County Court with attempting to rape a woman in her home Tuesday morning.

John W. Duffy was charged with one count of assault with intent to do great bodily injury and a second count of second degree sexual assault.

Bond was set at $10,000. However, Duffy still was being held at the Juvenile Attention Center until the bond is posted. A preliminary hearing date will be set May 4.

Duffy is charged with breaking into a 24-year-old woman's apartment early Tuesday morning, where he allegedly tried to rape her.

Savage, Snake Return To Work

Joe Savage was back at his snake-charming job at a Lincoln night spot Thursday night after a not-so-charming episode late Wednesday.

Savage uses a boa constrictor in one part of his routine and was apparently strangled by the snake during his Wednesday night show He was taken to Lincoln General Hospital where he was treated, and released Thursday morning, in time for another night of shows.

Fotomat Booth Robbed; Police Seeking Woman Responsible

Lincoln police are looking for a woman who held up the Fotomat booth at 428 S. 13th Thursday afternoon.

Police said the attendant, Barbara Mulder, 19, of 821 Lyncrest Drive, told them a lone woman with a gun told her to put some money, believed to be between $20 and $50, in a sack According to Ms Mulder, the woman then walked down the alley

Police put out several descriptions of suspects and reportedly chased one suspect in a vehicle onto Interstate 80 before stopping the person

Embargo? What Embargo?

"Like a little boy who tends to forget why he was spanked last week, the country seems to have conveniently erased the memory of the embargo from its consciousness."

So spoke Federal Energy Administrator Frank Zarb (remember the first White House energy chief, John Love and then "Energy Czar" Bill Simon?) this week in warning that there "is an all too real possibility" that another oil embargo will be imposed by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries that "would make the last one look like a picnic."

Zarb is right. The nation has forgotten about the last oil embargo. Lines at the service stations, ten-gallon limit purchases, gasless Sundays, skyrocketing prices, dialing down and other aspects of voluntary conservation are all part of an easily forgettable recent past for most of us.

The economy is recovering, gas is in plentiful supply and the price has fallen in some areas of the country, will increase slightly with the advent of the vacation season, but has been basically stable and the past winter was mild.

Who cares that we are now more dependent than ever on foreign oil?

Not many of us really care, probably, because not many people are thinking about it. There is no reason to tighten the belt when there is plenty to eat on the table; likewise, people are loath to conserve energy when there seemingly is plenty of heating and motor fuel, natural gas and electric power. And the petroleum and gas industry is apparently reluctant to increase domestic production without price-gouging to insure even more fantastic profit margins.

Says Zarb: "OPEC has the oil we need, and they can be expected to make the most of the seller's market they enjoy. As long as we continue to become increasingly dependent on the OPEC nations for our petroleum supplies, we will be increasingly subject to arbitrary OPEC decisions on price and supply."

We have lapsed into a false sense of security brought on by economic recovery and the OPEC waiting game, but experience warns that we can't expect the present situation to achieve any sort of permanence.

The energy problem (nee crisis) has been shoved to the back burner while the nation listens to political rhetoric. A return to energy reality does not seem to be on the agenda of the next few months.

Still, now and again someone sounds a warning: an economic Pearl Harbor is ahead. It won't be as if no one ever told us.

Food For Thought

Robert Driscoll, a Chilean expert with the U.S. Department of State, talked about food in a recent interview published in The Star.

Contrary to a policy line which seems popular among a number of leading national political figures, Driscoll does not think food will be used as a foreign policy tool. "I really don't see a supply of food as much of a club in world affairs in the American political context," he said. Driscoll seems to feel that humanitarian concerns would be more important in guiding this nation's food exporting policy than transitory political differences.

Expressed reluctance to use food in a carrot-and-stick sense, with market-rocking results, should find receptive ears among farmers.

Also interesting to farmers should be Driscoll's views on Chilean agriculture and a parallel that might be drawn.

He said that Chile has the capability of feeding itself but the Chilean government had adopted a policy of subsidizing the consumer at the expense of the farmer. "They have a tremendously rich agricultural area that can produce a lot of food but the farmers don't have the economic incentive to expand food production," he said.

By subsidizing the consumer, it is assumed he meant that food prices are kept low, and further, that Chilean farming thus is unprofitable.

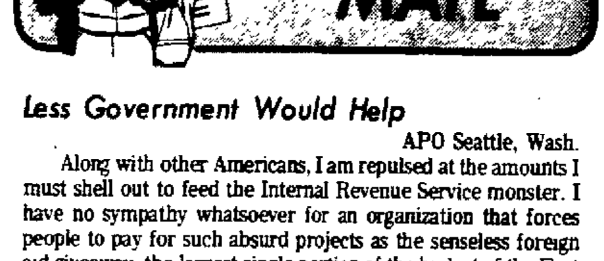
Such political considerations do not apply only in a relatively poor country such as Chile.

Consumer complaints in recent years have resulted in U.S. government actions which work to keep down food prices — such as the meat price ceiling and the grain embargo.

Although grain production has expanded in the U.S., it is not because the profit picture has been that bright all across the board. Grain farmers expand production more on hope for better prices, greater export sales and because land is too expensive to lay idle, than because the price is right.

Meat producers up against the cost-price squeeze either drop out or cut back.

The U.S., with the world's most sophisticated agriculture, will continue to feed itself, but the face of American agriculture could change if the U.S. government continues to be overly sensitive to consumer complaining. It could become less personal and bigger and more monopolistic at a faster rate resulting in an even higher price structure and lower quality products for the American consumer.



Less Government Would Help

APO Seattle, Wash.

Along with other Americans, I am repulsed at the amounts I must shell out to feed the Internal Revenue Service monster. I have no sympathy whatsoever for an organization that forces people to pay for such absurd projects as the senseless foreign aid giveaway, the largest single portion of the budget of the East River Debating Society known as the UN, the federal subsidies for legalized murder called abortion, the busing of children against their parents' will, grants to study the Australian aborigines' perspiration, and any other ridiculous scheme Washington comes up with.

Added to this are the tactics used by these 72,000 employes. Senate investigations have found that the IRS uses such means to pry into citizens' lives as intercepting personal mail, lock-picking, eavesdropping on attorney-client conversations, and many more. The IRS, therefore, has the power to legally or illegally bankrupt and ruin for life anyone it chooses. This is utterly too much power to give to unelected bureaucrats with no system of checks and balances!

People have been complaining about taxes for a long time now, and, while specific taxes may have been cut, the overall pattern has been for steady increase. To fight fire with fire, drastic action must be taken by all Americans in the form of a tax rebellion. It was such a rebellion that led to the Revolutionary War, and this is a very appropriate time to immortalize the event by saying no to Washington's fanaticism.

Untold millions already have joined in a tax strike, refusing to pay a single cent. Some do so flamboyantly while others remain subtle. I congratulate every true American who has decided to keep his money from the paws of the IRS and has thereby avoided tossing pearls before swine. I, too, would join in this noble rebellion were it not for the unfortunate fact that I'm currently in the military. When I return to civilian life, it will be a different story, I guarantee.

Less tax revenues will, of course, mean that some of the government's inept operations must end. Perhaps then we can see the fulfillment of "Less Taxation Through Less Government." And I don't know of many people who are opposed to that!

Lincoln, Neb.

Revenue-sharing is inflationary. First, the money taken from the taxpayer should have stayed at home. Secondly, in order to look like much of anything, revenue-sharing must deal in amounts of at least $440,000 or something like that, and up. These amounts correspond in a larger way to the amounts things will cost. So where perhaps five years ago, one could live comfortably on $7,000, because of the large amounts the government is shelling out, it now takes $15,000.

It is our government and we are letting them bamfoozle us!

WASHINGTON — If one more congressman or senator ventures to the well of the House or Senate to announce that he is voluntarily turning in his toga — and it appears likely that at least one more will do so before the session is out — one tenth of Congress will have resigned, more than in any previous year.

Why? While age and general fatigue have something to do with it (departing Senate leaders Hugh Scott and Mike Mansfield are both getting on in years), that is by no means the whole story or even the most significant cause of current wholesale departures from two of the nation's most exclusive and privileged clubs.

Only two years ago, 51 members stepped down without a fight. Combine that number with this year's retirees, and the figure totals nearly a fifth of Congress. Many of these lawmakers were in the prime of their political lives; they had survived long enough at the polls and on the Hill to be at the verge of prestigious chairmanships. Only an inevitable death or two stood in the way. Indeed, a not insignificant number of departing members this year are already chairmen. Some, like North Carolina's David N. Henderson, who is, at 54, chairman of the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee, are leaving at the very peak of their careers, with youth and vigor on their side.

Another factor is pay. There is, by a long shot, more to be made in the private sector than there is in sitting in a crowded House office building, no matter how many perquisites tenure may have granted you. And with a lot less work. And with a lot less chance that some over-zealous, ambitious hound from the press is going to make an open book of your private life or, worse yet, initiate some investigation that could lead to God knows where.

Though voiced by no one, it is that last reason which may be a big factor in the recent exodus from Capitol Hill. Congress, to be sure, is not the place it used to be (though if the young Turks who arrived in such a storm two years ago stay there long enough, it may get to be), and that fact, coupled with the reality that the office has become more of a target in recent years than ever before, makes a strong brief for cashing it in.

The result, if not the causes, is ironically akin to what some of the Founding Fathers had in mind for service in Congress. It was to be viewed as a duty, more or less like a stint in the military or service on a jury; a burden as much as a privilege for those intellectually and financially qualified to do the job. As unspeakable as that swampy place is, the reasoning went, it should be a community leader's duty to go to Washington for two years, or four, to make sure the executive doesn't spend the country broke or take it to war in a fit of pique.

It didn't work that way, partly because power and perquisites have a way of enslaving those who think they command them. Erode the power and take away the perks and, freed at last, they leave in droves, some to six-figure corporate incomes, some to quiet trout streams, which common sense should have told them all along was what God had in mind when scenes of glory were being created.

But what of the institutions they leave behind, increasingly powerless because they are increasingly will-less, 35 strong-headed individuals, too privately egocentric and too publicly timid to get together on anything much more significant than setting a date to begin daylight saving time.

The prospects for coloring the picture more brightly do not look promising. And that, in the final analysis, is why so many are leaving, and why Presidents, even weak ones like Gerald Ford, are stronger than good sense tells us they ought to be.

Our Airways

By HERBERT MITGANG

NEW YORK — During every presidential election, the public becomes dimly aware that radio and TV stations supposedly are licensed and regulated by the federal government and are not God-given rights to familiar soap and serial stars. Since this often comes as a surprise even to the regulatory agency that renews franchises unhesitatingly every three years, it is little wonder that few people realize it is the public rather than the commercial networks that "owns" the broadcasting airwaves.

This is neither a new nor a startling notion. A year or so after the advent of commercial broadcasting in the United States, Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover told the first annual radio conference in 1922: "It is inconceivable that we should allow so great a possibility for service, for news, for entertainment, for education and for vital commercial purposes to be drowned in advertising chatter." This was long before the modern era of $100,000, sixty-second commercials singing of cat food in living color.

The quadrennial struggle for precious air time by the presidential aspirants serves as reminder of broadcasting's fundamentals and its flaws. Regulations exist to provide equal opportunities for major and minor candidates; but this year the evasions are greater than ever. The Federal Communications Commission has not insured political time and the networks have bypassed chances to carry debates at significant viewing hours.

Advertisements for themselves and spot sloganeering are the stuff of media marketing, not presidential choice. Even with a loosening of rules on broadcasting news conferences, President Ford has ducked the uncontrolled press with its embarrassing questions. Circumventing the possibility of response time by rivals, the running President has encouraged private interviews by flattered TV newsmen in certain primary states.

When Governor Reagan sought to purchase evening time, he was turned down by two commercial networks. The third network was willing to dump a situation comedy that was slated for cancellation — called "The Dumplings" — in favor of Reagan's paid half-hour message. Rules on buying time are vague but one unwritten commandment prevails; nothing, not even the presidency, shall interfere with the Nielsen ratings.

Ever since the Kennedy-Nixon debates, the commercial networks have claimed that they would undertake similar programs if not subjected to equal-time demands from peripheral candidates under the Communications Act. A recent modification in the law enabled most of the public broadcasting stations to carry a series of continuing "Presidential Forums" on various issues under sponsorship of the League of Women Voters Education Fund. The same programs were offered to the commercial networks; without exception they declined.

There is no great mystery about how to achieve an informed electorate by improved access to radio and television. The British system has worked equitably for years. During national elections, both BBC channels and the semi-independent "commercial" ITV provide free periods of time to the three main political parties and to other parties (usually just the Scottish and Welsh Nationalists) who qualify by having a certain number of nominated candidates.

Even without national elections, there are party political broadcasts and ministerial broadcasts to keep the public informed on a regular basis. Subjects and speakers are designated by the political parties themselves, and production facilities are given free.

At the heart of political programming in Great Britain is a fundamental recognition that the airwaves belong to the people. This is the essential difference between BBC-1, BBC-2, ITV and ABC, CBS and NBC. It is why such groups as the National Citizens Committee for Broadcasting in Washington, and such ex-FCC commissioners as Kenneth Cox and Nicholas Johnson advocate new standards for designated public affairs and presidential election time — without governmental guidelines or censorship.

A modest proposal before Congress calls for a mere one hour a week — out of the 22 hours of weekly prime time — for public affairs programming. And once every four years — just before major primaries and election day — the parties and nominees could be given designated prime time.

This presidential election time would be provided by the networks and stations. It would be costly only in the sense that commercials would not be permitted to intrude on thought for a certain number of hours in the presidential election season. No federal subsidies would be required, nor would the stations have to underwrite production of political programs.

This would be the obligation of the parties and candidates.

"The FCC has to encourage the fiduciary obligation to the public," Kenneth Cox says. "The fiduciary obligation to the stockholders excuse is nonsense." Such a turnabout in philosophy would require redrawing the bottom line by Congress and the FCC so that the precious, franchised public air can be ruled by its rightful owners, the American people.

Guessing Game

By JAMES RESTON

WASHINGTON — The big foreign embassies in Washington are situated in a rough triangle from the Soviet compound on lower 16th Street to the Chinese and French at the Rock Creek Park Bridge on Connecticut Ave., and thence to the British and others on the Massachusetts Avenue slope. Here is where the biggest guessing game in the world is played.

In these opulent mansions, the ambassadors and their intelligent and obedient aides are spending a good deal of time these days answering questions from their confused bosses overseas about the American presidential election.

Who is this Jimmy Carter anyway and what kind of foreign policy would he support? What is he smiling about all the time, and whom would he choose to replace Kissinger? What is the true state of Hubert Humphrey's health and who would run with him as vice president?

What are Ford's chances of (a) winning, (b) picking Nelson Rockefeller as secretary of state, and (c) pulling U.S. troops out of Europe if Italy goes communist?

Ambassadors do their best to respond to these puzzles, by having knowledgable assistants on Capitol Hill, by giving elegant dinners to senators, reporters and other so-called "experts", and by exchanging mystifying clarifications with Humphrey, who is available to everybody these days and will make an amiable guess at anything, including his own future.

Meanwhile, down in Foggy Bottom, State Department officials are likewise engaged in their own guessing game about the future politics and leadership of China, Italy, the Soviet Union and Japan, but particularly about China.

Kissinger is following the latest commotion in Peking with the closest attention. Also with some anxiety, for he has never met Hua Kuo-feng, the latest No. 2, and wonders whether the dismissal of Teng Hsiao-ping, the former No. 2, indicates some loosening of China's fragile ties to Washington.

When Chou En-lai entered upon his fatal illness, it was Teng who made a special journey to the United States to assure Secretary Kissinger that China would continue to follow Chou En-lai's policy of moderation and limited cooperation with the United States.

Also, during Kissinger's last visit to China, he was assured on the highest authority that Teng would be kept on as No. 2, but even our two latest envoys to China, David Bruce and George Bush, now both in Washington, haven't a clue to what it all means. The China experts here are not saying that the successor to Teng is anti-American or anti-West. They believe domestic considerations and personal rivalries were the main reasons for the switch.

Apparently Teng provoked considerable opposition in China by emphasizing stability and economic progress as compared to more radical and ideological policies. Also, in his position as commander of the armed forces, Teng ordered a major reshuffle of all armed forces commanders last Christmas, and evidently this did not amuse the military services. This alone may have been the reason for Teng's sudden departure, but of course nobody really knows in this part of the world.

You have no idea of the possibilities of this guessing game. Since some governments are always either staggering or falling, droves of intelligent and highly trained diplomats make a life career out of speculating on the unknowable.

For many years the future of the USSR was the main topic in the game, and the future of that mysterious country was foretold by observing the relative positions of officials standing on top of Lenin's tomb during Red Square celebrations.

Lately Spain and Portugal were big in the guessing game. After China and the United States, it will undoubtedly be Yugoslavia and the successors to Tito. But of course the local game for the moment is Jimmy Carter, and Hubert Horatio Humphrey's "3-H Club". Most diplomats have written off Wallace and Reagan but Carter's success and Humphrey's comeback astound them. Most of them had assured their governments long ago that Carter didn't have a chance and Humpty Dumpty could never be put together again.

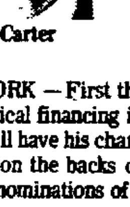
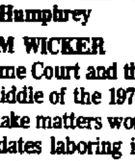
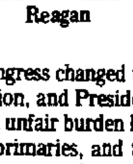
Promise Reneged



Carter



Humphrey



Reagan

By TOM WICKER

NEW YORK — First the Supreme Court and then Congress changed the rules of political financing in the middle of the 1976 election, and President Ford soon will have his chance to make matters worse. An unfair burden has been placed on the backs of candidates laboring in the primaries, and the presidential nominations of both parties might be decided as an unfortunate consequence.

Already the most active major party candidates are considering a suit against the government for payment of federal matching funds that would be due them if the rules had not been changed — funds around which they planned their campaigns and which they had a right to expect would be paid. In the hotly contested Democratic primary in Pennsylvania, for example, with three leading contenders involved, none is able to finance the kind of campaign required for good results in such a big and populous state.

That makes it more likely that Pennsylvania will not propel any of the contenders there into a clear lead for the nomination—and that in turn can only improve the chances of the non-contender Hubert Humphrey. In fact, as long as the federal matching money is not being paid, Humphrey — who is not running in primaries and has no special campaign apparatus or costs — is the Democrat who benefits most.

But his advantage is slight compared to that Ford enjoys over his single opponent, Ronald Reagan. Not only can Ford, if he chooses, campaign rather effectively and inexpensively from the White House; but as an incumbent and a front-runner, he can more easily raise private money than a challenger widely viewed as having little chance.

All this is palpably unfair to Reagan and the Democratic primary contenders who organized their campaigns and laid their financial plans on the good-faith assumption that federal matching money would be paid as promised. Surely, some way could be found to make those payments as obligations of the federal government.

The situation arose when the Supreme Court found significant sections of the campaign financing law unconstitutional, including the way the members of the FEC had been appointed. Congress then compounded the confusion; rather than making the simple legislative adjustment that would have put the FEC quickly back in business, it undertook more sweeping overhaul of the financing law. A long struggle between House and Senate ensued; conferees have now reached agreement on a bill, but it cannot be passed until after the Easter recess — and the possibility of a Ford veto apparently is real.

Meanwhile, at least $1.5 million in funds due the various candidates has accumulated in the FEC, which has remained more or less in being during the congressional impasse. Claims for matching funds apparently have been processed and approved right along, so that the money could be paid out virtually as soon as the FEC is legally reconstituted.

The situation is considerably aggravated by the fact that restrictions on raising private money remain in effect, while the supposed compensation of federal matching money is not being provided. Thus, Reagan or, say, Sen. Henry Jackson, cannot turn to a wealthy supporter for anything more than a $1,000 contribution to tide them over the present difficulty.

Under the Supreme Court ruling, however, a candidate can spend unlimited amounts of his own money, and former Gov. Jimmy Carter of Georgia is already reported to be spending some of his. His wealth is not exactly of the Rockefeller variety, but if by chance someone of unlimited means were competing this year, his advantage would be considerable.

The Court also held that, as a right of free speech, anyone who wanted could spend as much as he wanted in support of a candidate, as long as he did not coordinate the spending with the candidate's campaign.

Max Palevsky, a wealthy Californian, says he's considering mounting just such an independent campaign for Carter in California, primarily as a means of working against the possibility of a Humphrey nomination. That may be free speech, but it doesn't seem to meet Congress's original intention to limit the advantages of the wealthy in the American political system.

Embargo? What Embargo?

"Like a little boy who tends to forget why he was spanked last week, the country seems to have conveniently erased the memory of the embargo from its consciousness."

So spoke Federal Energy Administrator Frank Zarb (remember the first White House energy chief, John Love and then "Energy Czar" Bill Simon?) this week in warning that there "is an all too real possibility" that another oil embargo will be imposed by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries that "would make the last one look like a picnic."

Zarb is right. The nation has forgotten about the last oil embargo. Lines at the service stations, ten-gallon limit purchases, gasless Sundays, skyrocketing prices, dialing down and other aspects of voluntary conservation are all part of an easily forgettable recent past for most of us.

The economy is recovering, gas is in plentiful supply and the price has fallen in some areas of the country, will increase slightly with the advent of the vacation season, but has been basically stable and the past winter was mild.

Who cares that we are now more dependent than ever on foreign oil?

Not many of us really care, probably, because not many people are thinking about it. There is no reason to tighten the belt when there is plenty to eat on the table; likewise, people are loath to conserve energy when there seemingly is plenty of heating and motor fuel, natural gas and electric power. And the petroleum and gas industry is apparently reluctant to increase domestic production without price-gouging to insure even more fantastic profit margins.

Says Zarb: "OPEC has the oil we need, and they can be expected to make the most of the seller's market they enjoy. As long as we continue to become increasingly dependent on the OPEC nations for our petroleum supplies, we will be increasingly subject to arbitrary OPEC decisions on price and supply."

We have lapsed into a false sense of security brought on by economic recovery and the OPEC waiting game, but experience warns that we can't expect the present situation to achieve any sort of permanence.

The energy problem (nee crisis) has been shoved to the back burner while the nation listens to political rhetoric. A return to energy reality does not seem to be on the agenda of the next few months.

Still, now and again someone sounds a warning: an economic Pearl Harbor is ahead. It won't be as if no one ever told us.

Food For Thought

Robert Driscoll, a Chilean expert with the U.S. Department of State, talked about food in a recent interview published in The Star.

Contrary to a policy line which seems popular among a number of leading national political figures, Driscoll does not think food will be used as a foreign policy tool. "I really don't see a supply of food as much of a club in world affairs in the American political context," he said. Driscoll seems to feel that humanitarian concerns would be more important in guiding this nation's food exporting policy than transitory political differences.

Expressed reluctance to use food in a carrot-and-stick sense, with market-rocking results, should find receptive ears among farmers.

Also interesting to farmers should be Driscoll's views on Chilean agriculture and a parallel that might be drawn.

He said that Chile has the capability of feeding itself but the Chilean government had adopted a policy of subsidizing the consumer at the expense of the farmer. "They have a tremendously rich agricultural area that can produce a lot of food but the farmers don't have the economic incentive to expand food production," he said.

By subsidizing the consumer, it is assumed he meant that food prices are kept low, and further, that Chilean farming thus is unprofitable.

Such political considerations do not apply only in a relatively poor country such as Chile.

Consumer complaints in recent years have resulted in U.S. government actions which work to keep down food prices — such as the meat price ceiling and the grain embargo.

Although grain production has expanded in the U.S., it is not because the profit picture has been that bright all across the board. Grain farmers expand production more on hope for better prices, greater export sales and because land is too expensive to lay idle, than because the price is right.

Meat producers up against the cost-price squeeze either drop out or cut back.

The U.S., with the world's most sophisticated agriculture, will continue to feed itself, but the face of American agriculture could change if the U.S. government continues to be overly sensitive to consumer complaining. It could become less personal and bigger and more monopolistic at a faster rate resulting in an even higher price structure and lower quality products for the American consumer.

Who is this Jimmy Carter anyway and what kind of foreign policy would he support? What is he smiling about all the time, and whom would he choose to replace Kissinger? What is the true state of Hubert Humphrey's health and who would run with him as vice president?

What are Ford's chances of (a) winning, (b) picking Nelson Rockefeller as secretary of state, and (c) pulling U.S. troops out of Europe if Italy goes communist?

Ambassadors do their best to respond to these puzzles, by having knowledgable assistants on Capitol Hill, by giving elegant dinners to senators, reporters and other so-called "experts", and by exchanging mystifying clarifications with Humphrey, who is available to everybody these days and will make an amiable guess at anything, including his own future.

Meanwhile, down in Foggy Bottom, State Department officials are likewise engaged in their own guessing game about the future politics and leadership of China, Italy, the Soviet Union and Japan, but particularly about China.

Kissinger is following the latest commotion in Peking with the closest attention. Also with some anxiety, for he has never met Hua Kuo-feng, the latest No. 2, and wonders whether the dismissal of Teng Hsiao-ping, the former No. 2, indicates some loosening of China's fragile ties to Washington.

When Chou En-lai entered upon his fatal illness, it was Teng who made a special journey to the United States to assure Secretary Kissinger that China would continue to follow Chou En-lai's policy of moderation and limited cooperation with the United States.

Also, during Kissinger's last visit to China, he was assured on the highest authority that Teng would be kept on as No. 2, but even our two latest envoys to China, David Bruce and George Bush, now both in Washington, haven't a clue to what it all means. The China experts here are not saying that the successor to Teng is anti-American or anti-West. They believe domestic considerations and personal rivalries were the main reasons for the switch.

Apparently Teng provoked considerable opposition in China by emphasizing stability and economic progress as compared to more radical and ideological policies. Also, in his position as commander of the armed forces, Teng ordered a major reshuffle of all armed forces commanders last Christmas, and evidently this did not amuse the military services. This alone may have been the reason for Teng's sudden departure, but of course nobody really knows in this part of the world.

You have no idea of the possibilities of this guessing game. Since some governments are always either staggering or falling, droves of intelligent and highly trained diplomats make a life career out of speculating on the unknowable.

For many years the future of the USSR was the main topic in the game, and the future of that mysterious country was foretold by observing the relative positions of officials standing on top of Lenin's tomb during Red Square celebrations.

Lately Spain and Portugal were big in the guessing game. After China and the United States, it will undoubtedly be Yugoslavia and the successors to Tito. But of course the local game for the moment is Jimmy Carter, and Hubert Horatio Humphrey's "3-H Club". Most diplomats have written off Wallace and Reagan but Carter's success and Humphrey's comeback astound them. Most of them had assured their governments long ago that Carter didn't have a chance and Humpty Dumpty could never be put together again.

Promise Reneged

Carter

Humphrey

By TOM WICKER

NEW YORK — First the Supreme Court and then Congress changed the rules of political financing in the middle of the 1976 election, and President Ford soon will have his chance to make matters worse. An unfair burden has been placed on the backs of candidates laboring in the primaries, and the presidential nominations of both parties might be decided as an unfortunate consequence.

Already the most active major party candidates are considering a suit against the government for payment of federal matching funds that would be due them if the rules had not been changed — funds around which they planned their campaigns and which they had a right to expect would be paid. In the hotly contested Democratic primary in Pennsylvania, for example, with three leading contenders involved, none is able to finance the kind of campaign required for good results in such a big and populous state.

That makes it more likely that Pennsylvania will not propel any of the contenders there into a clear lead for the nomination—and that in turn can only improve the chances of the non-contender Hubert Humphrey. In fact, as long as the federal matching money is not being paid, Humphrey — who is not running in primaries and has no special campaign apparatus or costs — is the Democrat who benefits most.

But his advantage is slight compared to that Ford enjoys over his single opponent, Ronald Reagan. Not only can Ford, if he chooses, campaign rather effectively and inexpensively from the White House; but as an incumbent and a front-runner, he can more easily raise private money than a challenger widely viewed as having little chance.

All this is palpably unfair to Reagan and the Democratic primary contenders who organized their campaigns and laid their financial plans on the good-faith assumption that federal matching money would be paid as promised. Surely, some way could be found to make those payments as obligations of the federal government.

The situation arose when the Supreme Court found significant sections of the campaign financing law unconstitutional, including the way the members of the FEC had been appointed. Congress then compounded the confusion; rather than making the simple legislative adjustment that would have put the FEC quickly back in business, it undertook more sweeping overhaul of the financing law. A long struggle between House and Senate ensued; conferees have now reached agreement on a bill, but it cannot be passed until after the Easter recess — and the possibility of a Ford veto apparently is real.

Meanwhile, at least $1.5 million in funds due the various candidates has accumulated in the FEC, which has remained more or less in being during the congressional impasse. Claims for matching funds apparently have been processed and approved right along, so that the money could be paid out virtually as soon as the FEC is legally reconstituted.

The situation is considerably aggravated by the fact that restrictions on raising private money remain in effect, while the supposed compensation of federal matching money is not being provided. Thus, Reagan or, say, Sen. Henry Jackson, cannot turn to a wealthy supporter for anything more than a $1,000 contribution to tide them over the present difficulty.

Under the Supreme Court ruling, however, a candidate can spend unlimited amounts of his own money, and former Gov. Jimmy Carter of Georgia is already reported to be spending some of his. His wealth is not exactly of the Rockefeller variety, but if by chance someone of unlimited means were competing this year, his advantage would be considerable.

The Court also held that, as a right of free speech, anyone who wanted could spend as much as he wanted in support of a candidate, as long as he did not coordinate the spending with the candidate's campaign.

Max Palevesky, a wealthy Californian, says he's considering mounting just such an independent campaign for Carter in California, primarily as a means of working against the possibility of a Humphrey nomination. That may be free speech, but it doesn't seem to meet Congress's original intention to limit the advantages of the wealthy in the American political system.

Chemist Hopes For Coal Boom

By ERIC KRAMER
Associated Press Writer

Though the coal tar chemical industry in America nearly died due to cheap Middle East oil and an elaborate natural gas pipeline system, a Nebraska chemist is hoping for a revival based on Wyoming coal.

Dr. William Scheller, chairman of the University of Nebraska Department of Chemical Engineering, has the support of Gov. J. James Exon, who says he plans to ask other western governors to support the idea.

Scheller said fertilizer, gasoline, diesel fuel, plastics, pharmaceuticals, dyes, synthetic rubber and fabrics can be made from coal tar after it is extracted from coal.

Exon vetoed a legislative bill introduced by North Platte Sen. Myron Rumery which would have appropriated $10,000 for coal tar research. Exon said he felt the undertaking would be too costly for Nebraska to handle alone

Coal Fueled War

"The Germans essentially fought World War II on coal," Scheller said, noting their only oil supply was cut off when the Allies bombed captured Romanian oil fields.

Scheller said the coal tar industry faded with cheap Middle East oil. He also said that natural gas pipelines made it unnecessary for cities to operate their own plants to break coal into gas, coke and coal tar.

Scheller is working on an applicaton for planning money which Exon says he will submit to the Old West Regional Commission, a state-federal planning agancy which includes Nebraska, Wyoming, Montana, and North and South Dakota.

Exon said he may submit the plan instead to the Western Governors' Regional Energy Policy Office, a larger group which also includes Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona and Utah.

On Transportation Route

Although Nebraska has few mineral natural resources, it sits astride the historic transcontinental railroad and other major rail lines bringing western coal to the East.

Scheller said he was convinced that the chemicals that could be made were more valuable than the electricity produced by burning coal tar. But he said he would have to conduct research to show that the idea would be profitable when plant and operation costs are included.

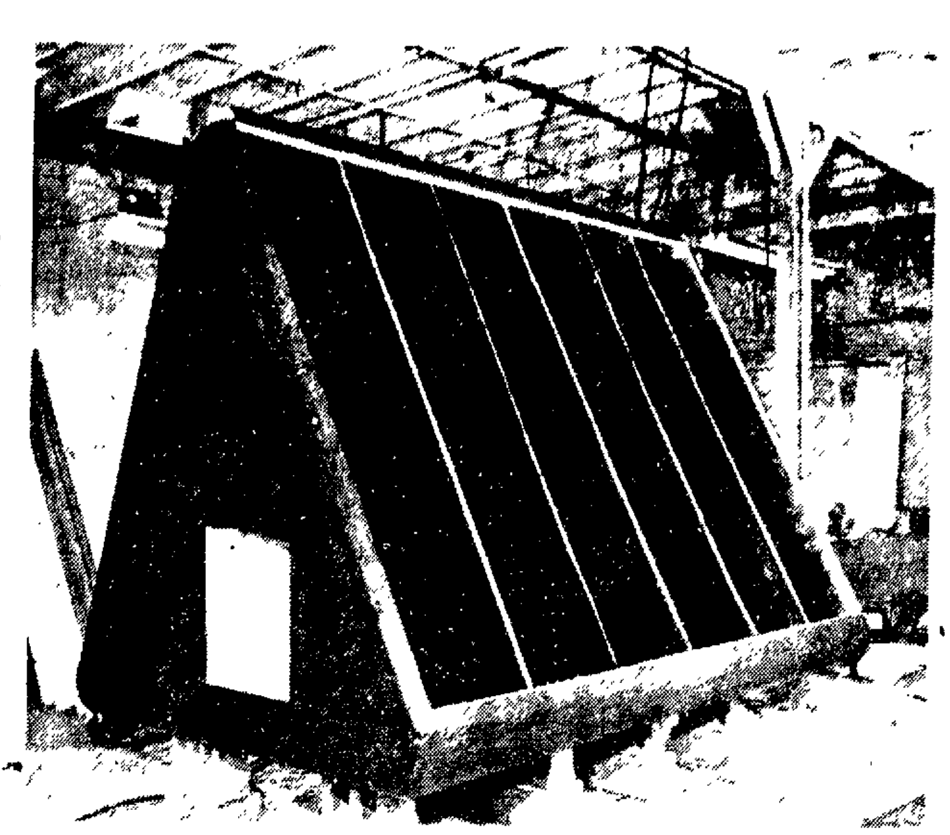
Most western coal now goes to fire electrical power plant boilers. "It bothers me to see this chemical raw material being burned under a boiler," Scheller siad, adding that the coal tar could be removed, leaving coke to fire the boilers.

Jack Ratchye, a spokesman for Peter Kiewit Sons Mining Division, which operates coal mines in Wyoming and Montana, said he believed coal would be mined for the chemical industry after power generation was taken over by nuclear facilities.

'Nylons For Years'

"They've been making nylon stockings out of it for years," Ratchye said.

"I wouldn't think that's too feasible economically," said Bob Buntain, director of power supply for the Nebraska Public Power District, a large consumer of coal. "When you use purifying and modifying processes, you run up a hell of a lot of expense." He said he would rather burn the coal directly.



SOLAR FURNACE . . . motor turns it toward sun.

York Factory To Produce Solar-Powered Furnaces

By TOM COOK
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

York — Metarmora Homes in York is about to take the concept of using solar energy to solve America's energy problems and put it into production.

Doug George, quality control supervisor, is setting up the assembly line and hopes to turn out the first Champion Solar Heating Furnace sometime next week.

The basic principal behind the furnace has been experienced by anyone who has felt the warmth of the sun striking the material of their clothing through an automobile windshield on a cold winter day.

The solar furnace is installed in the backyard and adjusted by factory-trained technicians to face the sun during winter months.

Collected By Cups

After passing through heavy glass plates, which are similar to car windshields, heat from the sunlight is collected on hundreds of aluminum cups and transferred to rocks where it is stored.

"The beauty of it is that all these things are readily available," George said. "It uses air as the transfer medium, and the rocks are just plain inch-and-a-half washed river gravel."

The only part of the system that can break down, George said, is two half-horsepower electric motors that operate fans in the furnace.

The heat collected in the solar furnace is piped to the existing heat distribution system and moved through the house in the conventional manner.

Backup Furnace

The conventional furnace is also maintained as a backup to the solar furnace in case of prolonged cloudy periods.

"If it is completely cloudy for three days, the unit will still provide heat," George said. "But if the heat inside the furnace falls below a certain level, the house's conventional furnace is automatically turned on."

The solar furnace is rated at 40-90% of needed heating capacity by the government, George said. Effectiveness depends on local climate and weather variables.

If the house is well insulated and home heat conservation practices are followed, George said the unit could provide most of the needed heat.

"Even if it's 20 below, as long as the sun is shining, the furnace will heat the house — because it collects light, not heat."

Larger units will be built to meet commercial and agricultural needs, George said, and most can be operated on about $2 a month for electricity to run the small motors.

Bob Jacobson, production manager for Metamora, said the basic home solar unit, which is about 12 feet long, will cost about $2,000.

The reason solar furnaces weren't developed in the past was the cheap availability of fuel, according to Jacobson.

But dwindling fuel supplies and environmental concerns have made the product marketable, he said.

Always Economical

"Once the investment is made, there is very little upkeep," he said. "No matter what's done on the energy front, they'll still be economical."

Jacobson said there is a backlog of orders for the furnaces and that Metamora will hire 14 new men initially with the "prospect of tremendous growth."

The first unit off the line will be installed at the York plant to heat office space. It will be open for public inspection, although the units will be sold through local distributors.

Fairbury Campus Head Relieved Of Post Friday

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Fairbury — The firing of Southeast Nebraska Technical Community College's Fairbury campus director has taken another turn with notice that he is to be relieved of his duties immediately.

Dr. Eugene Marcy, who was told in March that his contract would not be renewed upon its June 30 expiration, was informed by telephone that Friday is to be his last day. He said President Robert Eicher told him an interim director will be on campus Monday.

The notification, which Marcy called "a complete surprise," came less than 24 hours after a SeTech board meeting at which a student petition was presented asking that his job be saved. No official action was announced at the Tuesday meeting, but the board did meet in closed session.

According to Ted Doyle, board member from Fairbury, Eicher is acting at the board's direction. He said no actual vote was taken during the closed session, but that it was "consensus" that Marcy be relieved immediately. The board did not ratify its action formally in later open session, on grounds it was Eicher's administrative prerogative.

Students Said Split

"It was only a decision not to make a decision, since we had already voted in March not to renew his contract," said Doyle "Less than half the students had signed the petition so they appear to be split just as badly on Marcy as the faculty is "

Eicher said Thursday Marcy will be "relieved of all responsibilities and decision-making" as campus director, but "We will continue to honor his contract through June 30 "

That means, in effect, that Marcy will be on forced leave with full pay and benefits through the end of his contract period.

Interim Man Named

Eicher said he had mailed letters Thursday to all Fairbury staff members, the student council and Marcy, naming the interim campus director. Eicher will announce that person's name at 8 a m Friday, he said

"Hopefully, it's a positive decision for everybody."

Meanwhile, a Fairbury student group has announced its intent to picket the school when an interim director arrives Sandy Compton, a freshman who presented a 120-name petition at Tuesday's meeting, said "the student body is now madder than ever."

"First, we think Dr Marcy was given a rotten deal, but also we think it's time the students really take a stand," said Miss Compton, editor of the student newspaper and Student Senate secretary

Miss Compton said she feels the student body was ignored by the board both regarding Marcy and, earlier in the year, on a possible move to Beatrice's Pershing campus She repeated earlier assertions that the pro-Marcy petition would have contained more names except for "faculty pressure "

Feels 'Sacrificed'

Marcy himself said Thursday that he feels he was "sacrificed to bring unity to the board." He also said he felt the stepped-up firing was related to "the fact I had the gall to ask for a reconsideration "

"All the president (Eicher) told me was that I was being relieved in the best interests of the college," he stated. "No one has the guts to look me in the eye and say I'm fired or give me a reason Dr Eicher has repeatedly told me nobody is faulting the job I'm doing "

Eicher told The Star, "I felt that for the welfare of everybody — faculty, students, the board, myself, Dr Marcy, the whole situation — that it would be very difficult for Dr Marcy to work effectively and efficiently under those (lame duck) circumstances" after being fired.

Could Go Ahead

"And I felt that a person appointed on an interim basis could probably go ahead and do the things we need to do more easily than Dr. Marcy would."

Curtis Office Denies Job-For-Vote Trading

By The Associated Press

Sen. Carl Curtis' administrative assistant Thursday denied a Congressional Quarterly report that said Curtis offered to support the Ford administration's energy legislation in exchange for an appointment for one of his staff members.

Congressional Quarterly, a private editorial research service, said Curtis offered to support the legislation in exchange for an Interior Department position for press aide Mary Cassidy.

Miss Cassidy is still a Curtis aide.

Don Shasteen, the assistant, termed the report "completely false."

Shasteen did say that he told Miss Cassidy about the job and she was on the verge of getting it when Rogers C. B. Morton left his post as secretary of the Interior Department.

Congressional Quarterly quoted Curtis as saying he saw nothing wrong with the executive branch of government hiring an employe as a favor for a senator.

"It might be some insignificant matter that means a great deal to the member that the White House can help him out on," Curtis said.

Congressional Quarterly quoted a high level Commerce official as saying: "It was put to us that if we would hire the individual, he (Curtis) would support the energy legislation the President was trying to get passed."

Morton became head of the Commerce Department after leaving his post at Interior.

Larsen To Be Suggested As Arts, Sciences Dean

Dr. Max D. Larsen, currently interim dean, will be recommended for appointment as the new dean of the College of Arts and Sciences at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Interim Chancellor Adam C. Breckenridge said the recommendation will be forwarded to the Board of Regents in May. The post has been vacant since Dr. Melvin D. George resigned last summer to join the University of Missouri.

Larsen's appointment has the endorsement of Dr. Roy A. Young, who will become chancellor of the Lincoln campuses June 1, Breckenridge said.

Larsen, 35, has been interim dean the past year. He also served as interim dean and associate dean in 1974-75.

A native of Pratt, Kan., Larsen joined the NU faculty in 1966 as assistant professor of mathematics. He was promoted to associate professor in 1969 and professor in 1973.

He received his B.A. degree from Kansas State Teachers College and M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Kansas.

Kansas City, Mo. (UPI) — Iowa has received nearly $4.7 million from the U.S. Department of Labor to continue public service job programs in areas of high unemployment.

Audit Office Aid Asked At Nebraska Western

Scottsbluff (AP) — The Western Technical Community College area board of governors voted unanimously late Wednesday to ask the State Audit Office to audit Nebraska Western College's budget.

An audit of the area's activity fund, travel equipment procurement and federal funds was one of four recommendations by NWC President Charles Bensman, who earlier presented 12 administrative concerns at an executive session.

The board voted to hire an independent firm if the state agency was unable to conduct the audit.

The college area board also voted unanimously to meet May 4 to discuss consolidating the administration.

A result of the May meeting could be abolishment of both the area structure and the position of area president, currently held by William Ptacek of Scottsbluff, Bensman said. Also at stake are the jobs of about 13 staff members and a budget of $185,227.

Bensman urged board members to adopt a new organizational structure, incorporating the posts of executive board officer and Sidney campus president.

Bensman said he has developed questions about area business and administrative operations, specifically the apparent nonpayment of a $1,200 supervisory salary.

In addition, discrepancies have appeared in a financial statement to Bensman and members of the salary or welfare committee, he said.

NWC officials have cited a recent North Central Association of Colleges and Schools evaluation report, which sharply questions the area administration.

The North Central team recommended relocation of the area offices and officers, increased campus input and development of the area budget, and reducing an inbalance of resources and high costs at Western Technical.

Bensman urged board members to adopt a new organizational structure, incorporating the posts of executive board officer and Sidney campus president.

Bensman said he has developed questions about area business and administrative operations, specifically the apparent nonpayment of a $1,200 supervisory salary.

In addition, discrepancies have appeared in a financial statement to Bensman and members of the salary or welfare committee, he said.

NWC officials have cited a recent North Central Association of Colleges and Schools evaluation report, which sharply questions the area administration.

The North Central team recommended relocation of the area offices and officers, increased campus input and development of the area budget, and reducing an inbalance of resources and high costs at Western Technical.

Famous University proves MIRACLE-GRO produces greater yields—
23% MORE TOMATOES
25% MORE VEGETABLES
Compared with other popular types of plant foods*

IMPORTANT FACTS for home vegetable growers.
University tests proved MIRACLE-GRO produced greater yields of tomatoes and other vegetables compared to best known "timed release" plant food as well as other popular types of fertilizers. Tests conducted in good soils and poor soils.

MIRACLE-GRO works where other types fail.
In very poor soils, plants fed the MIRACLE-GRO way produced good tomatoes, while most plants fed with other types failed to survive.

Why MIRACLE-GRO is called "THE MIRACLE VEGETABLE FOOD"
MIRACLE-GRO provides 7 vital growth elements in fast-acting liquid form. Feeds plant through roots and leaves. University tests proved MIRACLE-GRO enters plant's "bloodstream" in 30 seconds, starts working fast. EASY, SAFE—will not burn used as directed.

Omaha Porno Palace Is Allowed To Reopen

Omaha (AP) — The Pussycat Theater closed under a temporary court order will be allowed to reopen But the theater will not be permitted to show movies or sell materials which have been judged obscene under Nebraska law

That is the effect of an order by Douglas County District Court Judge Patrick Lynch Lynch said the theater is 'an establishment specializing in pornography ' and therefore is a public nuisance under the state s obscenity laws

Lynch earlier issued an order temporarily closing the Pussycat, preventing it from doing any kind of business

Specifically Lynch ordered that the Pussycat and its owner American Theater Corp , stop distributing selling or exhibiting movies books magazines and other materials which already have been ruled obscene by juries This covers about 32 items

The judge also ordered the firms to stop distributing about 770 such items which were in the theater s inventory in mid-February Lynch reviewed the items and declared them obscene

He ordered the firms to not operate as a public nuisance ' anywhere in his judicial district This prohibits the theater from showing films and selling materials which aren t specifically cited in the court order but which could be considered obscene under state law

Lynch said the theater operators would violate his order and be subject to punishment for contempt of court if they operate the theater as it has been in the past

The court order resulted from a request by City Prosecutor Gary Bucchino that the Pussycat be prohibited from distributing sexually explicit materials

Favoritism Seen By Auditor's Staff

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Several members of the state auditor's staff say they are disturbed about the way Auditor Ray A. C. Johnson is cutting back staff to accommodate funding reductions by the Legislature.

They charge that politics and favoritism are playing a major role and that seniority is not being considered.

Johnson denied the charges and said he is deciding who to cut by considering auditing needs and staff members' capabilities.

Asked if this meant "trimming away the deadwood," Johnson replied, "You said that, not me."

So far six staff members, including two certified public accountants and one auditor who has been with the staff nine years, have been among those given notice their jobs will terminate with the beginning of the new fiscal year on July 1.

Deputy State Auditor Harvey Carne has indicated he will retire shortly, and Chuck Patteson, currently head of performance audits, reportedly will succeed Carne. Johnson, however, said he has not chosen a successor.

The cutbacks are necessitated by the Legislature's decision to eliminate funds for performance auditing.

However, only one member of the performance audit staff is being terminated; he is Dale Dworak. Others who will leave are Charles Prachensky, Don Wunderlich, Ray Fechter, Doris May and Lawson Spealman.

The charge of favoritism stems from the fact Johnson plans to hire his nephew, Warren Johnson of Kansas City, to work as an auditing intern this summer. He will be paid $2.85 an hour.

Politics, critics charge, is the reason Mrs. Glea Romans, a receptionist and wife of Public Service Commissioner Jack Romans, is not among those being laid off. Both Johnson and Romans are Republicans.

In addition, those discontented with Johnson's actions noted that two CPAs were let go the day Johnson hired a new CPA, Bob Reinders, to being work shortly.

Johnson said deciding where to make the cutbacks was a difficult decision. He said he kept the workload the office will have to maintain as well as staff capabilities in mind in making the cuts.

Scottsbluff Fire Kills Man

Scottsbluff (AP) — Clifford Keil, 26, died early Thursday of burns received when fire destroyed his mobile home at the east edge of Scottsbluff, Deputy Coroner W. H. Kirwin said.

Kirwin said an autopsy was performed.

The mobile home was totally engulfed in flames when firemen arrived, Kirwin said.

Central City Bond Election June 1

Central City — In a special meeting, the Central City Board of Education decided to hold a school bond election June 1. The proposed $3,088,000 project calls for plans to build an 80,000 square foot addition to the downtown elementary school; and remodeling of the South Ward elementary school.

Price Named To Beatrice Council

Beatrice — Wayne R. Price, 33, chief psychologist at the Blue Valley Mental Health Center, was appointed by Mayor Robert Sargent to fill the vacant seat on the Beatrice City Council. Price will replace Rod Henning, who resigned from the council March 2 when he moved out of the Second Ward.

21-Mile Bike Trail Proposed

Columbus (AP) — The Columbus City Council has heard plans for a proposed 21-mile bicycle trail, to parallel the Mormon trail between Columbus and Genoa. Columbus Sen. Donald Dworak will present the plan to the Natural Resources District and Lt. Gov. Gerald Whelan next month. The trail cost has been placed at near $700,000 and would be operated on 80% federal and 20% local funds.

Broken Bow, Brady Get EPA Grants

North Platte (AP) — Rep. Virginia Smith, R-Neb., has announced grants from the Environmental Protection Agency for the communities of Broken Bow and Brady. She said Broken Bow will receive $6,970 and Brady $4,120. Both qualified for grants to enable them to prepare a waste water treatment works facility plan.

Wallaby 'Adopts' Flannel Shirt

Omaha (AP) — An old flannel shirt has become an adopted "mother" for a rejected young wallaby at Omaha's Henry Doorly Zoo. Zoo director Dr. Lese Simmons said he is optimistic about the survival chances of the "joey," estimated to be about 2½ months old. It is not known why the mother rejected its offspring. The shirt helps provide essential warmth for the young animal.

More Areas OKd For Flood Insurance

New York (UPI) — Two more areas in Nebraska Thursday became eligible for government-subsidized flood insurance offered through the National Flood Insurers Association. The association said the Royal-Globe Insurance Co., Kansas City, Mo., would act as the insurer for the Brown County community of Ainsworth and unincorporated areas of Webster County. Flood protection is exempt from regular property insurance forms.

Ogallala Authorities Investigate Death Of Man Found On Tracks

Ogallala (AP) — Ogallala authorities are investigating the death of an unidentified man found Thursday about one-half mile east of here on the Union Pacific railroad tracks.

Authorities said the body was found about 2 p.m. by three railroad employes who noticed a conductor on a train pointing to the rear as the train passed.

Authorities said the man may have been struck by the train or may have fallen from the train. But they said he was not run over by the train.

Favoritism Seen By Auditor's Staff

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Several members of the state auditor's staff say they are disturbed about the way Auditor Ray A. C. Johnson is cutting back staff to accommodate funding reductions by the Legislature.

They charge that politics and favoritism are playing a major role and that seniority is not being considered.

Johnson denied the charges and said he is deciding who to cut by considering auditing needs and staff members' capabilities.

Asked if this meant "trimming away the deadwood," Johnson replied, "You said that, not me."

So far six staff members, including two certified public accountants and one auditor who has been with the staff nine years, have been among those given notice their jobs will terminate with the beginning of the new fiscal year on July 1.

Deputy State Auditor Harvey Carne has indicated he will retire shortly, and Chuck Patteson, currently head of performance audits, reportedly will succeed Carne. Johnson, however, said he has not chosen a successor.

The cutbacks are necessitated by the Legislature's decision to eliminate funds for performance auditing.

However, only one member of the performance audit staff is being terminated; he is Dale Dworak. Others who will leave are Charles Prachensky, Don Wunderlich, Ray Fechter, Doris May and Lawson Spealman.

The charge of favoritism stems from the fact Johnson plans to hire his nephew, Warren Johnson of Kansas City, to work as an auditing intern this summer. He will be paid $2.85 an hour.

Politics, critics charge, is the reason Mrs. Glea Romans, a receptionist and wife of Public Service Commissioner Jack Romans, is not among those being laid off. Both Johnson and Romans are Republicans.

In addition, those discontented with Johnson's actions noted that two CPAs were let go the day Johnson hired a new CPA, Bob Reinders, to being work shortly.

Johnson said deciding where to make the cutbacks was a difficult decision. He said he kept the workload the office will have to maintain as well as staff capabilities in mind in making the cuts.

Scottsbluff Fire Kills Man

Scottsbluff (AP) — Clifford Keil, 26, died early Thursday of burns received when fire destroyed his mobile home at the east edge of Scottsbluff, Deputy Coroner W. H. Kirwin said.

Kirwin said an autopsy was performed.

The mobile home was totally engulfed in flames when firemen arrived, Kirwin said.

Central City Bond Election June 1

Central City — In a special meeting, the Central City Board of Education decided to hold a school bond election June 1. The proposed $3,088,000 project calls for plans to build an 80,000 square foot addition to the downtown elementary school; and remodeling of the South Ward elementary school.

Price Named To Beatrice Council

Beatrice — Wayne R. Price, 33, chief psychologist at the Blue Valley Mental Health Center, was appointed by Mayor Robert Sargent to fill the vacant seat on the Beatrice City Council. Price will replace Rod Henning, who resigned from the council March 2 when he moved out of the Second Ward.

21-Mile Bike Trail Proposed

Columbus (AP) — The Columbus City Council has heard plans for a proposed 21-mile bicycle trail, to parallel the Mormon trail between Columbus and Genoa. Columbus Sen. Donald Dworak will present the plan to the Natural Resources District and Lt. Gov. Gerald Whelan next month. The trail cost has been placed at near $700,000 and would be operated on 80% federal and 20% local funds.

Broken Bow, Brady Get EPA Grants

North Platte (AP) — Rep. Virginia Smith, R-Neb., has announced grants from the Environmental Protection Agency for the communities of Broken Bow and Brady. She said Broken Bow will receive $6,970 and Brady $4,120. Both qualified for grants to enable them to prepare a waste water treatment works facility plan.

Wallaby 'Adopts' Flannel Shirt

Omaha (AP) — An old flannel shirt has become an adopted "mother" for a rejected young wallaby at Omaha's Henry Doorly Zoo. Zoo director Dr. Lese Simmons said he is optimistic about the survival chances of the "joey," estimated to be about 2½ months old. It is not known why the mother rejected its offspring. The shirt helps provide essential warmth for the young animal.

More Areas OKd For Flood Insurance

New York (UPI) — Two more areas in Nebraska Thursday became eligible for government-subsidized flood insurance offered through the National Flood Insurers Association. The association said the Royal-Globe Insurance Co., Kansas City, Mo., would act as the insurer for the Brown County community of Ainsworth and unincorporated areas of Webster County. Flood protection is exempt from regular property insurance forms.

Ogallala Authorities Investigate Death Of Man Found On Tracks

Ogallala (AP) — Ogallala authorities are investigating the death of an unidentified man found Thursday about one-half mile east of here on the Union Pacific railroad tracks.

Authorities said the body was found about 2 p.m. by three railroad employes who noticed a conductor on a train pointing to the rear as the train passed.

Authorities said the man may have been struck by the train or may have fallen from the train. But they said he was not run over by the train.

States Fighting Mandatory Pesticide Training For Farmers

Fourteen years after Rachel Carson wrote "Silent Spring" and four years after Congress passed the Federal Environmental Pesticide Act, some states are still holding out against mandatory training for farmers using pesticides

The Environmental Protection Agency has threatened to prohibit application of highly toxic chemicals in Nebraska after October 1977 unless a compulsory program for certification of "private applicators" is established.

Although experts predicted severe economic loss to farmers if the so-called "restricted use" chemicals are embargoed, the Legislature rejected mandatory training for noncommercial pesticide users.

"I think farmers are quite expert in the field of pestirides," said Colorado State Sen. Kenneth I. Kinnie, R-Julesburg. He is chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, which killed a bill that would have required farmers to undergo training.

"They couldn't provide evidence of damage in this state caused by pesticides," said Kinnie, adding that he hoped the Colorado Legislature would again reject legislation next year. "I assume that's what will happen."

Bill Buffaloe of the North Carolina Department of Agriclture said the state's Pesticide Board, a group appointed by the governor, rejected mandatory certification of private applicators. Instead, the board recommended a voluntary training program, he said.

Bob Roselle, an entomologist for the University of Nebraska, estimates root worms could destroy 70 million bushels of Nebraska's 500-million bushel corn crop if chemicals are not available. The lost corn could fill 200 grain trains each 100 cars long or feed a million yearling cattle to slaughter weight.

Although the EPA has not issued its list of restricted use chemicals, three of the principle root worm chemicals—Furadan, Dyfunate and Thimet—are on tentative EPA lists. Roselie said Counter, the other major root worm chemical, was very similar to Thimet and would probably be on the final list.

However, the majority of the states have adopted a program for regulating private pesticide applicators and there is very little opposition to regulating commercial applicators. Oren W. Spilker of the Ohio Department of Agriculture said the program was "well received by most of the people."

Some states figure lost crops would be too great a price to pay.

"We won't be happy to certify the private applicators," said Oklahoma State Rep. David Stratton, D-Clinton, Okla. But he added, "I think our attitude is going to be to do whatever is required" to prevent a chemical cut off.

"Farmers felt they should be able to put on (pesticides) on their own farm," said Wisconsin State Rep. David O'Malley, D-Waunakee, Wis. However, he said, "I think it will be passed next year when it is required." In an effort to reach a compromise, Congress and the Environmental Protection Agency offered a plan in 1975 which requires farmers to attend a brief training session, (but exempts them from examinations).

The chairman of the Agriculture Committee of the Nebraska Legislature, Sen. Loran Schmit of Bellwood, was intrigued by that idea.

"As a farmer, I can slough off by sitting through a four hour session, sleeping if I want to, and smoking a cigar, and get by and I can still go out and apply restricted chemicals?" Schmit asked at a hearing.

"Absolutely," responded John Wickland, an EPA pesticide administrator from Kansas City. Schmit said he feared the course might only serve to build up false confidence in farmers who are now afraid to use some of the more dangerous chemicals. The no testing plan is being implemented by several states including Kentucky, Minnesota and Idaho.

"We feel it is an adequate program and meets Minnesota's needs," said Mike Fresrik, a pesticide specialist in the Minnesota Department of Agriculture.

Two Honored By UNL Ag Club For Service

A Nebraska agriculture industry leader and an assistant professor of agronomy were awarded honorary memberships in the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Agronomy Club at an annual awards banquet Thursday.

Clare R. Porter, general manager of NC-Plus Hybrids, Inc. of Lincoln, and Dr. L.J. Perry Jr., assistant professor of agronomy at NU, were recognized for their service to agriculture and to the university.

Porter, a native of Stafford, Kan., organized NC-Plus Hybrids, Inc. in 1948 and has a long record of productive service to agronomy and agriculture in general. He is a graduate of Kansas State University. He was a past president of the International Crop Improvement Association and Agriculture Builders of Nebraska, a non-profit organization dedicated to improving Nebraska agriculture which he co-founded in 1969.

Dr. Perry, an assistant professor of agronomy at UNL since 1972, received his B.S. degree from the University of Wyoming, his M.S. from North Dakota State University and his Ph.D. in plant and soil science in 1972 from Montana State University. His work at UNL involves teaching and research in range and pasture management and forage evaluation.

The ever increasing complexities of society demand improved management skills and strong leadership, Dr. Martin Massengale, vice chancellor of the UNL Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources, told the group.

Massengale said leadership is everyone's responsibility, including those who are oriented toward agriculture or agribusiness.

The Agronomy Club's Advisor's Award went to Dan Monaghan of Percival, Iowa; Keith Johnson of York was named outstanding senior.

Bob Nielson of Gretna won the $500 Keim Scholarship and Bill Siefert of Bennet won the $200 Vogel Scholarship.

Joe McBride of Brule took first place honors and Paul Hejny of Crete took second in the symposium contest.

Winners in the club's crops and weed identification contests were also cited at the banquet.

Winners in the senior division were: Keith Johnson of York, first; Gerald Dvorak of Wilber, second; and Dan Monaghan of Lincoln, third.

Junior division winners: Cheryl Nielsen of Lincoln, first; Charles Otte of Lincoln, second; Lonnie Koepke of Hoskins, third; and Lyle George of Dixon, fourth

Allen Unger of McCook took first place honors as top speaker. Sid Cornelius of Madrid placed second; Keith Johnson of York, third; and Bill Siefert of Bennet, fourth.

Writing the winning essay was Keith Johnson of York. John Fischbach of Lincoln placed second; Russ Olson of Newport, third; and Gene Hobbie of Lincoln, fourth.

New officers of the Agronomy Club were installed during the banquet. They are:

Grain Stocks Above 1974 Level

Nebraska feed grain stocks (corn, oats, barley and grain sorghum) held by farmers and commercial warehouses totaled 8.6 million tons on April 1, according to Jack Aschwege, state statistician, State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics.

This was 34% above the drought-depressed level of last year, but was 22% below April of 1974. And except for last year was the lowest since 1957.

Indicated disappearance, which includes out-of-state shipments and in-state usage totaled 5.7 million tons during the first quarter of 1976. This was 43% greater than last year, but 2% below the comparable period of 1974.

Corn supplies in all Nebraska locations totaled 253 million bushels, 38% above last year but 18% below April 1, 1974. Disappearance of 154 million bushels during January to March was up 29% from last year.

Grain sorghum stocks totaled nearly 46 million bushels, up 23% from last year but 42% below the 1974 comparable date. Disappearance was more than double the low level of 1974.

Oats on hand April 1 were estimated at 14 million bushels, down 6% from last year but 16% above April 1 of 1974.

Barley stocks under 1 million bushels were down 22% from last year.

Wheat stocks in all locations totaled over 48 million bushels, up 28% from last year. Disappearance the past quarter totaled just over 21 million bushels, down 3% from last year.

Rye stocks are small in Nebraska and at only 100,000 bushels are less than half of last year.

Soybean supplies on April 1 in Nebraska totaled 24 million bushels, 5% greater than last year. Indicated disappearance totaled nearly 9 million bushels during the past quarter, up 76% from last year's low level.

Attorney Appointed In Macy Slaying

Omaha (UPI) — A policeman on the Macy Indian Reservation asked for and received a court-appointed attorney Thursday to defend him on an involuntary manslaughter charge in the shooting death of a police dispatcher.

U.S. Magistrate Richard C. Peck granted the request of Walter O. Grant, 24, Macy, who was taken into custody in Macy Wednesday by FBI agents for the shooting death of Glenn B. Hollowell, 20, Macy.

Peck Thursday continued Grant's $1,000 unsecured signature bond signed late Wednesday during the initial part of the arraignment proceedings. Peck had continued the proceedings until Thursday to allow Grant and his family time to consider whether he would ask for court-appointed counsel.

He is a graduate of Kansas State University. He was a past president of the International Crop Improvement Association and Agriculture Builders of Nebraska, a non-profit organization dedicated to improving Nebraska agriculture which he co-founded in 1969.

Dr. Perry, an assistant professor of agronomy at UNL since 1972, received his B.S. degree from the University of Wyoming, his M.S. from North Dakota State University and his Ph.D. in plant and soil science in 1972 from Montana State University. His work at UNL involves teaching and research in range and pasture management and forage evaluation.

The ever increasing complexities of society demand improved management skills and strong leadership, Dr. Martin Massengale, vice chancellor of the UNL Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources, told the group.

Massengale said leadership is everyone's responsibility, including those who are oriented toward agriculture or agribusiness.

The Agronomy Club's Advisor's Award went to Dan Monaghan of Percival, Iowa; Keith Johnson of York was named outstanding senior.

Bob Nielson of Gretna won the $500 Keim Scholarship and Bill Siefert of Bennet won the $200 Vogel Scholarship.

Joe McBride of Brule took first place honors and Paul Hejny of Crete took second in the symposium contest.

Winners in the club's crops and weed identification contests were also cited at the banquet.

Winners in the senior division were: Keith Johnson of York, first; Gerald Dvorak of Wilber, second; and Dan Monaghan of Lincoln, third.

Junior division winners: Cheryl Nielsen of Lincoln, first; Charles Otte of Lincoln, second; Lonnie Koepke of Hoskins, third; and Lyle George of Dixon, fourth.

Allen Unger of McCook took first place honors as top speaker. Sid Cornelius of Madrid placed second; Keith Johnson of York, third; and Bill Siefert of Bennet, fourth.

Writing the winning essay was Keith Johnson of York. John Fischbach of Lincoln placed second; Russ Olson of Newport, third; and Gene Hobbie of Lincoln, fourth.

New officers of the Agronomy Club were installed during the banquet. They are:

Grain Stocks Above 1974 Level

Nebraska feed grain stocks (corn, oats, barley and grain sorghum) held by farmers and commercial warehouses totaled 8.6 million tons on April 1, according to Jack Aschwege, state statistician, State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics.

This was 34% above the drought-depressed level of last year, but was 22% below April of 1974. And except for last year was the lowest since 1957.

Indicated disappearance, which includes out-of-state shipments and in-state usage totaled 5.7 million tons during the first quarter of 1976. This was 43% greater than last year, but 2% below the comparable period of 1974.

Corn supplies in all Nebraska locations totaled 253 million bushels, 38% above last year but 18% below April 1, 1974. Disappearance of 154 million bushels during January to March was up 29% from last year.

Grain sorghum stocks totaled nearly 46 million bushels, up 23% from last year but 42% below the 1974 comparable date. Disappearance was more than double the low level of 1974.

Oats on hand April 1 were estimated at 14 million bushels, down 6% from last year but 16% above April 1 of 1974.

Barley stocks under 1 million bushels were down 22% from last year.

Wheat stocks in all locations totaled over 48 million bushels, up 28% from last year. Disappearance the past quarter totaled just over 21 million bushels, down 3% from last year.

Rye stocks are small in Nebraska and at only 100,000 bushels are less than half of last year.

Soybean supplies on April 1 in Nebraska totaled 24 million bushels, 5% greater than last year. Indicated disappearance totaled nearly 9 million bushels during the past quarter, up 76% from last year's low level.

Attorney Appointed In Macy Slaying

Omaha (UPI) — A policeman on the Macy Indian Reservation asked for and received a court-appointed attorney Thursday to defend him on an involuntary manslaughter charge in the shooting death of a police dispatcher.

U.S. Magistrate Richard C. Peck granted the request of Walter O. Grant, 24, Macy, who was taken into custody in Macy Wednesday by FBI agents for the shooting death of Glenn B. Hollowell, 20, Macy.

Peck Thursday continued Grant's $1,000 unsecured signature bond signed late Wednesday during the initial part of the arraignment proceedings. Peck had continued the proceedings until Thursday to allow Grant and his family time to consider whether he would ask for court-appointed counsel.

N. Dakotan May Take Indian Post

A Bismarck, N.D., man, Felix White, 42, has "tentatively accepted" the director's post with the Nebraska Indian Commission.

Commission Member Imogene Haukaas of Lincoln confirmed Thursday that White has accepted the post pending salary negotiations which she said should be completed before May 1, when White is expected to take the post

The commission has been without a director since the ouster of Bob Mackey Jan. 30. Mackey has charged that Gov. J. James Exon loaded the commission in order to remove him and said he will file suit to seek reinstatement.

In an interview, White, a former Omahan, said he would attempt to improve communications between Indians and the state.

He said: "My personal endeavor would be to unite the Indian people. I've met society's demands and I hope I can transmit this to some of my people."

White said he is not familiar with Mackey's ouster but said he hopes to meet with Mackey if he accepts the job.

Open House Scheduled At Plainview

Lincoln Star Special

Plainview — Open house will be held Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m. for the new addition and remodeling projects at the Plainview Public Hospital.

Originally dedicated in 1969, the hospital was built with a $300,000 bond issue. However, due to failure to receive an expected $200,000 in federal funds, construction plans were cut back, according to Ivan L. Craft, hospital administrator.

Later a proposed bond issue for an addition and remodeling project was turned down by voters.

The hospital board, still faced with the need for additions and remodeling the hospital, studied the revenue bond route and was successful in the issuance of revenue bonds totaling $170,000. In addition, federal funds became available for an additional $89,657 allocated to aid the program.

Improvements and additions to the hospital include a new emergency room, an out-patient treatment room, an enclosed ambulance area, new waiting area for out-patient or emergency patient relatives, an addition to the kitchen, a new laundry facility, a medical records room, a meditation room, a cafeteria for employes, women and men's locker rooms, an isolation room, an enlarged business office and lobby area, and the addition of a hydro-therapy room.

Federal Grant Saves 400 Jobs In Omaha Area

Omaha (AP) — About 400 persons employed in public service jobs in the Omaha area have gotten a reprieve from unemployment.

Dale Moeykens, director of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Agency, said an unexpected $2.1 million federal grant will keep them at work until at least June 30

The 400 were to have been laid off April 30. Another 200 were to be laid off June 30.

Most of the 400 work for nonprofit agencies in Douglas or Sarpy counties. The 200 work for local governments.

Moeykens said between 400 and 500 have been laid off in recent months. The grant will end the layoffs for now.

Cengas Is First Recipient Of Energy Action Award

Cengas was honored Thursday as the first recipient of the Mayor's Energy Action Award in conjunction with its thermal scanning project

Mayor Helen Boosalis, in presenting the award, said that the Lincoln Energy Action Committee appointed in January made an early recommendation that an award be established for leadership in the energy conservation area

Cengas took the initiative, she said, to enable thousands of Lincolnites to see through thermogram results if their homes were properly insulated and to take action accordingly to conserve energy and cut heating and cooling costs

It is difficult to estimate the savings involved as a result of the program, but as of March 31, 17,352 Lincoln homeowners and business people had looked at the thermograms Of these 60% found some improvement needed to be made in their property, according to the mayor

The project has generated national attention and the president of Minnesota Gas Co which recently purchased Cengas from Central Telephone and Utilities (CTU) Thursday commended Cengas on its infra-red scanning technique to determine the heat loss of buildings and houses, adding, "I wish I'd have thought of that "

Helping the consumer to save costs and by so doing saving energy was the prime reason for the Cengas pilot project which is completely voluntary, according to Clancy Woolman, marketing manager for Cengas

Cengas encourages all to check the thermogram results, but whether a customer chooses to add insulation to his property is entirely that customer's decision

Cengas has indicated that it may do a followup study in about two years to determine if the insulation picture as recorded on the thermograms may have changed

Udall Delegate Candidate Morrison Praises Church

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Although still a delegate candidate committed to support Congressman Morris Udall, former Gov. Frank Morrison Thursday heaped high praise on Sen. Frank Church.

"There is no better qualified man to be president than Frank Church," Morrison said in a telephone interview from Omaha.

"I think it would be in the best interest of this nation to have Church in charge of our foreign policy.

"I think it is absolutely essential that he either be the next president, vice president or secretary of state."

Church and Udall are contenders in next month's Democratic presidential primary election.

Morrison pledged his support to Udall last October, months before Church entered the Democratic presidential race.

At the time, he said the endorsement was "unequivocal and final," and Morrison kept his pledge by filing as a national convention delegate candidate committed to support the Arizona congressman.

Morrison declined to say whether he would have chosen Church if he had entered the contest earlier. "That's speculative," he suggested.

"I'm a Udall delegate candidate," Morrison said. "I am a great admirer of Mo Udall."

Udall and Church share common characteristics which Morrison admires, he said.

"They are both very direct. They don't equivocate. They have their feet firmly on the ground And they don't play Mickey Mouse with the American people."

Morrison said he also likes Jimmy Carter, and "if he carries Pennsylvania next week, he will be in a strategic position to get the nomination.

"All three are high on my list," Morrison declared.

Morrison's views were solicited in view of his wife's participation in this week's campaign bus tour by Church through the Platte Valley.

At various stops along the way, Maxine Morrison said her husband believes the Idaho senator is "the best man qualified to be President."

Morrison headed Sen. George McGovern's successful presidential primary campaign in Nebraska in 1972.

Responding to his wife's statements, Morrison said there would have been "no Vietnam debacle and no Watergate" if Church had been president.

"In many, many respects, I think he is the best qualified man to be President.

"But I'm a Udall delegate candidate, and I'm going to support Udall."

Gov. Exon Thinks Carter Would Win Primary Now

By The Associated Press

Although Gov. J. J. Exon is a delegate candidate pledged to Sen. Henry Jackson, he concedes Jimmy Carter probably would win Nebraska's Democratic presidential primary if it were held now.

"If the primary were held today, I would expect Gov. Carter would probably receive the highest popular vote," Exon said Wednesday.

"I think a great deal rests on the outcome of the Pennsylvania primary. The Nebraska vote could be influenced by that to a considerable extent."

Exon said he isn't supporting Jackson as a stalking horse candidate on behalf of Sen. Hubert Humphrey, who appears to be sidling toward candidacy. The Democratic governor acknowledged, however, that it "probably is safe to assume a good portion" of Jackson's supporters would be comfortable with the Minnesota Democrat if Jackson continues to falter.

Exon became a delegate candidate pledged to the Washington lawmaker after Jackson won in Massachusetts, but now faces the prospect of a possible loss in the Nebraska delegate derby. Cautious and indicating he wasn't acknowledging he would be left out of the Nebraska Democratic delegation to New York City, Exon indicated he wasn't certain whether he would go to the convention as an alternate or an observer if he loses as a Jackson supporter.

The governor lost four years ago when he ran as an uncommitted delegate candidate, but he attended the convention as an alternate chosen at the party's state convention.

Along with his analysis that former Georgia Gov. Carter was leading in Nebraska, Exon tabbed Idaho Sen. Frank Church as a possible "significant factor." Church, mounting a late presidential bid, is starting his primary campaign trail with Nebraska's May 11 primary. He is the most active presidential hopeful campaigning in the state.

Humphrey's name also is on the ballot despite his current disavowal of candidacy. State law makes Nebraska's primary all-star in nature so both Humphrey and Edward Kennedy are on the ballot.

The Pennsylvania primary is April 27, two weeks before Nebraskans go to the polls.

Exon Hasn't Formally Endorsed Any Candidates For Unicameral

By United Press International

Gov. J. J. Exon said Thursday he has not formally endorsed any candidate for the Unicameral this year and probably won't.

"I'm not sure I should get into that," said Exon in an interview, adding he could recall giving a formal endorsement to only one state senator, William Skarda of Omaha, when he was running for re-election four years ago.

However, the governor said there are a few running for the Unicameral who he is willing to "answer questions" for, or something else short of an active endorsement, as they either bid for a Unicameral seat or seek another term in office.

Two of those are Sen. Eugene Mahoney of Omaha and Guy Cooper of Humboldt.

Exon, when Mahoney indicated he was considering having his name removed from the ballot after he had already filed for re-election, admitted he was among those who took an active part in convincing the veteran Omaha lawmaker he should run again.

In Cooper's case, Exon answered questions posed by the former Nebraska Public Power District director about incumbent opponent Irving Wiltse of Falls City. In turn, Cooper used Exon's answers in his campaign radio spots.

The governor said even though the letters were used with his permission, "I have not made a formal endorsement."

In one of those spots, Exon was quoted as saying:

"You certainly could say every time you talk that Sen. Wiltse has been one of the weakest links of all in supporting Gov. Exon in his battle to hold down spending."

Exon said he did write those specific comments and was asked about using them by radio station KTNC at Falls City when they appeared in Cooper's campaign spots aired on that station.

"Guy Cooper is an old friend of mine and he has consulted a great deal with me about things important to the state," the governor said. "We don't agree on everything, but I think he is a man of good judgment."

Other Exon comments used by Cooper referred to Wiltse's voting record on veto override attempts in the last few days of this year's session.

Records show Wiltse voted for a $15 million increase in state aid and for an appropriation to buy an empty dormitory on the Peru State college campus from bondholders for a classroom-office building, neither of which was enacted over the vetoes.

He was on the prevailing side to set aside line-item veto reductions in the University of Nebraska budget and the veto of an expansion of the old age and disability benefits programs.

He voted on the prevailing side against overriding the veto of a measure to appropriate $2.2 million for a physical education building on the NU Omaha campus.

Church: U.S. No Longer Feedbed Of Revolution

North Platte (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church, hoping voter acceptance in the western Nebraska ranch and wheat country will prove decisive in the May 11 primary, Thursday said the country has drifted from the revolutionary principles on which it was founded. Addressing 1,100 persons at the North Platte High School, most of them below voting age, on his second day of a three-day campaign tour, Church said the United States was the "feedbed of revolution" 200 years ago but has since become very conservative.

"But we ought not to forget our roots," he said. "I am proudest (that) after these 200 years we're still a free people but I'm disturbed about the future of freedom in this country because we have strayed so far from the principles on which this country was founded."

He recalled the concept that no one rules by divine right was established in this country "and then the former President, Mr. Nixon, worte my committee saying, in effect, 'I broke the law . . . I did so because as president I was sovereign'."

The president is not sovereign but the people are, Church said, "and if we don't get that straight, then the future of this country is bleak."

During a question and answer session, Church said, "with revolutions, we keep picking the losing side." In this country's revolution, he said, "We had help from the French and we could not have won without them. But after our revolution, France didn't run us."

He said Russia and Cuba won't run Angola, and Vietnam is not a satellite of either Russia or China.

"The Russians gave us all the rope in the world to hang ourselves in Southeast Asia and I wish we would have the sense to return that favor in Africa," he said.

Carter's Aunt To Open Local Campaign HQ

Democratic presidential candidate Jimmy Carter's aunt, Emily Frances Dolvin, will be in Lincoln Saturday to open Carter's Capital City campaign headquarters.

The opening at 1106 N. 27th is scheduled for 10 a.m.

Later, she will attend a $10 fund-raising dinner at the Clayton House at 7 p.m. Advance reservations are required.

Carter supporters have also scheduled a television watch party to monitor returns from the Pennsylvania primary election Tuesday night.

That event, at $5 a ticket, will be held at Chateau LaFleur beginning at 8 p.m.

Exon Hasn't Formally Endorsed Any Candidates For Unicameral

By United Press International

Gov. J. J. Exon said Thursday he has not formally endorsed any candidate for the Unicameral this year and probably won't.

"I'm not sure I should get into that," said Exon in an interview, adding he could recall giving a formal endorsement to only one state senator, William Skarda of Omaha, when he was running for re-election four years ago.

However, the governor said there are a few running for the Unicameral who he is willing to "answer questions" for, or something else short of an active endorsement, as they either bid for a Unicameral seat or seek another term in office.

Two of those are Sen. Eugene Mahoney of Omaha and Guy Cooper of Humboldt.

Exon, when Mahoney indicated he was considering having his name removed from the ballot after he had already filed for re-election, admitted he was among those who took an active part in convincing the veteran Omaha lawmaker he should run again.

In Cooper's case, Exon answered questions posed by the former Nebraska Public Power District director about incumbent opponent Irving Wiltse of Falls City. In turn, Cooper used Exon's answers in his campaign radio spots.

The governor said even though the letters were used with his permission, "I have not made a formal endorsement."

In one of those spots, Exon was quoted as saying:

"You certainly could say every time you talk that Sen. Wiltse has been one of the weakest links of all in supporting Gov. Exon in his battle to hold down spending."

Exon said he did write those specific comments and was asked about using them by radio station KTNC at Falls City when they appeared in Cooper's campaign spots aired on that station.

"Guy Cooper is an old friend of mine and he has consulted a great deal with me about things important to the state," the governor said. "We don't agree on everything, but I think he is a man of good judgment."

Other Exon comments used by Cooper referred to Wiltse's voting record on veto override attempts in the last few days of this year's session.

Records show Wiltse voted for a $15 million increase in state aid and for an appropriation to buy an empty dormitory on the Peru State college campus from bondholders for a classroom-office building, neither of which was enacted over the vetoes.

He was on the prevailing side to set aside line-item veto reductions in the University of Nebraska budget and the veto of an expansion of the old age and disability benefits programs.

He voted on the prevailing side against overriding the veto of a measure to appropriate $2.2 million for a physical education building on the NU Omaha campus.

Church: U.S. No Longer Feedbed Of Revolution

North Platte (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church, hoping voter acceptance in the western Nebraska ranch and wheat country will prove decisive in the May 11 primary, Thursday said the country has drifted from the revolutionary principles on which it was founded. Addressing 1,100 persons at the North Platte High School, most of them below voting age, on his second day of a three-day campaign tour, Church said the United States was the "feedbed of revolution" 200 years ago but has since become very conservative.

"But we ought not to forget our roots," he said. "I am proudest (that) after these 200 years we're still a free people but I'm disturbed about the future of freedom in this country because we have strayed so far from the principles on which this country was founded."

He recalled the concept that no one rules by divine right was established in this country "and then the former President, Mr. Nixon, worte my committee saying, in effect, 'I broke the law . . . I did so because as president I was sovereign'."

The president is not sovereign but the people are, Church said, "and if we don't get that straight, then the future of this country is bleak."

During a question and answer session, Church said, "with revolutions, we keep picking the losing side." In this country's revolution, he said, "We had help from the French and we could not have won without them. But after our revolution, France didn't run us."

He said Russia and Cuba won't run Angola, and Vietnam is not a satellite of either Russia or China.

"The Russians gave us all the rope in the world to hang ourselves in Southeast Asia and I wish we would have the sense to return that favor in Africa," he said.

Folk Music Said Ticket To Travel

By CYNTHIA JOHNSON
Star Staff Writer

Jimmy Driftwood gives credit to college students and Andrew Jackson for the revival of mountain folk music

College students because they have, since the 1960s, turned out in large numbers to listen to the old, traditional songs. Andrew Jackson because, without him, Driftwood would not have written "The Battle of New Orleans "

According to Driftwood that Grammy Award-winning song has provided him with a ticket to travel the country, preaching and reviving the gospel of folk music and folklore

In Lincoln Thursday to take part in the University of Nebraska-Lincoln's American Folk Arts Festival, Driftwood mesmerized an afternoon audience with his tales of the Ozark Mountains and the music he grew up with

Currently a resident of Timbo, Ark , Driftwood was accompanied to Lincoln by about 20 members of the Rackensack Folklore Society — a group of Ozark mountain singers, dancers and craftspeople

Mountaineers Surprised

Mountain people like those in the society were surprised when the folk music revival began, Driftwood said

Although they had grown up playing and singing the music that is now so much in demand, "they had lost faith in their own music, ' he continued

The old people "who had sung the old songs" thought people weren't interested in it anymore All they heard on the radio was rock 'n roll, Driftwood said

When the rivival did come, "it took them about two or three years to adjust "

Roots Of Modern Singers

But they're singing and playing today And the people of the mountains "are the roots from which Peter, Paul and Mary and Bob Dylan got their songs, ' Driftwood said

"When I was small," life in the Ozarks was much like it had been back in colonial days, except they didn't put you in the pillory for wrong-doing, Driftwood said Rather "they preached you into hell "

And despite the absence of movies, phonographs and television, "life was very full," he continued

"Whatever people have, they do something with it.

"The boob tube was between our ears," he said as he recalled listening to the tales and songs his grandparents passed down

Didn't Know About Tuning

Of his own musical education, Driftwood explained that "we had guitars ' and other instruments in the "early days But we didn't know about standard tuning '

Picking out a tune on a 100-year-old guitar made by his grandfather from a fence rail, an ox yoke and a bed headboard, Driftwood noted the fact that he doesn't use a pick

DRIFTWOOD . . . folk rising again.

"When I was a kid, there wasn't no picks And if there had ve been, we couldn t have bought them because there wasn't any money

Got 'D' In Music Course

Driftwood s only experience with formalized music study netted him a ' D" in a class taught at a small Arkansas college The teacher who had him picking out scales and intervals on the piano apparently didn t appreciate the fact that "I had already played all over that piano

If I had majored in music, I never would have written 'The Battle of New Orleans Driftwood said

When asked how he learned about folklore, the 68-year-old Driftwood responded with chuckle 'I'm it."

Work-Release Prisoner Receives Minimum Wage

By United Press International

Raymond Tully, who claimed he was entitled to the federal minimum wage while employed in a prison work release program has won an out-of court settlement with the Norfolk Hatchery the Nebraska Civil Liberties Union said Thursday

The NCLU filed the suit for Tully who was not paid the minimum wage while employed by the hatchery Subsequently the Small Claims Court at Norfolk ruled that while other employes were entitled to the minimum wage Tully was not because of his prisoner status

NCLU appealed that decision to the Madison County District Court

Tully received $108 in back wages

The NCLU said it felt the Small Claims Court s decision that prisoners on work-release were not entitled to the minimum wage any more than prisoners working inside the institution was certainly less than an enlightened view of prisons and prisoners '

Barbara Gaither, NCLU executive director, said, "Perhaps the settlement in this case will guide other employers in their wage agreement with work-release prisoners

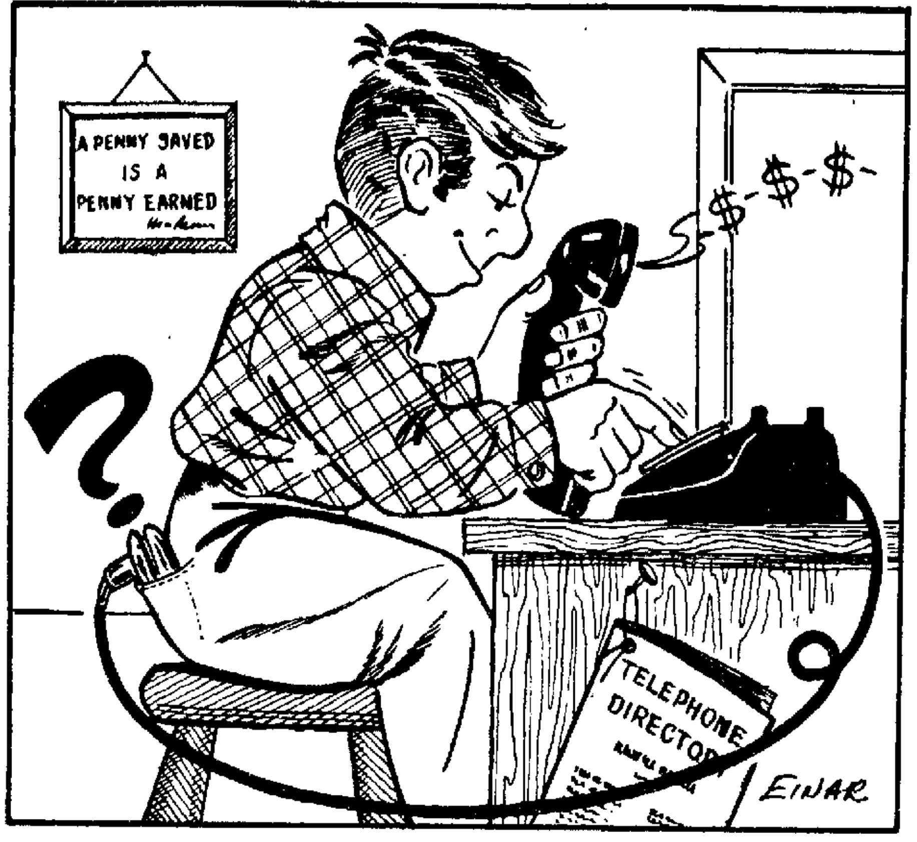
Phone Industry In For Major Change



A PENNY SAVED IS A PENNY EARNED
EINAR

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Not since the transistor was invented in 1948 has the telephone industry faced such a period of change.

Within months, Lincoln residents should be able to purchase their own telephone sets from various suppliers and plug them into the national telephone network.

This development will end the "perpetual lease" arrangement whereby telephone subscribers have had to pay a rental change for telephone sets. Over the years, this rental charge more than exceeds the cost of the equipment.

Presently, subscribers can supply their own equipment; however, the economic incentive for them to do it isn't there. The telephone company must approve the equipment and assesses a connection charge.

The Federal Communications Commission (FCC) is making this alternative of customer-owned equipment more attractive to the public. Beginning May, customer-owned equipment can be plugged in without a connection charge as long as the equipment is registered with the FCC.

Demand Growing

The manager of the downtown Radio Shack said there is a big demand for telephone sets in Lincoln, adding he expects it to build as the public learns of the new FCC ruling.

He said new telephones now sell for $30 while used ones cost in the neighborhood of $18.

Considering it costs $1.25 a month for an extension telephone from LT&T, a person could realize a savings in buying his own new extension after two years and in an even shorter time with a used phone.

For businesses, the potential savings are said to be even greater. The FCC ruling goes beyond simple residential sets and includes all types of gear from switchboards to $10,000 computer terminals.

What Will Effect Be?

Will this change mandated by the FCC be a boon or a bane for the consumer and the telephone industry?

Debate is raging on that point. Both the FCC and the telephone industry claim to be on the consumer's side, but they disagree vehemently on the impact.

The FCC says the ruling will introduce a healthy dose of competition into telecommunications which will benefit consumers. The telephone industry counters that the ruling will drain revenue, threaten the quality of service and hike the cost of residential phone service.

The purpose of allowing customer-owned equipment, according to an FCC spokesman, is to maximize consumer choices without damaging the telephone network

By purchasing their own equipment, consumers will stimulate innovations in technology and reductions in the cost of equipment.

For instance, American Telephone & Telegraph Co. used to offer no special equipment to allow the deaf to communicate.

200,000 In Use

A deaf engineer on his own devised a keyboard and video display screen which allows the deaf to communicate via telephone lines. The FCC spokesman said an estimated 200,000 of the units are now in use.

"It's ironic that AT&T ignored the needs of this group, especially since (Alexander Graham) Bell was involved in research on deafness," the spokesman said.

The FCC expects price competition in the manufacture of equipment just as the nation has witnessed in the filed of calculators. The spokesman said the price of telephone sets has dropped from $200 to $50 as competitors have entered the field.

Industry Cries 'Foul'

Telephone industry spokesman say competition is not really fair, since they are regulated and by law must serve everyone. They say the specialized manufacturers of equipment and private line firms are skimming the cream off the industry's revenue vat.

In the end, they say, the big loser under the FCC ruling will be the residential phone user who will no longer have his service subsidized by business users.

A study sponsored by the Independent Telephone Association predicts that by 1985 the average residential telephone bill will have to rise by $3.28 per month to offset losses while business rates will have to increase by an average of $7.25 per month.

The study states: "If the FCC does not contain the destabilizing forces it set in motion, major rate increases for basic exchange services are inevitable . . ."

Likewise the telephone companies fear the influx of new equipment will hurt the quality of phone service since some models may be inferior and owners may be reluctant to maintain them.

Maintenance Problem

"We will no longer have end-to-end responsibility for phone service," James Vanderslice of LT&T said. Maintenance, he added, is the reason phone companies prefer to lease the equipment rather than sell it to subscribers.

How will LT&T react to the situation?

"There are no definite answers as to what we will do," Vanderslice said. The firm's options include selling equipment itself and levying monthly charges for inside wiring.

The FCC spokesman disputed the telephone companies' assessment of the economic impact of the ruling. The predictions of cost increases to subscribers by 1985 are based on two "unwarranted" assumptions, he said. One, the firms will lose all interstate toll revenue, and, two, they will experience no reductions in cost.

Phone companies, he said, are blowing the ruling's impact out of proportion. Independent equipment suppliers now account for only 2-4% of the terminal market equipment, while specialized carriers offering private line service have captured only one-twentieth of one percent of the communications market.

As for claims of expense to the residential customer, the FCC said this has yet to be demonstrated. Consequently, the FCC has directed an economic impact inquiry into its ruling and should complete it some time this summer.

'Nobody Knows'

"Nobody knows if business users are subsidizing residential users. In the past only over-all costs have been examined; subsidies were never looked at," the FCC spokesman said.

Asked about the extent of subsidies, Vanderslice said LT&T has not separated the costs attributable to business and residential phone usage.

The debate over the ruling goes on before the FCC, the courts and Congress.

Whatever the outcome, every telephone subscriber has a stake in it.

Grandpa's Noise Hid A Kind Heart

By RANDALL GARTNER

I just must write about my Grandpa Gartner, he was such an unusual person. I was only 12 when he died but I remember him very well.

He wore a full beard and smoked a curved stem pipe with a cover on the bowl. It hung down in his beard. Grandpa was a tough old German who came from the old country when he was only 17. He had had a lot of hard knocks in his time.

One of the things I remember was his swearing. Man, could he lay it on. Grandma always tried to make excuses for him when he was real crabby. She would say, "Papa doesn't feel very good."

Grandpa didn't believe in any foolishness. Everything had to be done at a certain time: 4 o'clock was time to start chores, 12 noon time to eat, everyting went by the clock.

He had a team of driving horses that he drove to town. He took me with him a few times when I was 5 or 6 years old. Boy, it was really a thrill to ride with him in the old spring wagon. When he went to town it was all business. He just did his shopping and went right home. When he went to the barber to get a haircut, if there were several people waiting he would tell them they couldn't wait because he was in a hurry. Hiram Garsage the barber told him once that he wouldn't have time to die.

He had a Model T that was kept in the shed most of the time. One Sunday Grandma and one of the girls went to church. While they were gone a storm came up and it started to rain. When they drove in the yard Grandpa was standing by the shed with the doors open, yelling "Right in here, right in here." He didn't want his Model T to get wet.

One day he walked into the bank and saw an old friend. He said, "God damn if it ain't Old Lady Roberts." She told me about this, laughing about his choice of words.

When someone came around to collect for the church he would swear a blue streak when they drove in, but then he would go in the house and write them a check for fifty dollars or more. He made a lot of noise but still had a kind heart.

When we threshed we would always watch so the grain haulers wouldn't get too close to the barn where the grain bins were and knock a batten off the barn. One time one of them knocked one off and Grandpa started to cuss him. He was a hotheaded man too and jumped off his wagon and told Grandpa to go home. Well, Grandpa went but I could hear him swearing all the way home a quarter mile away.

write on

When I was about 7 or 8 I started cultivating with a badger cultivator. There would be four teams in the field laying by corn, my Grandpa, my Dad, the hired man and myself. Grandpa always watched when we turned around at the end of the field and would cuss up a storm if the mules stepped on a stalk of corn.

We always went to Grandpa's for Christmas. It was a big day for everyone. One year someone had riced the potatoes. When they were passed to Grandpa, he said, "I don't want any damned rice" and wouldn't eat any.

In 1931 Grandpa had a stroke and died. He lived for a week after having the stroke, delirious part of the time. When the preacher came Grandpa cursed him, but Grandma said he didn't know what he was saying. Later in the week he said he could see the angels waiting for him, so he had believed even though he wouldn't go to church.

After he died they put the casket in the parlor and held a wake for him. Some of the neighbors sat with him until the funeral. This was the first time I had been around a dead person and I really felt bad.

After the funeral I walked out in the field by Grandpa's house and there I saw Grandpa's tracks where he had walked in the soft dirt. Around the place Grandpa always walked in the same path. There was a path to the barn, to the tank where he turned the windmill on and to the grainary where he got feed for his chickens and pigs.

Even though Grandpa's been dead all these years, I never have forgotten some of the things he said and did and the tracks he left after he was gone.

Make Sure Buddy Goes Fishing Too

DEAR ABBY: Buddy, a guy I work with, likes to fish and so do I, so last weekend he and I went on a fishing trip. When we came home and Buddy met my wife for the first time, he looked her up and down and then turned to me and said, "Hey, man, you must be nuts to leave a beautiful gal like that alone for the weekend."

Do you think I was?

LIKES TO FISH

DEAR LIKES: I don't know about THAT weekend, but the next time you go fishing, be sure to take Buddy with you.

DEAR ABBY: A year ago I married a widow. I owned a home, but it was too large for two people, so I sold it and moved into hers. She had a mortgage on it, which I paid off, then I bought her home from her and put it in both our names.

The problem is her son. He has been in a lot of trouble with the law. (Burglaries.) Right now he's on probation.

He has always carried a key to his mother's house, which means he can come and go as he pleases, whether we're home or not.

I have missed a pair of expensive binoculars, a portable TV and a very good camera. I believe this young man took them and sold them. His mother thinks so, too, and she has asked him for the key. He gives her one excuse after another and still has the key.

How can we get the key back without making an ugly scene?

CHICAGOAN

DEAR CHICAGOAN: Forget the key. Change the locks.

DEAR ABBY: A big THANK YOU for asking your readers to be a little more patient with deaf people. So many of us are treated as though we were imbeciles.

Deaf people should learn to read lips. I have been totally deaf for 10 years, and 10 years before that I had a severe hearing loss. When I wore a hearing aid, I was frequently ignored, too. Many people still associate deafness with dumbness — even if deaf people speak to them!

Since I've stopped using my hearing aid and have learned to read lips, most people are cooperative. Sometimes I ask them to write a bit and they don't mind. If they refuse, I just figure it's as much their loss as mine, and I go my way and they go theirs.

Please ask your readers to talk a little slower — and to look DIRECTLY at us. That also helps.

Bidding Problems

By B. JAY BECKER

You have the following hand, both sides vulnerable:

♠AKJ6 ♥KJ932 ♦8 ♣AQ5

1. You are the dealer. What would you bid?

2. Your right-hand opponent opens One Diamond, which you double, and your left-hand opponent bids Three Diamonds. After two passes, what would you do now?

3. You deal and open One Heart. Partner responds One Spade. What would you bid now?

4. Your right-hand opponent opens Three Diamonds, which you double. Your partner bids Three Notrump. What would you do now?

5. You deal and bid One Heart; partner responds Two Clubs. When you bid Two Spades, partner responds Three Diamonds. What would you bid now?

* * *

1. One heart. This is basically a suit type of hand and you should start by bidding your longest suit in an effort to find the best trump suit. The intention is to bid spades next, thus announcing greater length in hearts, since you would have bid spades first had the suits been equal in length. In choosing which suit to bid, length of suit takes precedence over strength of suit.

2. Double. This is still a takeout double, even though you doubled before and partner passed. You have values well beyond those previously shown, and should keep on punching. It is better to double again than take a blind stab in hearts or spades. Furthermore, it may turn out that clubs is the best trump suit for your side.

3. Four spades. This is not a closeout bid. The jump to game tells partner that ten tricks are probable even if he has only 6 points. By inference, therefore, four spades announces at least 20 points, distributional or otherwise, and is a mild slam try.

4. Pass. You must accept partner's judgment that notrump is the right spot. He knows you were angling for a suit when you doubled, and it would be wrong to start looking now for a better place to play the hand.

5. Five clubs. Having already shown five hearts and four spades, you can now indicate both the excellent club support and a singleton diamond by jumping to five clubs. It would be wrong to bid three notrump. This would be right if the queen of clubs were the queen of diamonds, but this one-card change may make all the difference between an ice-cold slam and just a game.

Repairing Wrecked Car Costs 4 Times New Price

(c) Newhouse News Service

Washington — Repairing a totally wrecked car may cost four times as much as buying a new one.

An auto repair cost expert hired by the American Mutual Insurance Alliance estimates that a person would pay $19,979 to replace all the parts on a 1976 standard-size car which originally cost $4,438.

Insurance companies, such as those the alliance represents, say that the rising cost of crash parts and labor is driving up the price of auto insurance.

The alliance hired Robert W. Devermann, president-elect of the Independent Automotive Damage Appraisers Association in Milwaukee, to determine the cost of rebuildig a 1976 Chevrolet four-door hardtop Impala with AM radio, automatic transmission, air conditioning, power steering, power brakes, 350 horsepower V-8 engine, whitewall tires, bumper pads and guards.

The alliance said it chose an Impala to illustrate the approximate repair cost for a typical popular domestic car. Labor costs were figured at $12 an hour.

"The significance of this analysis is that damage to less than one-fourth of a car's parts will cost more to repair than the car is worth," said Donald W. Segraves, the alliance's vice president for research. "If the car in our study were involved in a crash and 25% of its parts had to be replaced, the cost will not be 25% of the new-car price, but 25% of $19,979. That's $4,995, or $557 more than the original purchase price."

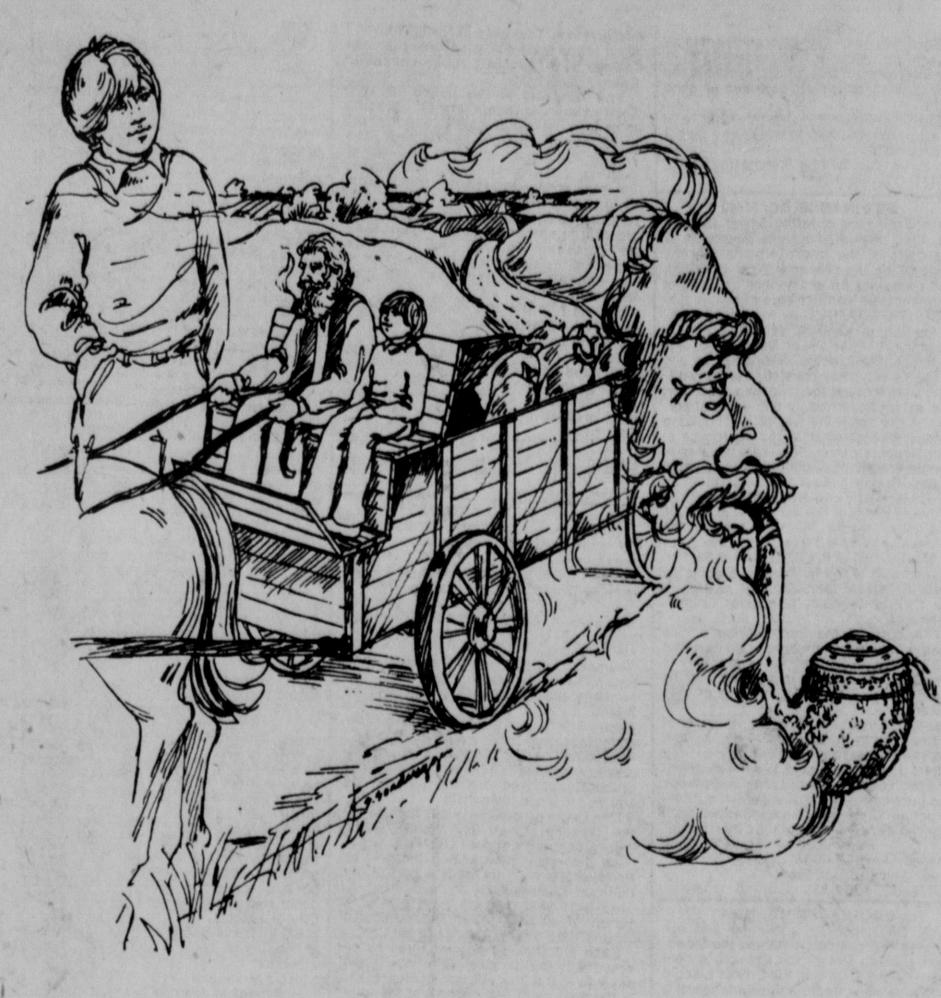
Grandpa's Noise Hid A Kind Heart



By RANDALL GARTNER

I just must write about my Grandpa Gartner, he was such an unusual person. I was only 12 when he died but I remember him very well.

He wore a full beard and smoked a curved stem pipe with a cover on the bowl. It hung down in his beard. Grandpa was a tough old German who came from the old country when he was only 17. He had had a lot of hard knocks in his time.

One of the things I remember was his swearing. Man, could he lay it on. Grandma always tried to make excuses for him when he was real crabby. She would say, "Papa doesn't feel very good."

Grandpa didn't believe in any foolishness. Everything had to be done at a certain time: 4 o'clock was time to start chores, 12 noon time to eat, everyting went by the clock.

He had a team of driving horses that he drove to town. He took me with him a few times when I was 5 or 6 years old. Boy, it was really a thrill to ride with him in the old spring wagon. When he went to town it was all business. He just did his shopping and went right home. When he went to the barber to get a haircut, if there were several people waiting he would tell them they couldn't wait because he was in a hurry. Hiram Garsage the barber told him once that he wouldn't have time to die.

He had a Model T that was kept in the shed most of the time. One Sunday Grandma and one of the girls went to church. While they were gone a storm came up and it started to rain. When they drove in the yard Grandpa was standing by the shed with the doors open, yelling "Right in here, right in here." He didn't want his Model T to get wet.

One day he walked into the bank and saw an old friend. He said, "God damn if it ain't Old Lady Roberts." She told me about this, laughing about his choice of words.

When someone came around to collect for the church he would swear a blue streak when they drove in, but then he would go in the house and write them a check for fifty dollars or more. He made a lot of noise but still had a kind heart.

When we threshed we would always watch so the grain haulers wouldn't get too close to the barn where the grain bins were and knock a batten off the barn. One time one of them knocked one off and Grandpa started to cuss him. He was a hotheaded man too and jumped off his wagon and told Grandpa to go home. Well, Grandpa went but I could hear him swearing all the way home a quarter mile away.

write on

When I was about 7 or 8 I started cultivating with a badger cultivator. There would be four teams in the field laying by corn, my Grandpa, my Dad, the hired man and myself. Grandpa always watched when we turned around at the end of the field and would cuss up a storm if the mules stepped on a stalk of corn.

We always went to Grandpa's for Christmas. It was a big day for everyone. One year someone had riced the potatoes. When they were passed to Grandpa, he said, "I don't want any damned rice" and wouldn't eat any.

In 1931 Grandpa had a stroke and died. He lived for a week after having the stroke, delirious part of the time. When the preacher came Grandpa cursed him, but Grandma said he didn't know what he was saying. Later in the week he said he could see the angels waiting for him, so he had believed even though he wouldn't go to church.

After he died they put the casket in the parlor and held a wake for him. Some of the neighbors sat with him until the funeral. This was the first time I had been around a dead person and I really felt bad.

After the funeral I walked out in the field by Grandpa's house and there I saw Grandpa's tracks where he had walked in the soft dirt. Around the place Grandpa always walked in the same path. There was a path to the barn, to the tank where he turned the windmill on and to the grainary where he got feed for his chickens and pigs.

Even though Grandpa's been dead all these years, I never have forgotten some of the things he said and did and the tracks he left after he was gone.

Make Sure Buddy Goes Fishing Too

DEAR ABBY: Buddy, a guy I work with, likes to fish and so do I, so last weekend he and I went on a fishing trip. When we came home and Buddy met my wife for the first time, he looked her up and down and then turned to me and said, "Hey, man, you must be nuts to leave a beautiful gal like that alone for the weekend."

Do you think I was?

LIKES TO FISH

DEAR LIKES: I don't know about THAT weekend, but the next time you go fishing, be sure to take Buddy with you.

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

San Francisco — Super duper sunny days as we go rolling across the Golden Gate Bridge (Where buses fear to tire tread because of a strike)

When I walked the bridge — three times on opening day — it was to ge paid for in,10 years Maybe there was to be an added 10 years to pay back the bond holders (Who were to get their $35 million back plus $35 million more for their trouble That kind of trouble all God's chillun should have)

Anyway, here it's close to 40 years later We are not riding free as anticipated on opening day We are going to pay more to wheel across the Golden Gate

The children said "The Cap'n hasn't had a sun sight for a week He's navigating by guess and by God "

☆ ☆ ☆

Way down yonder in New Orleans they built a mighty pleasure Dome The Supercome cost millions — it's TV playback system for sports was $1 3 million alone

A hotel man said "It was expected to pay for itself Pay its own way And bring millions of visitors' dollars to New Orleans "

What has happened? "Last week the Superdome management asked the state of Louisiana for $15 7 million. Otherwise it could not pay the budget — it costs $26 8 million a year to run the mammoth arena

"Two years ago, superdome Services Inc — the key contractor — estimated $1 4 million a year to keep things going Now they want $4 6 million — that's one hell of a raise "

☆ ☆ ☆

I said to the moppets "If I ran my business like that, we'd all be in the poorhouse."

How can costs keep going up on something already built?

Now there's talk of raising the bridge crossing to a buck In some plush and secret room, stacked with gold bars, the bridge owners rub their hands fiendishly and say

"What's he going to do? Swim?"

☆ ☆ ☆

The hell with progress, says I (But nobody listens) For thousands of years, a tiny creek bubbled through a lovely part of our county

Boys went down there and came home with ropey strings of frogs' eggs As any boy can tell you, this is a treasure

A year-old explained to me "You don't do anything with them You just have them."

Well, in winter's rain, water gathered at the crossroads You could drive through it if you stayed in low gear It's almost sea level

But no The Corps of Engineers came around and said it was the creek. The real cause was at the crossroads, some fat head had filled in a swamp that was part of the bay The water couldn't get out at high tide

So the Corps of Engineers cut down a lot of green, growing trees And they straightened out the bubbling creek by digging a straight line They lined it with ugly gray concrete The frogs went somewhere else.

And the rain runs down it in the winter And gathers — as it always did — in a great pool at the crossroads

Tourist Centers In Sinai Desert Nearly Finished

Eilat, Israel (UPI) — Officials say they are putting the finishing touches on new tourist facilities in the Sinai Desert

Reuven Alom of the South Sinai Development Administration said the preparations include information centers along the highway stretching south along the coast to Sharm El-Sheikh on the Red Sea New first aid and gasoline stations and a special police car to summon help in emergencies are also included

There also are a nature study center and youth hostel at Sharm that offer 120 beds each Bedouins at nearby Na'ama have set up a tent to serve coffee and snacks The Greek Orthodox monastary at Santa Katerina, traditional site where Moses received the 10 Commandments, also has a 120-bed hostel, but access to the rugged, inland site is limited to travelers in four-wheel drive vehicles

San Francisco — Super duper sunny days as we go rolling across the Golden Gate Bridge. (Where buses fear to tire tread because of a strike.)

When I walked the bridge — three times on opening day — it was to ge paid for in/10 years. Maybe there was to be an added 10 years to pay back the bond holders. (Who were to get their $35 million back plus $35 million more for their trouble. That kind of trouble all God's chillun should have.)

Anyway, here it's close to 40 years later. We are not riding free as anticipated on opening day. We are going to pay more to wheel across the Golden Gate.

The children said: "The Cap'n hasn't had a sun sight for a week. He's navigating by guess and by God."

☆ ☆ ☆

Way down yonder in New Orleans they built a mighty pleasure Dome. The Supercome cost millions — it's TV playback system for sports was $1.3 million alone.

A hotel man said: "It was expected to pay for itself. Pay its own way. And bring millions of visitors' dollars to New Orleans."

What has happened? "Last week the Superdome management asked the state of Louisiana for $15.7 million. Otherwise it could not pay the budget — it costs $26.8 million a year to run the mammoth arena.

"Two years ago, superdome Services Inc. — the key contractor — estimated $1.4 million a year to keep things going. Now they want $4.6 million — that's one hell of a raise."

☆ ☆ ☆

I said to the moppets: "If I ran my business like that, we'd all be in the poorhouse."

How can costs keep going up on something already built?

Now there's talk of raising the bridge crossing to a buck. In some plush and secret room, stacked with gold bars, the bridge owners rub their hands fiendishly and say:

"What's he going to do? Swim?"

☆ ☆ ☆

The hell with progress, says I. (But nobody listens.) For thousands of years, a tiny creek bubbled through a lovely part of our county.

Boys went down there and came home with ropey strings of frogs' eggs. As any boy can tell you, this is a treasure.

A year-old explained to me: "You don't do anything with them. You just have them."

Well, in winter's rain, water gathered at the crossroads. You could drive through it if you stayed in low gear. It's almost sea level.

But no. The Corps of Engineers came around and said it was the creek. The real cause was at the crossroads, some fat head had filled in a swamp that was part of the bay. The water couldn't get out at high tide.

So the Corps of Engineers cut down a lot of green, growing trees. And they straightened out the bubbling creek by digging a straight line. They lined it with ugly gray concrete. The frogs went somewhere else.

And the rain runs down it in the winter. And gathers — as it always did — in a great pool at the crossroads.

Tourist Centers In Sinai Desert Nearly Finished

Eilat, Israel (UPI) — Officials say they are putting the finishing touches on new tourist facilities in the Sinai Desert.

Reuven Aloni of the South Sinai Development Administration said the preparations include information centers along the highway stretching south along the coast to Sharm El-Sheikh on the Red Sea. New first aid and gasoline stations and a special police car to summon help in emergencies are also included.

There also are a nature study center and youth hostel at Sharm that offer 120 beds each. Bedouins at nearby Na'ama have set up a tent to serve coffee and snacks. The Greek Orthodox monastary at Santa Katerina, traditional site where Moses received the 10 Commandments, also has a 120-bed hostel, but access to the rugged, inland site is limited to travelers in four-wheel drive vehicles.

(2) When the street is part of a street designed by ordinance as an arterial street; or

(3) When it is determined by the city council that such improvement or improvements is in the interest of the health, safety, and welfare of the residents located within a district.

The city council may also, without petition, order the streets, alleys, and sidewalk space in any grading district to be graded to the established grade and construct sidewalks.

The city council may also, without petition, order the improvement in any ornamental lighting district when the improvement is embraced within a district, the outer boundaries of which are within a distance of one-half mile from the block in which the County-City Building is situated.

Amend Article VIII, Section 3c of the Charter relating to the ordering of improvements in public ways by the City Council with petition to read as follows:

ARTICLE VIII — Sec. 3c. Same — With Petition.

Except as provided in Section 3b., no such improvement except grading or sidewalks shall be finally ordered by the city council until a petition, signed by the owners of the record title, representing a majority of the feet frontage of property directly abutting upon the street, streets, alley, alleys, public way or public grounds proposed to be improved, shall be presented and filed with the city clerk petitioning therefor. The sufficiency of the petitions so presented shall be determined by the city council and their determination thereof shall be conclusive in the absence of objections made and presented to the city council prior to the letting of the contract for the improvement. In determining the sufficiency of the petitions so presented, intersections shall be disregarded and any lot or ground owned by the city shall not be counted for or against such improvement.

Said amendment shall be submitted to the qualified electors as Charter amendment of said Article VII, Sections 3b. and 3c. on the ballot, and shall be printed on said ballot in the following form:

PROPOSITION NO. 1

"CHARTER AMENDMENT — CITY COUNCIL ORDERING OF IMPROVEMENTS TO THE PUBLIC STREETS AND PUBLIC WAYS WITHOUT PETITION.

NOTICE OF ELECTION

Notice is hereby given that a City Special Election of the City of Lincoln, Nebraska, will be held in said City of Lincoln on Tuesday, May 11, 1976, for the purpose of submitting to the electorate of the City of Lincoln, for adoption or rejection, three proposed amendments to the Charter of the City of Lincoln, each being a separate and distinct proposition to be voted upon separately.

Amendment No. 1 would amend Article VIII, Sections 3b and 3c of the Charter to allow the City Council to order the improvement of a street alley, alleys, public way, or public grounds without petition and to assess the same in proportion to benefits when it is determined by the City Council that such improvement or improvements is in the interests of health, safety, and welfare of the residents located within a district.

Amendment No. 2 would amend Article VIII, Section 12 of the Charter to remove the in lieu of tax payment required on the total gross revenue received from the sale of electricity within the corporate limits of the City of Lincoln and any other incorprated city or village within which it sells electricity at retail which payments have been paid in lieu of taxes and divided among the County of Lancaster, Municipality, and School Districts within which the tax is collected.

Amendment No. 3 would amend Article IX-B, Section 11 of the Charter to remove the requirement that a subdivision permit be obtained when the smallest parcel created is five acres or less in area, and instead allow the City Council to determine, by ordinance, the minimum lot, tract, or parcel size which shall be required for a subdivision permit.

Following is the full text of the proposed Charter amendments together with the text of the Proposition for each amendment to be printed on the ballot:

AMENDMENT NO. 1

Amend Article VIII, Sections 3b and 3c of the Charter relating to the City Council's authority to order the improvement of a street, alley, alleys, public way, or public grounds, without petition to read as follows:

ARTICLE VIII, Section 3b. Same — Without Petition.

"Sec 3b. The city council may, without petition, order such improvements of any street, alley, alleys, public way or public grounds and cause them to be made:

(1) When it is embraced within a district, the outer boundaries of which are within a distance of one and one-half miles from the block in which the County-City Building is situated; or

(2) When the street is part of a street designated by ordinance as an arterial street; or

(3) When it is determined by the city council that such improvement or improvements is in the interest of the health, safety, and welfare of the residents located within a district.

The city council may also, without petition, order the streets, alleys, and sidewalk space in any grading district to be graded to the established grade and construct sidewalks.

The city council may also, without petition, order the improvement in any ornamental lighting district when the improvement is embraced within a district, the outer boundaries of which are within a distance of one-half mile from the block in which the County-City Building is situated."

ARTICLE VIII, Section 3c. Same — With Petition.

"Sec. 3c. Except as provided in Section 3b., no such improvement except grading or sidewalks shall be finally ordered by the city council until a petition, signed by the owners of the record title, representing a majority of the feet frontage of property directly abutting upon the street, streets, alley, alleys, public way or public grounds proposed to be improved, shall be presented and filed with the city clerk petitioning therefor. The sufficiency of the petitions so presented shall be determined by the city council and their determination thereof shall be conclusive in the absence of objections made and presented to the city council prior to the letting of the contract for the improvement. In determining the sufficiency of the petitions so presented, intersections shall be disregarded and any lot or ground owned by the city shall not be counted for or against such improvement."

Said Article VIII, Sections 3b and 3c of the Charter of the City of Lincoln, as now existing, be and they are hereby repealed.

Said amendment shall be submitted to the qualified electors as Proposition No. 1 on the ballot and shall be printed on said ballot in the following form:

PROPOSITION NO. 1

"SHALL ARTICLE VII — SEC. 3b. AND ARTICLE VIII — SEC 3c. OF THE CHARTER BE AMENDED TO PROVIDE THAT THE CITY COUNCIL MAY, WITHOUT PETITION, ORDER IMPROVEMENTS OF ANY STREET, ALLEY, PUBLIC WAY OR PUBLIC GROUNDS AND CAUSE THEM TO BE MADE WHEN IT IS DETERMINED BY THE CITY COUNCIL THAT SUCH IMPROVEMENT OR IMPROVEMENTS IS IN THE INTEREST OF THE HEALTH, SAFETY AND WELFARE OF THE RESIDENTS LOCATED WITHIN A DISTRICT.

Scientist Calls Basic Research Vital

By NANCY HICKS
Star Staff Writer

"The basic research of a country helps to improve the nation's economy," Dr. Jack B. Kinsinger of the National Science Foundation told a group of University of Nebraska-Lincoln students and professors Thursday afternoon.

Using a series of charts and graphs drawn from the recently published "Science Indicators 1974", Dr. Kinsinger said that dollars fed into basic research influence such factors as patent registration, major technological advances, the technological trade balance and the number of Nobel prize winners.

Basic research translates into research and development, then to products, and finally to economic health, Dr. Kinsinger pointed out

For example, Japan, whose research and development dollars have been increasing in recent years, has shown a more rapid rise in productivity than the United States.

The report, made available to President Ford in December, prompted the president to add $50 million to next year's National Science Foundation budget. This means between 100 to 150 additional grants.

About 90% of the Foundations's $750 million annual budget goes to Universities for basic research, Dr. Kinsinger said. Last year the UNL chemistry department alone received about $400,000 from the foundation, said Dr. Gerry Meisels, department chairman

Since the early 1970's, dollars going to basic research and development have been slipping in the United States, the charts pointed out.

The United States continues to make the largest dollar investment in defense research, while those countries "that do not have to protect the world" spend less on defense and more on such areas as economic development and advancement of science, Dr. Kinsinger said.

In order to improve the future of basic research in this country, scientists, who normally know nothing about politics, are going to have to enter the political arena, he said.

"Our contribution has to be understood by the decision-makers," he said, adding that local university people must bring these contributions and implications to "your administration and certainly to your board of trustees."

A discouraging note, Kinsinger said, was that the number of merit scholars entering scientific fields has dropped in recent years.

"The real heart of science is the people, and if we can't pull in the very bright people, the health of our areas are in doubt."

But the science field as a whole is getting a more positive reaction from laymen, Dr. Kinsinger said.

Information in the "Science Indicator 1974," which is published by the foundation, shows that people in general do not believe the myth that science creates more problems than it solves.

People understand that technology, while it may take some jobs away, is also creating new jobs, he said.

And Kinsinger warned students not to believe that "technology is going to fix all the problems But there are some problems we can fix."

Abuse Programs Seek $92,500 In Funds

The Lincoln Council on Alcoholism and Drugs (LCAD) is seeking $54,500 in United Way funds for its alcohol and drugs program in 1977.

It also will ask the city for $38,000 for coordinating, planning, evaluating and monitoring city-funded drug and alcoholism programs.

The LCAD board approved those requests Thursday

The United Way request is approximately 10% more than the agency's $49,191 allocation for 1976. LCAD originally requested $62,000 for this year.

The fiture, the board was told, is based on an estimated 10% increase in all expenses aside from salaries, which are expected to rise by 6%.

In other action, the board was told the Drug Treatment Planning Committee is compiling figures to determine the extent of drug abuse in the Lincoln area. The committee will also survey drug treatment services provided by human services agencies.

If these studies indicate a need, the committee plans to establish an out-patient drug treatment program for juveniles. The committee also plans to investigate abuse of prescription drugs here.

LCAD Executive Director Bob Adams announced that the City Detoxification Center will open May 3. A May 2 open house is being planned by LCAD and the City-County Health Department which is administratively responsible for the center.

Adams said once the center opens, the council will tackle another priority item — a long-term care facility for the chronic, late-stage alcoholic.

It has been suggested that Westview Home, which is being phased out as a county facility, might be a possible site for the long-term center.

But Adams said this is unlikely because of the building's age and potential fire and safety hazards. These problems prompted the county board to close it down in the first place.

Candidate Pens Song For State

Lincoln legislative candidate W. E. "Pat" Daugherty has written a song in honor of Nebraska.

Called "Sunsets in Nebraska," it is registered with the copyright office of the Library of Congress.

Daugherty said he intends to use the song as "an illustration of my devotion to our great state" during his campaign in the 29th District

The first verse of the lyrics

"When the light of day is fading, yet the night has not begun, There is beauty in Nebraska at the setting of the sun;

"Long ago in covered wagons, pioneers with ox and gun tasted deep Nebraska's beauty at the setting of the sun."

The fiture, the board was told, is based on an estimated 10% increase in all expenses aside from salaries, which are expected to rise by 6%.

In other action, the board was told the Drug Treatment Planning Committee is compiling figures to determine the extent of drug abuse in the Lincoln area. The committee will also survey drug treatment services provided by human services agencies.

If these studies indicate a need, the committee plans to establish an out-patient drug treatment program for juveniles. The committee also plans to investigate abuse of prescription drugs here.

LCAD Executive Director Bob Adams announced that the City Detoxification Center will open May 3. A May 2 open house is being planned by LCAD and the City-County Health Department which is administratively responsible for the center.

Adams said once the center opens, the council will tackle another priority item — a long-term care facility for the chronic, late-stage alcoholic.

It has been suggested that Westview Home, which is being phased out as a county facility, might be a possible site for the long-term center.

But Adams said this is unlikely because of the building's age and potential fire and safety hazards. These problems prompted the county board to close it down in the first place.

Candidate Pens Song For State

Lincoln legislative candidate W. E. "Pat" Daugherty has written a song in honor of Nebraska.

Called "Sunsets in Nebraska," it is registered with the copyright office of the Library of Congress.

Daugherty said he intends to use the song as "an illustration of my devotion to our great state" during his campaign in the 29th District.

The first verse of the lyrics:

"When the light of day is fading, yet the night has not begun, There is beauty in Nebraska at the setting of the sun;

"Long ago in covered wagons, pioneers with ox and gun tasted deep Nebraska's beauty at the setting of the sun."

Castro: Ford 'Liar'

Miami (UPI) — Cuban Premier Fidel Castro denounced President Ford as a "vulgar liar" for attempting to hold the Soviet Union responsible for Cuba's intervention in Angola and said Russia "never solicited our sending a single Cuban soldier to that country."

Merger One Issue In Low-Key County Board Campaign

By NANCY HICKS
Star Staff Writer

The billboards in northeast Lincoln are among the few signs that there is an election race in progress for the 1st District seat on the Lancaster County Board

The issues are few, limited mostly to government consolidation, taxation and county officialdom infighting The campaigns of the three candidates have been low-key

"I'm beginning to wonder if anyone even knows there is a county election,' said incumbent Jan Gauger, a Republican seeking her second term as a county commissioner

A newcomer to politics Larry Tefft, is challenging Mrs Gauger on the Republican ticket Veteran county employe Ted Kossack is unopposed on the Democratic ticket

Primary Limited

Only voters in the 1st District — essentially northeast Lincoln and Lancaster County — will be voting in the May 11 primary But the November general election is county wide, with voters throughout the county choosing between the Democrat Kossack and the Republican primary winner for 1st District commissioner

Tefft, owner of Larry Tefft Conoco Service Station, 70th and A Sts , is building his campaign around the theme of a business-like approach to running government

Tefft, who says his own taxes have doubled in the past four years, blames at least a part of this increase on "fat in government spending "

Cut In Spending

And he believes that with a business-like approach to government, this unnecessary spending can be discovered and then cut out

"Anything I can contribute to saving the working class people money, that s what I'm after," said Tefft, of rural Walton "I'd like to see taxes held to a minimum without slowing down the wheels of progress Good business management could take care of this "

Tefft, 49, is also stressing honesty and friendliness in government and believes that he could help improve the deteriorating relationship between the county commissioness and many of the other elected officials

His belief in partial rather than total government consolidation should help win him friends among the elected official ranks

While he sees many areas that could be consolidated, Tefft stresses cooperation over merger "I don't think we should take the elected officials out of county government It takes away from the voter's right to choose the official they want in there "

Candidates Differ

While Tefft and Mrs Gauger may agree on the need for fiscal responsibility, honesty and openness in government, they differ greatly on the consolidation issue

Mrs Gauger, 1404 N 40th, has strongly supported the concept of a single government for the entire county, a merger of city and county government functions

This would probably take the shape of a county-wide legislative council, a strong elected administrator, and the elimination of most currently elected county administrative spots like treasurer, clerk and engineer

But Mrs Gauger, 47, doesn't expound on her personal ideas for the shape of a consolidated government Instead she supports the cooperative citizen and governmental committee approach that is currently working toward the one-government plan

Leave It To Voters

And she believes that any merger should be a ballot issue, determined finally by the voters

During her four-year term, Mrs Gauger has worked to strengthen county government through a centralized purchasing and personnel systems and improved county fiscal management

But because of the large urban population, Mrs Gauger doesn't believe that further improvements for a strong county government would really benefit the taxpayers "It would merely be duplicating what the city already does," she said

Mrs. Gauger is stressing her own contributions to county government during the past four years And she said she hopes to serve another term in order to follow through on these programs like centralized personnel, purchasing and fiscal management that she helped start

The often fiery, sometimes ludicrous fights between commissioners and other elected officials the past few years has been issue rather than personality oriented, Mrs Gauger believes

"Change almost always meets with resistance," said Mrs Gauger, adding, "I don't think peace at any price is a laudable goal for any elected official "

Kossack, who has worked in the county engineer's office for 17 years, sees the conflict as "unnecessary bickering '

Some commissioners have tried to take too much administrative control away from other elected officials, he said

'Where we have people who are experts in their field we should use their knowledge work with them rather than try to fight them all the time

And he feels that the County Board has overspent Four years ago the county commissioners annual budget was $26 000 Today it is about $11 000 a month, he pointed out

Priorities Questioned

Kossack has also criticized the board s handling of staff cuts at the financially troubled Lancaster Office of Mental Retardation Instead of cutting administrative personnel, the board authorized the cuts at the teacher level, "the people who actually do the work, Kossack said

Kossack like Tefft is against total county-city government merger and for coordination and cooperation among departments with like functions

I m against going under the jurisdiction of the city said Kossack of Rural Rt 4

Strong county government with elected rather than appointed department heads has a future the 38 year-old Kossack believes

So far the campaign strategies of the three candidates who want the $12 500-a year job are similar All three are relying on billboards posters yard signs and heavy door to-door campaigning

Mrs Gauger who estimated her primary campaign costs at $3 000 will be the biggest spender Tefft said his primary campaign will cost about $2 500 and Kossack is trying to hold the primary costs under $1 500

Omaha School Board Election Suit Dismissed

Omaha (AP) — A legal challenge to a law providing for election by district of members of the Omaha School Board has been dismissed by Douglas County District Judge John Clark

He dismissed without comment Wednesday a lawsuit filed Oct 31 on behalf of three Omahans who contended the law is unconstitutional

The law was enacted by the Legislature last May over Gov J James Exon s veto

Douglas County Election Commissioner Mike Boyle then drew up 12 subdistricts in accordance with the requirements of the law

The three plaintiffs in the law suit Mr and Mrs Sheldon Barnett and Mrs Darlen Clark, contended they and thousands of others in the school district would not have representation on the board under the law and would not be able to vote for a representative until 1978

Operation Helps Plucknett

Des Moines, Ia. — One of Nebraska's top trackmen will be in the gold and black uniform of the Missouri Tigers here Friday and Saturday when the 67th Drake Relays is held at Drake Stadium.

He is Beatrice native Ben Plucknett, a two-time Big Eight champion in the discus throw. Less than a month from now Plucknett will be at Nebraska's Ed Weir Track in Lincoln for the conference outdoor championships.

Plucknett, a senior, has three times this season broken the Missouri school discus record. Unfortunately for him, only one of the tosses produced a first-place finish. That was a throw of 198 feet, 5 inches two weeks agon in a dual meet the Tigers won over Big Eight indoor champion Kansas State.

He was second to Jim McGoldrick, 1975 NCAA champion from Texas, in both the Texas and Kansas Relays. At Austin, his effort was a career best of 198-2. Last week at Kansas, he threw 195-11 to place behind McGoldrick's record 208-9 toss.

An off-season operation for removal of a bone chip in his elbow appears to have helped Plucknett's arm extension, in the opinion of his coach Bob Teel. Plucknett seems to be a more consistent competitor than in his first three years at Missouri.

In addition to his impressive showings in the discus, Plucknett has consistently thrown over 56 feet in the shot, making him one of Missouri's best doubles men in its 76-year track history.

A 56-foot toss here, however, won't do much. The favorite is defending champion Dana LeDuc of Texas, who won in 1975 with a 63-8¼ effort. LeDuc has thrown 64-6¾ this season and has a career best of 66-8.

The meet here, incidentally, is a non-scored affair just as at Texas and Kansas. The emphasis is on individual performances and the special relay races.

Cromwell, Prince Aim High

Nolan Cromwell, the Kansas all-around athlete, and Bob Prince, top Kansas State middle distance runner, have decided to go for broke against top American Olympic hopefuls here this weekend.

Cromwell, who made headlines last fall as quarterback of KU's surprising Jayhawk football team, is by-passing an opportunity to become only the third man in the history of the Midlands' Relay Circuit (Texas, Kansas and Drake) to win all three titles in the same year in the 400 intermediate hurdles.

He posted the best time in the world this year (:49.74) in the Texas Relays and second-best time (:49.8) at Kansas. He's going to skip the university division race in the intermediates to compete against the "big boys" — Ralph Mann of the Beverly Hills Striders and Jim Bolding, former Oklahoma State star who holds the world record at 400 meters at :48.1 seconds.

Prince, on the other hand, got the blessing of KSU coach DeLoss Dodds to give up his anchor spot on the Wildcats' two-mile relay team in order to see how he shapes up against the world's best 800-meter men.

Among his opponents here will be Mike Boit of Eastern New Mexico, NCAA record holder at 1:43.8; Rick Wohlhuter of the Chicago Track Club, who once was world record holder at 1:43.9; and Mike Enyeart of Utah State, who has a best of 1:44.9. Prince did a 1:48.9 anchor leg on KSU's winning two-mile relay team at Kansas.

It looks like a great show here and just as interesting a Big Eight meet in Lincoln May 14-15. Tickets should be ordered today — so you don't miss the opening gun.

Bartels Leads Nebraska Split

By DAVE SITTLER

Nebraska's softball team found out Thursday that as Jan Bartels goes, so goes the team.

With Bartels, the Cornhuskers' ace righthanded pitcher throwing a nifty three-hitter, Nebraska dumped Kansas State 5-3 in the opener of a doubleheader on the NU women's diamond.

But Bartels, a sophomore from Lincoln, couldn't maintain has mastery over the Wildkittens in the nightcap, as K-State rallied for a 9-8 victory to gain a split in the Big Eight Conference battle.

Lincoln freshman Sue Luedtke and Omaha senior Sue Hansen led the Nebraska hitting attack in the first contest. Each girl was a perfect three-for-three from the plate to backup Bartels' strong pitching effort.

"I didn't think I pitched that well in the first game," Bartels said. "I thought K-State had a lot more hits than three."

Watching the second game with a ice pack aiding her sore pitching shoulder, Bartels was caught by surprise when Husker coach Myreen Loveless decided to insert her in the game in relief of starter Kristy Schell.

"I was surprised she (Loveless) decided to use me again," Bartels said. "But that's not unusual. I've pitched two complete games a lot of times with 15 minutes rest in between games."

Bartels entered the nightcap in the fifth inning with Nebraska leading 5-3. Kansas State promptly greeted her with four runs.

The Wildkittens totaled six runs and seven hits off Bartels to salvage the second game.

Coach Loveless defended her decision to pitch Bartels in relief when she said, "I wanted to win the game so I went with my best pitcher after we got the lead. I thought we had it in the bag."

Bartels, who evened her season record at 4-4 with the win and loss, has been hampered most of the season by a tender shoulder.

"It's bothered me for three weeks," said Bartels, who pitches for the Patst Blue Ribbon team during the summer. "I've lost a lot of speed because of it. It was bothering me quite a bit in the second game."

The doubleheader was a tune up for both teams for this weekends Big Eight Conference tournament which starts today in Manhattan, Kan.

Nebraska, now 6-8 overall, opens against Kansas in a 6 p.m. contest this evening.

"They will be our toughest opponent in the tournament," Miss Loveless said of the tourney which is a double-elimination affair.

Teams entered include Missouri, Kansas State, Iowa State, Kansas and Nebraska.

Kansas State	001 110 0—3
Nebraska	031 100 x—5

Jan Bartels (W,4-3) and Jean Vrbka; Kay Beatty (L), Nancy Gardner (4) and Michelle Armstrong.

Kansas State	010 242 0—9
Nebraska	005 102 0—8

Kristine Scheel, Jan Bartels (5) (L,4-4) and Christy Oswald; Betsey Locke, Nancy Gardner (3) (W) and Michelle Armstrong.

Surgery Done, Porter Plays Waiting Game

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

It's now a waiting game to see how Budge Porter responds to Thursday surgery to correct a serious neck injury sustained during a Wednesday Nebraska football pactice.

"It looks very promising. It's expected that everything will work out well, but there's not much we can talk about now," said Nebraska head trainer Paul Schneider.

"His injury is like a whiplash to the neck in a serious car accident," Schneider continued.

Schneider said the surgery was to reduce the dislocation of the cervical spine, to fuse the cervical vertebra and a complete traction to hold it in place while it is healing.

He said the injury occurred when Porter was making a tackle and another player's thigh struck his head and rammed his head backwards.

"It's a very unfortunate type of accident. I could definitely tell when I got over to him that it was serious," Schneider said. "We're trained for these types of things and take every precaution.

"When I got there, I said what's wrong, and he said 'I can't move,' so I said, 'you just lay there real still,' " he explained.

"George (physical therapist George Sullivan) was taking care of the other player who had a charley horse, but I yelled at him to come over as this was serious.

"I always figure with neck injuries that they're serious," Schneider said.

While Schneider said that Porter's recovery is the main concern, he noted that it would be advisable if Porter not participate in football anymore.

"The best thing for him is to forget about playing football. But we're really hoping everything works out all right for Budge. Playing football again is just secondary to him fully recovering. I hadn't even thought about it until you asked."

Schneider said that the Nebraska athletic department has an insurance plan for its athletes that completely covers the cost of injuries such as that to Porter's neck. He said the NU athletic department pays the first $1,000 in medical costs and then the NCAA covers all additional expenses.

"You can always repair a knee or a fracture, but when you get into the cervical region, it's much more serious," he added. "Budge is in real fine spirits considering what has happened. He's a fine young man and we hope it's going to be all right.

"In my 26 years here, this is the third one (serious neck injury) and thank the Lord each one has turned out real good because this is quite serious."

Porter is a 6-1, 184-pound defensive back. A sophomore from Nebraska City, he was redshirted last season after undergoing knee surgery last May.

Drake Relays Add Some Luster

By BOB OWENS
Star Sports Editor

Des Moines, Ia. — The 67th Drake Relays took on added luster it really didn't need Thursday with the announcement that standout long and triple jumper Charlton Ehizuelen, Nigerian Olympic hopeful, and NCAA high hurdle champion Larry Shipp of Louisiana State will join the star-studded field.

Some of the other big names awaiting the starter's gun Friday are Rick Wohlhuter, Mike Boit, Al Feuerbach, Ralph Mann, Ivory Crockett, Frank Shorter and Allen Misher.

The field of about 3,400 athletes also includes a classy group of women's contestants, including five national champions, four of them American record holders.

The meet's format is the forerunner of what American track and field is expected to be — a metric system of distances and heights.

Because of this, there'll be a lot of records since most events never have been contested at metric distances. A meter, incidentally, is approximately 39.37 inches longer than a yard.

Nebraska long has been a participant in the Drake event, which is the third leg of the famed midlands relay circuit. The others are the Texas and Kansas Relays.

The Cornhuskers over the years rank behind only Illinois and Kansas in the number of victories. They've won 31 individual events and 14 relay races for 45 blue ribbons.

Coach Frank Sevigne hopes to add another one to the list when Scott Sorchik tries to repeat his javelin title won here a year ago.

Last year he won with a throw of 227 feet, 6 inches. Already this year the Sussex, N.J. native has won javelin titles at the Oklahoma Invitational and at the Kansas Relays. His win at Kansas was a repeat of a victory at Lawrence a year ago.

"Scott was good as a freshman when he won the Big Eight with a school record toss of 243-7," Husker assistant coach John Korky said. "And already this year his best toss is 241-7½, so he just keeps improving all the time. If it's a good day Friday, Scott is capable of a fantastic throw."

The Drake record of 256-7 by Van Hollaway of Iowa State in 1973 appears out of Sorchik's range.

Weather forecast for the weekend is little chance of rain and highs in the 60s both Friday and Saturday.

The probable highlight of the Friday competition is the 400-meter intermediate hurdles race matching Mann, who set the world record of 48.8 seconds here in 1970, against Jim Bolding, winner here last year.

Another excellent race is expected to be the 800-meter run which has Kenyan Boit, running for Eastern New Mexico, going against Wohlhuter, former Notre Dame runner who holds world and American record in the 880-yard event at 1:44.1. Bolt is No. 1 ranked in the world by Track and Field News.

While the relays are going on in Drake's 18,000-seat stadium, Nebraska's tennis and golf teams will be competing in Drake-sponsored events at other sites in Des Moines.

Others in the tennis tourney scheduled at the Des Moines Golf and Country Club are Iowa State, Minnesota, Missouri, Oklahoma State, Oral Roberts, Southern Illinois, Tulsa and Drake.

In the golf field, set for the Des Moines and Wakonda Country Clubs, are Missouri, Kansas, Iowa State, Tulsa, Southern Illinois, Bradley and Drake.

Pistons Square Playoff

From News Wires

Forward Curtis Rowe and center Bob Lanier combined for 64 points, powering the torried Detroit Pistons to a series-squaring 123-111 NBA western conference semifinal playoff victory over the Golden State Warriors Thursday night.

The win tied the best-of-seven series at 1-1 and snapped the Warriors' win string at seven games.

Rowe, who averaged 16 points per game during the regular season, surpassed that with a 17-point first quarter as the Pistons took a 39-37 lead.

The victory ended Detroit's 14-game losing streak on the West Coast and also snapped a six-game losing streak at the Oakland Coliseum Arena.

Cavaliers 92, Bullets 91

Jim Cleamons laid in a rebound with one second left to give the Cleveland Cavaliers a 92-91 victory over the Washington Bullets and a 3-2 lead in their best of seven series.

The Eastern Conference semifinals series resumes Monday night at Landover, Md.

The game, played before 21,312—the largest crowd ever to see an NBA playoff game and the biggest home crowd in Cleveland history—was close all the way. Neither team led by more than seven points at any time.

Sittler Scores 5 Vs. Flyers

From News Wires

Center Darryl Sittler, who scored sic goals in a game during the regular season, scored five Thursday night to tie a National Hockey league playoff scoring record and lead the Toronto Maple Leafs to an 8-5 victory over the Philadelphia Flyers.

The triumph forced a seventh and deciding game in the Stanley Cup quarter-final playoff series.

Sittler—held scoreless in the playoffs until Thursday night—scored one goal in the first period, three in the second and added his fifth in the third period of the fight-filled game to tie the record held by Maurice Richard, who scored five goals in leading the Montreal Canadiens to a 5-1 victory over the Leafs on March 3, 1944.

Sittler's five goals and one assist also tied the record for the most points in a playoff game. That record is shared by Dickie Moore of Montreal, who scored two goals and had four assists against the Boston Bruins on March 25, 1954, and Phil Esposito, then with the Bruins, who scored four goals and added two assists against the Leafs on April 2, 1969.

Errol Thompson, Jack Valiquette and Claire Alexander scored the other Toronto goals.

Orest Kindrachuk, Tom Bladon, Reggie Leach, Bill Barber and Larry Goodenough scored for Philadelphia.

The teams return to Philadelphia for the deciding game Sunday night.

Referee Wally Harris assessed 185 minutes in penalties—94 to Toronto and 91 to Philadelphia. That set an NHL playoff record for penalties in a single game, bettering the old mark of 174 set in a game between the Boston Bruins and the New York Rangers in 1970.

The Leafs picked up 63 minutes in a rough third period while Philadelphia was assessed 55 minutes in the third, including a double game misconduct to the Flyers' Dave Schultz for his fight with Toronto's Dave Williams.

Williams was handed a minor, major, 10-minute misconduct and a game misconduct for his part in the fight, which also featured a flareup between Dave Dunn of the Maple Leafs and Philadelphia's Bob Kelly.

The Flyers appeared to take a 2-1 lead in the opening period when a sliding Kindrachuk knocked the puck into the Leafs' goal. But referee Harris ruled that Kindrachuk had kicked the puck into the net and disallowed the goal.

New York 3, Buffalo 2

Clark Gillies slapped the puck through the legs of Buffalo goalie Gerry Desjardins at 5:58 of the third period to lead New York to a 3-2 victory over the Sabres and give the Islanders a 4-2 triumph in the best-of-seven quarter-final series.

The victory was the Islanders' fourth straight after losing the first two games in Buffalo.

Gil Perreault tied it for Buffalo at 4:42 of the second when he split the defense of Dave Lewis and Bert Marshall, then faked New York goalie Billy Smith to the left before putting the puck into the net.

The Islanders went ahead again at 13:07 on a power play goal as Ed Westfall tipped in Denis Potvin's wrist shot from just inside the blue line. At 4:09

Thompson Sparks Denver

DENVER (UPI) — Rookie forward David Thompson scored 34 points and helped spark a 39-point, third-quarter outburst Thursday to give the Denver Nuggets a 127-117 victory over the Kentucky Colonels and a 3-2 advantage in their American Basketball Association playoff series.

The sixth game in the semifinal playoff will be Sunday in Louisville and a seventh game — if necessary — will be played Wednesday in Denver.

The contest was decided in the third quarter when Denver, led by Thompson and guard Ralph Simpson, launched a devastating attack.

The Nuggets hit 16 of 22 shots from the field in that quarter for a 73 per cent shooting mark, while the Colonels hit only nine of 23 for 29 per cent. Simpson had 11 points and Thompson eight in the quarter as Denver outscored the Colonels 39-23.

Prior to the third quarter, Denver never led by more than two points and the Colonels threatened to turn the game into a runaway as they jumped to a 13-point lead in the first period.

But Denver — as it had all year in winning the regular-season ABA crown — chipped away at the lead and was down only 58-54 at halftime. The Nuggets exploded in the third period, hitting the last nine shots of the quarter, and stretched their lead to as many as 22 points in the final period of play.

High-point man for the Colonels, the defending ABA champion, was Artis Gilmore with 26 points, including 10 in the last quarter. Maurice Lucas had 21 and Wilbert Jones finished with 19.

Operation Helps Plucknett

Des Moines, Ia. — One of Nebraska's top trackmen will be in the gold and black uniform of the Missouri Tigers here Friday and Saturday when the 67th Drake Relays is held at Drake Stadium.

He is Beatrice native Ben Plucknett, a two-time Big Eight champion in the discus throw. Less than a month from now Plucknett will be at Nebraska's Ed Weir Track in Lincoln for the conference outdoor championships.

Plucknett, a senior, has three times this season broken the Missouri school discus record. Unfortunately for him, only one of the tosses produced a first-place finish. That was a throw of 198 feet, 5 inches two weeks agon in a dual meet the Tigers won over Big Eight indoor champion Kansas State.

He was second to Jim McGoldrick, 1975 NCAA champion from Texas, in both the Texas and Kansas Relays. At Austin, his effort was a career best of 198-2. Last week at Kansas, he threw 195-11 to place behind McGoldrick's record 208-9 toss.

An off-season operation for removal of a bone chip in his elbow appears to have helped Plucknett's arm extension, in the opinion of his coach Bob Teel. Plucknett seems to be a more consistent competitor than in his first three years at Missouri.

In addition to his impressive showings in the discus, Plucknett has consistently thrown over 56 feet in the shot, making him one of Missouri's best doubles men in its 76-year track history.

A 56-foot toss here, however, won't do much. The favorite is defending champion Dana LeDuc of Texas, who won in 1975 with a 63-8¼ effort. LeDuc has thrown 64-6¾ this season and has a career best of 66-8.

The meet here, incidentally, is a non-scored affair just as at Texas and Kansas. The emphasis is on individual performances and the special relay races.

Cromwell, Prince Aim High

Nolan Cromwell, the Kansas all-around athlete, and Bob Prince, top Kansas State middle distance runner, have decided to go for broke against top American Olympic hopefuls here this weekend.

Cromwell, who made headlines last fall as quarterback of KU's surprising Jayhawk football team, is by-passing an opportunity to become only the third man in the history of the Midlands' Relay Circuit (Texas, Kansas and Drake) to win all three titles in the same year in the 400 intermediate hurdles.

He posted the best time in the world this year (:49.74) in the Texas Relays and second-best time (:49.8) at Kansas. He's going to skip the university division race in the intermediates to compete against the "big boys" — Ralph Mann of the Beverly Hills Striders and Jim Bolding, former Oklahoma State star who holds the world record at 400 meters at :48.1 seconds.

Prince, on the other hand, got the blessing of KSU coach DeLoss Dodds to give up his anchor spot on the Wildcats' two-mile relay team in order to see how he shapes up against the world's best 800-meter men.

Among his opponents here will be Mike Boit of Eastern New Mexico, NCAA record holder at 1:43.8; Rick Wohlhuter of the Chicago Track Club, who once was world record holder at 1:43.9; and Mike Enyeart of Utah State, who has a best of 1:44.9. Prince did a 1:48.9 anchor leg on KSU's winning two-mile relay team at Kansas.

It looks like a great show here and just as interesting a Big Eight meet in Lincoln May 14-15. Tickets should be ordered today — so you don't miss the opening gun.

Bartels Leads Nebraska Split

By DAVE SITTLER

Nebraska's softball team found out Thursday that as Jan Bartels goes, so goes the team.

With Bartels, the Cornhuskers' ace righthanded pitcher throwing a nifty three-hitter, Nebraska dumped Kansas State 5-3 in the opener of a doubleheader on the NU women's diamond.

But Bartels, a sophomore from Lincoln, couldn't maintain has mastery over the Wildkittens in the nightcap, as K-State rallied for a 9-8 victory to gain a split in the Big Eight Conference battle.

Lincoln freshman Sue Luedtke and Omaha senior Sue Hansen led the Nebraska hitting attack in the first contest. Each girl was a perfect three-for-three from the plate to backup Bartels' strong pitching effort.

"I didn't think I pitched that well in the first game," Bartels said. "I thought K-State had a lot more hits than three."

Watching the second game with a ice pack aiding her sore pitching shoulder, Bartels was caught by surprise when Husker coach Myreen Loveless decided to insert her in the game in relief of starter Kristy Schell.

"I was surprised she (Loveless) decided to use me again," Bartels said. "But that's not unusual. I've pitched two complete games a lot of times with 15 minutes rest in between games."

Bartels entered the nightcap in the fifth inning with Nebraska leading 5-3. Kansas State promptly greeted her with four runs.

The Wildkittens totaled six runs and seven hits off Bartels to salvage the second game.

Coach Loveless defended her decision to pitch Bartels in relief when she said, "I wanted to win the game so I went with my best pitcher after we got the lead. I thought we had it in the bag."

Bartels, who evened her season record at 4-4 with the win and loss, has been hampered most of the season by a tender shoulder.

"It's bothered me for three weeks," said Bartels, who pitches for the Patst Blue Ribbon team during the summer. "I've lost a lot of speed because of it. It was bothering me quite a bit in the second game."

The doubleheader was a tune up for both teams for this weekends Big Eight Conference tournament which starts today in Manhattan, Kan.

Nebraska, now 6-8 overall, opens against Kansas in a 6 p.m. contest this evening.

"They will be our toughest opponent in the tournament," Miss Loveless said of the tourney which is a double-elimination affair.

Teams entered include Missouri, Kansas State, Iowa State, Kansas and Nebraska.

Kansas State .... 0 0 1 1 1 0 0—3
Nebraska .... 0 3 1 1 0 0 x—5
Jan Bartels (W,4-3) and Jean Vrbka; Kay Beatty (L), Nancy Gardner (4) and Michelle Armstrong.

Kansas State .... 0 1 0 2 4 2 0—9
Nebraska .... 0 0 5 1 0 2 0—8

Surgery Done, Porter Plays Waiting Game

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

It's now a waiting game to see how Budge Porter responds to Thursday surgery to correct a serious neck injury sustained during a Wednesday Nebraska football pactice.

"It looks very promising. It's expected that everything will work out well, but there's not much we can talk about now," said Nebraska head trainer Paul Schneider.

"His injury is like a whiplash to the neck in a serious car accident," Schneider continued.

Schneider said the surgery was to reduce the dislocation of the cervical spine, to fuse the cervical vertebra and a complete traction to hold it in place while it is healing.

He said the injury occurred when Porter was making a tackle and another player's thigh struck his head and rammed his head backwards.

"It's a very unfortunate type of accident. I could definitely tell when I got over to him that it was serious," Schneider said. "We're trained for these types of things and take every precaution.

"When I got there, I said what's wrong, and he said 'I can't move,' so I said, 'you just lay there real still,' " he explained.

"George (physical therapist George Sullivan) was taking care of the other player who had a charley horse, but I yelled at him to come over as this was serious.

"I always figure with neck injuries that they're serious," Schneider said.

While Schneider said that Porter's recovery is the main concern, he noted that it would be advisable if Porter not participate in football anymore.

"The best thing for him is to forget about playing football. But we're really hoping everything works out all right for Budge. Playing football again is just secondary to him fully recovering. I hadn't even thought about it until you asked."

Schneider said that the Nebraska athletic department has an insurance plan for its athletes that completely covers the cost of injuries such as that to Porter's neck. He said the NU athletic department pays the first $1,000 in medical costs and then the NCAA covers all additional expenses.

"You can always repair a knee or a fracture, but when you get into the cervical region, it's much more serious," he added. "Budge is in real fine spirits considering what has happened. He's a fine young man and we hope it's going to be all right.

"In my 26 years here, this is the third one (serious neck injury) and thank the Lord each one has turned out real good because this is quite serious."

Porter is a 6-1, 184-pound defensive back. A sophomore from Nebraska City, he was redshirted last season after undergoing knee surgery last May.

Drake Relays Add Some Luster

By BOB OWENS
Star Sports Editor

Des Moines, Ia. — The 67th Drake Relays took on added luster it really didn't need Thursday with the announcement that standout long and triple jumper Charlton Ehizuelen, Nigerian Olympic hopeful, and NCAA high hurdle champion Larry Shipp of Louisiana State will join the star-studded field.

Some of the other big names awaiting the starter's gun Friday are Rick Wohlhuter, Mike Boit, Al Feuerbach, Ralph Mann, Ivory Crockett, Frank Shorter and Allen Misher.

The field of about 3,400 athletes also includes a classy group of women's contestants, including five national champions, four of them American record holders.

The meet's format is the forerunner of what American track and field is expected to be — a metric system of distances and heights.

Because of this, there'll be a lot of records since most events never have been contested at metric distances. A meter, incidentally, is approximately 39.37 inches longer than a yard.

Nebraska long has been a participant in the Drake event, which is the third leg of the famed midlands relay circuit. The others are the Texas and Kansas Relays.

The Cornhuskers over the years rank behind only Illinois and Kansas in the number of victories. They've won 31 individual events and 14 relay races for 45 blue ribbons.

Coach Frank Sevigne hopes to add another one to the list when Scott Sorchik tries to repeat his javelin title won here a year ago.

Last year he won with a throw of 227 feet, 6 inches. Already this year the Sussex, N.J. native has won javelin titles at the Oklahoma Invitational and at the Kansas Relays. His win at Kansas was a repeat of a victory at Lawrence a year ago.

"Scott was good as a freshman when he won the Big Eight with a school record toss of 243-7," Husker assistant coach John Korky said. "And already this year his best toss is 241-7½, so he just keeps improving all the time. If it's a good day Friday, Scott is capable of a fantastic throw."

The Drake record of 256-7 by Van Hollaway of Iowa State in 1973 appears out of Sorchik's range.

Weather forecast for the weekend is little chance of rain and highs in the 60s both Friday and Saturday.

The probable highlight of the Friday competition is the 400-meter intermediate hurdles race matching Mann, who set the world record of 48.8 seconds here in 1970, against Jim Bolding, winner here last year.

Another excellent race is expected to be the 800-meter run which has Kenyan Boit, running for Eastern New Mexico, going against Wohlhuter, former Notre Dame runner who holds world and American record in the 880-yard event at 1:44.1. Bolt is No. 1 ranked in the world by Track and Field News.

While the relays are going on in Drake's 18,000-seat stadium, Nebraska's tennis and golf teams will be competing in Drake-sponsored events at other sites in Des Moines.

Others in the tennis tourney scheduled at the Des Moines Golf and Country Club are Iowa State, Minnesota, Missouri, Oklahoma State, Oral Roberts, Southern Illinois, Tulsa and Drake.

In the golf field, set for the Des Moines and Wakonda Country Clubs, are Missouri, Kansas, Iowa State, Tulsa, Southern Illinois, Bradley and Drake.

Sittler Scores 5 Vs. Flyers

From News Wires

Center Darryl Sittler, who scored sic goals in a game during the regular season, scored five Thursday night to tie a National Hockey league playoff scoring record and lead the Toronto Maple Leafs to an 8-5 victory over the Philadelphia Flyers.

The triumph forced a seventh and deciding game in the Stanley Cup quarter-final playoff series.

Sittler—held scoreless in the playoffs until Thursday night—scored one goal in the first period, three in the second and added his fifth in the third period of the fight-filled game to tie the record held by Maurice Richard, who scored five goals in leading the Montreal Canadiens to a 5-1 victory over the Leafs on March 3, 1944.

Sittler's five goals and one assist also tied the record for the most points in a playoff game. That record is shared by Dickie Moore of Montreal, who scored two goals and had four assists against the Boston Bruins on March 25, 1954, and Phil Esposito, then with the Bruins, who scored four goals and added two assists against the Leafs on April 2, 1969.

Errol Thompson, Jack Valiquette and Claire Alexander scored the other Toronto goals. Orest Kindrachuk, Tom Bladon, Reggie Leach, Bill Barber and Larry Goodenough scored for Philadelphia.

The teams return to Philadelphia for the deciding game Sunday night.

Referee Wally Harris assessed 185 minutes in penalties—94 to Toronto and 91 to Philadelphia. That set an NHL playoff record for penalties in a single game, bettering the old mark of 174 set in a game between the Boston Bruins and the New York Rangers in 1970.

The Leafs picked up 63 minutes in a rough third period while Philadelphia was assessed 55 minutes in the third, including a double game misconduct to the Flyers' Dave Schultz for his fight with Toronto's Dave Williams.

Williams was handed a minor, major, 10-minute misconduct and a game misconduct for his part in the fight, which also featured a flareup between Dave Dunn of the Maple Leafs and Philadelphia's Bob Kelly.

The Flyers appeared to take a 2-1 lead in the opening period when a sliding Kindrachuk knocked the puck into the Leafs' goal. But referee Harris ruled that Kindrachuk had kicked the puck into the net and disallowed the goal.

New York 3, Buffalo 2

Clark Gillies slapped the puck through the legs of Buffalo goalie Gerry Desjardins at 5:58 of the third period to lead New York to a 3-2 victory over the Sabres and give the Islanders a 4-2 triumph in the best-of-seven quarter-final series.

The victory was the Islanders' fourth straight after losing the first two games in Buffalo.

Gillies's tie-breaking goal came after Bryan Trottier's shot was blocked by Buffalo defenseman Jocelyn Guevremont. As the puck hit the ice, Gillies slapped it into the net.

New York's Jude Drouin scored the only goal of the first period at 7:45, flipping in a rebound of Billy McMillan's blocked shot.

Gil Perreault tied it for Buffalo at 4:42 of the second when he split the defense of Dave Lewis and Bert Marshall, then faked New York goalie Billy Smith to the left before putting the puck into the net.

The Islanders went ahead again at 13:07 on a power play goal as Ed Westfall tipped in Denis Potvin's wrist shot from just inside the blue line. At 4:09

Pistons Square Playoff

From News Wires

Forward Curtis Rowe and center Bob Lanier combined for 64 points, powering the torried Detroit Pistons to a series-squaring 123-111 NBA western conference semifinal playoff victory over the Golden State Warriors Thursday night.

The win tied the best-of-seven series at 1-1 and snapped the Warriors' win string at seven games.

Rowe, who averaged 16 points per game during the regular season, surpassed that with a 17-point first quarter as the Pistons took a 39-37 lead.

The victory ended Detroit's 14-game losing streak on the West Coast and also snapped a six-game losing streak at the Oakland Coliseum Arena.

Cavaliers 92, Bullets 91

Jim Cleamons laid in a rebound with one second left to give the Cleveland Cavaliers a 92-91 victory over the Washington Bullets and a 3-2 lead in their best of seven series.

The Eastern Conference semifinals series resumes Monday night at Landover, Md.

The game, played before 21,312—the largest crowd ever to see an NBA playoff game and the biggest home crowd in Cleveland history—was close all the way. Neither team led by more than seven points at any time.

Thompson Sparks Denver

DENVER (UPI) — Rookie forward David Thompson scored 34 points and helped spark a 39-point, third-quarter outburst Thursday to give the Denver Nuggets a 127-117 victory over the Kentucky Colonels and a 3-2 advantage in their American Basketball Association playoff series.

The sixth game in the semifinal playoff will be Sunday in Louisville and a seventh game — if necessary — will be played Wednesday in Denver.

The contest was decided in the third quarter when Denver, led by Thompson and guard Ralph Simpson, launched a devastating attack.

The Nuggets hit 16 of 22 shots from the field in that quarter for a 73 per cent shooting mark, while the Colonels hit only nine of 23 for 29 per cent. Simpson had 11 points and Thompson eight in the quarter as Denver outscored the Colonels 39-23.

Prior to the third quarter, Denver never led by more than two points and the Colonels threatened to turn the game into a runaway as they jumped to a 13-point lead in the first period.

But Denver — as it had all year in winning the regular-season ABA crown — chipped away at the lead and was down only 58-54 at halftime. The Nuggets exploded in the third period, hitting the last nine shots of the quarter, and stretched their lead to as many as 22 points in the final period of play.

High-point man for the Colonels, the defending ABA champion, was Artis Gilmore with 26 points, including 10 in the last quarter. Maurice Lucas had 21 and Wilbert Jones finished with 19.

Morning Briefing

Havlicek To Miss Contest

John Havlicek
Arch injury

John Havlicek suffered torn tissue in the arch of his left foot during the opening game victory of the best-of-seven NBA quarter-final series against the Buffalo Braves and will not be able to play in Friday's second game.

"A connective tissue between the arch and the heel is torn," said a team spokesman. "He is out Friday and a doubtful starter Sunday."

Coach Tom Heinsohn said he had not decided who would fill Havlicek's spot. He has a choice of veterans Don Nelson and Steve Kuberski or second-year man Glenn McDonald.

Baseball

St. Louis Cards pitcher Lynn McGlothen was fined $300 and suspended for five days starting Thursday by NL president Chub Feeney for deliberately striking two batters in a beanball battle in Tuesday's game against the New York Mets.

AL president Lee MacPhail disallowed a protest by the Milwaukee Brewers, who lost a game-winning grand slam home run against the New York Yankees when an umpire ruled that he had called time out just before the pitch was delivered. MacPhail also turned down a protest by the Chicago White Sox over the demand of the Yankees that the White Sox pitchers not be allowed to wear white sleeves on their sweatshirts.

The Detroit Tigers have placed catcher Milt May on the 60-day disabled list after he fractured his right ankle while crashing into the retaining wall behind home plate at the Oakland Coliseum. Rookie catcher Bruce Kimm was called up from Evansville to fill May's spot on the roster.

Baseball great Jackie Jensen has been criticized by members of his University of California team for failing to teach fundamentals and maintain communication with players. Athletic director Dave Maggard said team members met with him to express their concern over Jensen's performance as coach and suggest he be replaced unless things improve.

Football

The Chicago Bears signed Dan Jiggetts, former Harvard offensive tackle, from the college draft to a contract and signed eight free agents, including Dan Devine, Jr., wide receiver, Milton College, son of the Notre Dame coach and Tom Bergman, an Oklahoma center who also can play defensive tackle.

Dennis Claridge, Nebraska quarterback in 1961-63, will become the 34th member of the Nebraska Football Hall of Fame during the annual banquet May 14.

A former office employe of the Green Bay Packers charged in a Circuit Court suit that Packer linebacker Jim Carter exposed himself in her presence in the Packer offices last year.

Other sports

Mike Reasor, an obscure, career struggler on the pro golf tour, shot a seven-under-par 65 to gain the first round lead in the $175,000 New Orleans Open golf tournament.

National Hockey League president Clarence Campbell and three prominent businessmen were charged with paying Liberal Sen. Louis Giguere $95,000 for his aid in obtaining a lease extension to 1980 for Sky Shops Export Ltd.'s duty-free shop at Montreal's Dorval airport. Charges of two counts of conspiracy against the Canadian federal government were filed against the five.

Margaret Court, who in 1970 became the first woman to win the Grand Slam of Tennis, said she will never will play competitive matches again because of religious reasons.

Three top East German oarsmen were drowned during a pre-Olympic training session on Lake Mueggel near East Berlin after their shell capsized in a storm, throwing the crew into ice-cold waters, a report in the Bild newspaper said.

Virginia Park of Whittier, Calif., vaulted from seventh place to take the qualifying lead after 12 games of the $86,000 Women's World Invitational Bowling tournament.

Husker Diamondmen Host KU

Nebraska's baseball team, 14-20-1 on the year, hosts the University of Kansas Jayhawks Friday and Saturday on the NU diamond.

Friday's single, nine inning game starts at 3 p.m., while Saturday's doubleheader begins at 1 p.m.

On the mound Friday for the Huskers will be sophomore Larry Winum. Winum is 0-3 for the year, with an earned run average of 5.09. Kansas will pitch its ace, senior Roger Slagle. Slagle is 5-1 overall, with an ERA of 1.00.

Following the Nebraska-Kansas three-game series, the Huskers' next action will be Monday on the NU diamond, when Nebraska plays Dana in a doubleheader at 2 p.m.

Track, Golf, Tennis At Drake

Nebraska's track, golf and tennis teams all travel to Des Moines this weekend for each sports' respective tournament held at Drake University.

The Husker track team will be participating in the 67th annual Drake Relays. Leading the Cornhusker contingent will be junior javelin thrower Scott Sorchik.

Sorchik will be after his second straight Drake javelin title. Last year, he won the event with a 227-6 effort. Already this year, the native of Sussex, N.J., has won the javelin titles at the Kansas Relays and the Oklahoma Invitational.

While the track and field events are going on at Drake Stadium, Nebraska's tennis team will be competing in the second annual Drake Relays Invitational Tennis Tournament on Thursday and Friday at the Des Moines Golf and Country Club.

Besides the Huskers, other teams competing for the team title are Iowa State, Minnesota, Missouri, Oklahoma State, Oral Roberts, Southern Illinois, Tulsa and Drake.

Also on Thursday and Friday, the Cornhusker golf squad will compete in the 54-hole Drake Relays Invitational at the Des Moines and Wakonda Country Clubs.

Along with Nebraska, other teams competing for the team title are Missouri, Kansas, Iowa State, Iowa, Tulsa, Southern Illinois, Bradley and Drake.

Hike-Bike Day Delayed Week

Nebraska football coach Tom Osborne said Tuesday a schedule conflict has forced a one-week delay in the Capital Association for Retarded Citizen's Hike-Bike.

Osborne, honorary chairman of the event, said the Hike-Bike will be May 15 instead of May 8.

Morning Briefing

Havlicek To Miss Contest

John Havlicek
Arch injury

John Havlicek suffered torn tissue in the arch of his left foot during the opening game victory of the best-of-seven NBA quarterfinal series against the Buffalo Braves and will not be able to play in Friday's second game.

"A connective tissue between the arch and the heel is torn," said a team spokesman. "He is out Friday and a doubtful starter Sunday."

Coach Tom Heinsohn said he had not decided who would fill Havlicek's spot. He has a choice of veterans Don Nelson and Steve Kuberski or second-year man Glenn McDonald.

Baseball

St. Louis Cards pitcher Lynn McGlothen was fined $300 and suspended for five days starting Thursday by NL president Chub Feeney for deliberately striking two batters in a beanball battle in Tuesday's game against the New York Mets.

AL president Lee MacPhail disallowed a protest by the Milwaukee Brewers, who lost a game-winning grand slam home run against the New York Yankees when an umpire ruled that he had called time out just before the pitch was delivered. MacPhail also turned down a protest by the Chicago White Sox over the demand of the Yankees that the White Sox pitchers not be allowed to wear white sleeves on their sweatshirts.

The Detroit Tigers have placed catcher Milt May on the 60-day disabled list after he fractured his right ankle while crashing into the retaining wall behind home plate at the Oakland Coliseum. Rookie catcher Bruce Kimm was called up from Evansville to fill May's spot on the roster.

Baseball great Jackie Jensen has been criticized by members of his University of California team for failing to teach fundamentals and maintain communication with players. Athletic director Dave Maggard said team members met with him to express their concern over Jensen's performance as coach and suggest he be replaced unless things improve.

Football

The Chicago Bears signed Dan Jiggetts, former Harvard offensive tackle, from the college draft to a contract and signed eight free agents, including Dan Devine, Jr., wide receiver, Milton College, son of the Notre Dame coach and Tom Bergman, an Oklahoma center who also can play defensive tackle.

Dennis Claridge, Nebraska quarterback in 1961-63, will become the 34th member of the Nebraska Football Hall of Fame during the annual banquet May 14.

A former office employe of the Green Bay Packers charged in a Circuit Court suit that Packer linebacker Jim Carter exposed himself in her presence in the Packer offices last year.

Other sports

Mike Reasor, an obscure, career struggler on the pro golf tour, shot a seven-under-par 65 to gain the first round lead in the $175,000 New Orleans Open golf tournament.

National Hockey League president Clarence Campbell and three prominent businessmen were charged with paying Liberal Sen. Louis Giguere $95,000 for his aid in obtaining a lease extension to 1980 for Sky Shops Export Ltd.'s duty-free shop at Montreal's Dorval airport. Charges of two counts of conspiracy against the Canadian federal government were filed against the five.

Margaret Court, who in 1970 became the first woman to win the Grand Slam of Tennis, said she will never will play competitive matches again because of religious reasons.

Three top East German oarsmen were drowned during a pre-Olympic training session on Lake Mueggel near East Berlin after their shell capsized in a storm, throwing the crew into ice-cold waters, a report in the Bild newspaper said.

Virginia Park of Whittier, Calif., vaulted from seventh place to take the qualifying lead after 12 games of the $86,000 Women's World Invitational Bowling tournament.

Husker Diamondmen Host KU

Nebraska's baseball team, 14-20-1 on the year, hosts the University of Kansas Jayhawks Friday and Saturday on the NU diamond.

Friday's single, nine inning game starts at 3 p.m., while Saturday's doubleheader begins at 1 p.m.

On the mound Friday for the Huskers will be sophomore Larry Winum. Winum is 0-3 for the year, with an earned run average of 5.09. Kansas will pitch its ace, senior Roger Slagle. Slagle is 5-1 overall, with an ERA of 1.00.

Following the Nebraska-Kansas three-game series, the Huskers' next action will be Monday on the NU diamond, when Nebraska plays Dana in a doubleheader at 2 p.m.

Track, Golf, Tennis At Drake

Nebraska's track, golf and tennis teams all travel to Des Moines this weekend for each sports' respective tournament held at Drake University.

The Husker track team will be participating in the 67th annual Drake Relays. Leading the Cornhusker contingent will be junior javelin thrower Scott Sorchik.

Sorchik will be after his second straight Drake javelin title. Last year, he won the event with a 227-6 effort. Already this year, the native of Sussex, N.J., has won the javelin titles at the Kansas Relays and the Oklahoma Invitational.

While the track and field events are going on at Drake Stadium, Nebraska's tennis team will be competing in the second annual Drake Relays Invitational Tennis Tournament on Thursday and Friday at the Des Moines Golf and Country Club.

Besides the Huskers, other teams competing for the team title are Iowa State, Minnesota, Missouri, Oklahoma State, Oral Roberts, Southern Illinois, Tulsa and Drake.

Also on Thursday and Friday, the Cornhusker golf squad will compete in the 54-hole Drake Relays Invitational at the Des Moines and Wakonda Country Clubs.

Along with Nebraska, other teams competing for the team title are Missouri, Kansas, Iowa State, Iowa, Tulsa, Southern Illinois, Bradley and Drake.

LHS 'Brutes' A Good Story

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Editor

Surely you remember Bluto, the broad-shouldered strongman who manhandles anything and everything until Popeye eats his spinach to challenge

No one really knows if Bluto lifted weights to get such big biceps, but Lincoln High weight coach Bill Story imagines he did

Story knows muscles don't happen by accident They're the result of long hours of dedication to lifting weights

Fourteen years ago, Story started Lincoln High s weight program During that time, the Links have paraded what Story calls "a group of real brutes" through the program

Consequently, Story has been blessed with some Nebraska's best all time prep shot putters and discus throwers

"Technique and ability have been important," he insists, "but the thing that's made all of them has been the weight room "

Story's all-star cast reads like a who's who in Nebraska prep track — Mike Fultz, Mike Washington, Dave Ripley, Charles Baldwin

John Beaver, however, is the Links' best combination weight man in history The defending state gold medalist in the discus now leads the all-time LHS charts with a 183-2 and ranks fifth among the Links' impressive shot putters with his 55-10½ this spring

Beaver will take aim Friday at Baldwin's 177-10½ discus record in the annual Public Schools track championships at East's Stuart Stadium

Washington's shot put mark of 59-5 established last year seems relatively safe The boys meet will follow the Trans-Nebraska Conference girls championships Friday at the same site

Beaver's strength is undeniable According to Story, he bench presses 310 pounds and military presses 200 But neither mark is necessarily important to a shot putter

"We work more on the other lifts," says Story "Kansas' super shot putters have proven a weight man gets his explosion elsewhere Beaver squats 680 pounds and inclines 340 He clean and presses 260. They re the most important lifts for him "

Story says once a discus thrower perfects his fundamentals, "then he just has to work on speeding up his circle John has done that He goes around that circle as fast as anyone I've ever seen "

Here's LHS's top 10 in both events

Shot put — 1 Mike Washington, 60-2, 1975, 2 Mike Fultz, 59-4, 1973, 3 Dave Ripley, 57-4¾, 1968, 4 John Spaedt, 57-2½, 1965, 5 John Beaver, 55-10½, 1976, 6 Charles Baldwin, 55-3, 1973, 7 Tom Hendricks, 54-4½, 1967, 8 Jim Marker, 54-2, 1974, 9 Dick Wood, 53-10¼, 1955, 10 John Walters, 53-8¾, 1966

Many To Compete In Loop Meet

By CHUCK SINCLAIR
Prep Sports Writer

Dave Vondra and Liz Lee are both looking forward to a Friday trip to Lincoln

Vondra, Grand Island's girls track coach, likes the competition So does Lee, his top sprinter and state leader along with Tecumseh s Julie Faris in the 100-yard dash with 10 8 clockings

Vondra and Lee will find an abundance of competition at Stuart Stadium Friday for the fifth annual Trans-Nebraska girls track and field championships

Vondra s defending state champion Islanders will field challenges from Lincoln's four public schools along with Hastings and North Platte

With North Platte s Cindy Tatum and Lee entered in the sprints the meet could be another verse to a song called Dueling Sprinters

Tatum was the gold medal winner in the 100 and 220 in last year s state track meet while Lee ran a close second in both races

In last year s Trans-Nebraska meet Lee won the 100 in record time and after setting a record in the 220 preliminary lost in the finals as Tatum tied her record

At the start of this season, Tatum picked up where she left off with the state meet by beating Lee in the 50 and 220 dashes in the Kearney Indoor Invitational

The two haven't met since, but Lee has been impressive with her state-leading time in the 100 and second best 220 time

"With Liz, it's been a matter of getting herself ready to run," Vondra said "She s got a lot of individual pride and she s been working real hard on that this year

"She's really determined to make things different," he added

It could be quite a chore for Lee as Tatum turned a 10 9 in a triangular last week and also holds the sixth best 220 time this year

Vondra is looking forward to the challenge for his team

"We met Southeast at the Grand Island Invitational and they re a good running team," Vondra said "And Northeast and Lincoln High have a number of good individuals

Lincoln High s miler (Teresa Schoonover) looks quite good," he added It should be a good meet and we re looking forward to it '

Lincoln High and Southeast should supply the biggest threat to Grand Island for the title, but the Islander's depth will be tough to beat

"We lost some of our backup sprinters from last year, but we have a lot of good, young kinds to fit in," Vondar said "We re in pretty good shape "

The meet will begin with field events at 11 30 a m and the first track preliminary at noon

The Lincoln Public Schools boys championships will follow immediately after the girls meet

Here are the Trans-Nebraska records

LHS 'Brutes' A Good Story

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Editor

Surely you remember Bluto, the broad-shouldered strongman who manhandles anything and everything until Popeye eats his spinach to challenge.

No one really knows if Bluto lifted weights to get such big biceps, but Lincoln High weight coach Bill Story imagines he did.

Story knows muscles don't happen by accident. They're the result of long hours of dedication to lifting weights.

Fourteen years ago, Story started Lincoln High's weight program. During that time, the Links have paraded what Story calls "a group of real brutes" through the program.

Consequently, Story has been blessed with some Nebraska's best all-time prep shot putters and discus throwers.

"Technique and ability have been important," he insists, "but the thing that's made all of them has been the weight room."

Story's all-star cast reads like a who's who in Nebraska prep track — Mike Fultz, Mike Washington, Dave Ripley, Charles Baldwin.

John Beaver, however, is the Links' best combination weight man in history. The defending state gold medalist in the discus now leads the all-time LHS charts with a 183-2 and ranks fifth among the Links' impressive shot putters with his 55-10½ this spring.

Beaver will take aim Friday at Baldwin's 177-10½ discus record in the annual Public Schools track championships at East's Stuart Stadium.

Washington's shot put mark of 59-5 established last year seems relatively safe. The boys meet will follow the Trans-Nebraska Conference girls championships Friday at the same site.

Beaver's strength is undeniable. According to Story, he bench presses 310 pounds and military presses 200. But neither mark is necessarily important to a shot putter.

"We work more on the other lifts," says Story. "Kansas' super shot putters have proven a weight man gets his explosion elsewhere. Beaver squats 680 pounds and inclines 340. He clean and presses 260. They're the most important lifts for him."

Story says once a discus thrower perfects his fundamentals, "then he just has to work on speeding up his circle. John has done that. He goes around that circle as fast as anyone I've ever seen."

Here's LHS's top 10 in both events:

Shot put — 1. Mike Washington, 60-2, 1975; 2. Mike Fultz, 59-4, 1973; 3. Dave Ripley, 57-4¾, 1968; 4. John Spaedt, 57-2½, 1965; 5. John Beaver, 55-10½, 1976; 6. Charles Baldwin, 55-3, 1973; 7. Tom Hendricks, 54-4½, 1967; 8. Jim Marker, 54-2, 1974; 9. Dick Wood, 53-10¼, 1955; 10. John Walters, 53-8¾, 1966.

Discus — 1. John Beaver, 183-2, 1976; 2. Charles Baldwin, 177-10½, 1973; 3. Howard Debus, 174-2½, 1940; 4. Arnie Johnson, 172-8½, 1973; 5. Mike Washington, 163-1, 1975; 6. Charles Wolff, 160-11, 1970; 7. John Walters, 160-0, 1966; 8. Mike Freeman, 154-7, 1971; 9. Roger Foster, 152-4, 1974; 10. Dave McKinney, 151-10, 1975.

Many To Compete In Loop Meet

By CHUCK SINCLAIR
Prep Sports Writer

Dave Vondra and Liz Lee are both looking forward to a Friday trip to Lincoln.

Vondra, Grand Island's girls track coach, likes the competition. So does Lee, his top sprinter and state leader along with Tecumseh's Julie Faris in the 100-yard dash with :10.8 clockings.

Vondra and Lee will find an abundance of competition at Stuart Stadium Friday for the fifth annual Trans-Nebraska girls track and field championships.

Vondra's defending state champion Islanders will field challenges from Lincoln's four public schools along with Hastings and North Platte.

With North Platte's Cindy Tatum and Lee entered in the sprints, the meet could be another verse to a song called Dueling Sprinters.

Tatum was the gold medal winner in the 100 and 220 in last year's state track meet while Lee ran a close second in both races.

In last year's Trans-Nebraska meet, Lee won the 100 in record time, and after setting a record in the 220 preliminary, lost in the finals as Tatum tied her record.

At the start of this season, Tatum picked up where she left off with the state meet by beating Lee in the 50 and 220 dashes in the Kearney Indoor Invitational.

The two haven't met since, but Lee has been impressive with her state-leading time in the 100 and second best 220 time.

"With Liz, it's been a matter of getting herself ready to run," Vondra said. "She's got a lot of individual pride and she's been working real hard on that this year.

"She's really determined to make things different," he added.

It could be quite a chore for Lee as Tatum turned a :10.9 in a triangular last week and also holds the sixth best 220 time this year.

Vondra is looking forward to the challenge for his team.

"We met Southeast at the Grand Island Invitational and they're a good running team," Vondra said. "And Northeast and Lincoln High have a number of good individuals.

"Lincoln High's miler (Teresa Schoonover) looks quite good," he added. "It should be a good meet and we're looking forward to it."

Lincoln High and Southeast should supply the biggest threat to Grand Island for the title, but the Islander's depth will be tough to beat.

"We lost some of our backup sprinters from last year, but we have a lot of good, young kinds to fit in," Vondar said. "We're in pretty good shape."

The meet will begin with field events at 11:30 a.m. and the first track preliminary at noon.

The Lincoln Public Schools boys championships will follow immediately after the girls meet.

Here are the Trans-Nebraska records:

100—Shelley Thompson, North Platte, 1972 and Liz Lee, Grand Island, 1975, :11.0; 220—Cindy Tatum, North Platte and Liz Lee, Grand Island, :26.0, 1975; 440—Cathy Schmidt, Southeast, 1:00.8, 1975; 880—Georgette Caddy, East, 2:28.6, 1975; Mile—new event; 80 hurdles—Peggy Liddick, Northeast, :10.9, 1975.

440 relay — Grand Island, :50.3, 1975; 880 relay — Grand Island, 1:47.9, 1974; Mile relay — Southeast, 4:09.5, 1975; High jump — LouAnn Ridenoure, Grand Island, 5-3, 1974; Long jump — Peggy Liddick, Northeast, 18-2½, 1975; Discus — Pam Koontz, Lincoln High, 122-3, 1975; Shotput — Deb Raddatz, Northeast, 42-2½, 1975.

NBC Gives Up; ABC Will Hire Barbara Walters

New York (AP) — ABC said Thursday it has agreed in principle to hire Barbara Walters away from NBC's "Today" show at a reported $1 million-a-year salary for five years.

An ABC spokesman declined to confirm the salary figure until final agreement was reached.

He said Miss Walters would co-anchor the evening news with Harry Reasoner, do four or five prime-time specials yearly and participate in the network's "Issues and Answers" program.

Earlier, a network spokesman — an executive who asked not to be identified — reported NBC was dropping its effort to keep her from being hired by the competing network.

The spokesman said NBC told Miss Walters' agent the negotiations for her services "were more befitting a movie queen than a journalist."

The network's decision to drop out of the bidding for Miss Walters, a "Today" regular for 13 years, came as a surprise

Miss Walters, 43, was not available for comment, nor were her agents at the William Morris Agency in New York, a talent firm that represents top show business figures as well as news personalities.

Bergman To Leave Sweden Over Taxes

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Film director Ingmar Bergman, beset by tax problems, announced Thursday he could no longer live in Socialist Sweden and was leaving the country to continue his work abroad.

The man who almost single-handedly put Sweden on the map as a major movie center said he had been harassed and humiliated by "prestige-ridden poker players" in the tax bureaucracy. He said they tried to blackmail him to save face in a highly publicized tax case.

His departure was expected to touch off an exodus of prominent Swedish artists, including some of the actors he made famous, from the country for better treatment abroad. Among stars who gained fame through Bergman were Bibi Anderson, Max von Sydow and Norwegian Liv Ullmann.

Bergman, 58, reportedly flew Wednesday to Paris to stay with friends in France. French sources close to Bergman, however, said they had no information that he was in the country.

Bergman did not say where he would settle, but friends indicated he would choose Italy or France. He has earlier expressed a love for Italy and had plans to work with director Federico Fellini.

Bergman announced his decision to leave Sweden in a bitter open letter published by the widely circulated newspaper Expressen. He said he had been a convinced Social Democrat and believed Socialist Sweden was the best country in the world until the tax case shocked him into realizing "that anybody in this country, any time and in any way, can be attacked and humiliated by a special kind of bureaucracy that grows like a galloping cancer."

Bergman was arrested while rehearsing a production of August Strindberg's "The Dance of Death" at the Royal Dramatic Theatre last Jan. 30 and charged with tax fraud involving $750,000 from a Swiss company he set up and owned between 1968 and 1975. The charges were later found unjustified by the chief public prosecutor, but Bergman had in the meantime suffered a nervous breakdown.

The government still maintained he owed back taxes, and Bergman accused two tax officials of trying to bargain a settlement with him after first demanding that he pay a tax amounting to 139%.

Bergman said he rejected any bargaining with the officials who "presumably assumed that I, in my state of depression and out of fear of more gauntlet-running, would surrender to this blackmail."

Bergman said he had paid taxes amounting to more than $454,000 in recent years and was always anxious to be scrupulously honest in such matters. He announced he was leaving his entire fortune in Sweden "at the disposal of the Internal Revenue Service" to prove he was not "bailing out because of the taxation court procedures."

NBC Gives Up; ABC Will Hire Barbara Walters

New York (AP) — ABC said Thursday it has agreed in principle to hire Barbara Walters away from NBC's "Today" show at a reported $1 million-a-year salary for five years.

An ABC spokesman declined to confirm the salary figure until final agreement was reached.

He said Miss Walters would co-anchor the evening news with Harry Reasoner, do four or five prime-time specials yearly and participate in the network's "Issues and Answers" program.

Earlier, a network spokesman — an executive who asked not to be identified — reported NBC was dropping its effort to keep her from being hired by the competing network.

The spokesman said NBC told Miss Walters' agent the negotiations for her services "were more befitting a movie queen than a journalist."

The network's decision to drop out of the bidding for Miss Walters, a "Today" regular for 13 years, came as a surprise.

Miss Walters, 43, was not available for comment, nor were her agents at the William Morris Agency in New York, a talent firm that represents top show business figures as well as news personalities.

Bergman To Leave Sweden Over Taxes

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Film director Ingmar Bergman, beset by tax problems, announced Thursday he could no longer live in Socialist Sweden and was leaving the country to continue his work abroad.

The man who almost single-handedly put Sweden on the map as a major movie center said he had been harassed and humiliated by "prestige-ridden poker players" in the tax bureaucracy. He said they tried to blackmail him to save face in a highly publicized tax case.

His departure was expected to touch off an exodus of prominent Swedish artists, including some of the actors he made famous, from the country for better treatment abroad. Among stars who gained fame through Bergman were Bibi Anderson, Max von Sydow and Norwegian Liv Ullmann.

Bergman, 58, reportedly flew Wednesday to Paris to stay with friends in France. French sources close to Bergman, however, said they had no information that he was in the country.

Bergman did not say where he would settle, but friends indicated he would choose Italy or France. He has earlier expressed a love for Italy and had plans to work with director Federico Fellini.

Bergman announced his decision to leave Sweden in a bitter open letter published by the widely circulated newspaper Expressen. He said he had been a convinced Social Democrat and believed Socialist Sweden was the best country in the world until the tax case shocked him into realizing "that anybody in this country, any time and in any way, can be attacked and humiliated by a special kind of bureaucracy that grows like a galloping cancer."

Bergman was arrested while rehearsing a production of August Strindberg's "The Dance of Death" at the Royal Dramatic Theatre last Jan. 30 and charged with tax fraud involving $750,000 from a Swiss company he set up and owned between 1968 and 1975. The charges were later found unjustified by the chief public prosecutor, but Bergman had in the meantime suffered a nervous breakdown.

The government still maintained he owed back taxes, and Bergman accused two tax officials of trying to bargain a settlement with him after first demanding that he pay a tax amounting to 139%.

Bergman said he rejected any bargaining with the officials who "presumably assumed that I, in my state of depression and out of fear of more gauntlet-running, would surrender to this blackmail."

Bergman said he had paid taxes amounting to more than $454,000 in recent years and was always anxious to be scrupulously honest in such matters. He announced he was leaving his entire fortune in Sweden "at the disposal of the Internal Revenue Service" to prove he was not "bailing out because of the taxation court procedures."

Stock Market Session Quiet And Sluggish

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market rested Thursday as its strong advance of the previous three days came to a halt in a quiet and sluggish session

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks closed at 1,007 71, down 3 31 points from the three-year high it had reached Wednesday

The pace of trading fell as well with volume on the New York Stock Exchange slowing to 20 22 million shares from Wednesday's 26 60 million

"The mood is rather subdued after yesterday's advance," analyst Charles Jensen of Merkin & Co said "It's a dull type of market with a lot of churning " What occurred, he said, was "the selling that has been coming in the past couple of months at this level "

The runup of more than 30 points in the Dow since Monday proved to be an attractive lure to investors wishing to cash in their profits

Grain Futures Move Slowly And Unevenly

Chicago (AP) — Grain futures prices moved slowly and unevenly through most of the session on the Chicago Board of Trade Thursday, then a rumor put some life into feed grains

As late selling pressure turned wheat futures lower and soybeans irregular, corn improved nearly 2 cents and oats 1 cent. Meal futures advanced about $1 a ton but soy oil prices were about 10 points lower

Stock Market Session Quiet And Sluggish

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market rested Thursday as its strong advance of the previous three days came to a halt in a quiet and sluggish session.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks closed at 1,007.71, down 3.31 points from the three-year high it had reached Wednesday.

The pace of trading fell as well, with volume on the New York Stock Exchange slowing to 20.22 million shares from Wednesday's 26.60 million.

"The mood is rather subdued after yesterday's advance," analyst Charles Jensen of Merkin & Co. said. "It's a dull type of market with a lot of churning." What occurred, he said, was "the selling that has been coming in the past couple of months at this level."

The runup of more than 30 points in the Dow since Monday proved to be an attractive lure to investors wishing to cash in their profits.

Grain Futures Move Slowly And Unevenly

Chicago (AP) — Grain futures prices moved slowly and unevenly through most of the session on the Chicago Board of Trade Thursday, then a rumor put some life into feed grains.

As late selling pressure turned wheat futures lower and soybeans irregular, corn improved nearly 2 cents and oats 1 cent. Meal futures advanced about $1 a ton but soy oil prices were about 10 points lower.

Journalism Awards Go To Schools

High schools in Kearney, Beatrice and Elgin have won Sweepstakes Awards in the Nebraska High School Press Association's annual Nebraska journalism championships.

Kearney High School won the Class A Sweepstakes Award. Beatrice High School repeated a 1975 win by earning the Class B Sweepstakes Award. Pope John XXIII High School in Elgin won the Class C Sweepstakes award.

Winning schools were chosen on the basis of total points won by individual students in 12 categories, according to R. Neale Copple, director of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln School of Journalism. NU professors and professional journalists judged the entries.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Friday, April 23, 1976

I have met many Leo persons of late who profess a love for animals. I do not question these assertions. What does puzzle me is why — in a sudden rash rush — are so many Leo natives declaring a need for pets, a love, an affinity for dogs, cats, birds, squirrels, skunks, porcupines, rabbits and you name it. If it's an animal, Leo is all for it. Why? More important, why of late, why now, why at this time does it become so evident, does it surface, this love affair between those born under Leo and the animal kingdom?

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You are called for special conference — or a family meeting. Key is to be receptive, open minded without being gullible. Taurus, Libra and Scorpio individuals could figure prominently. You share a secret and you burst to tell it. Be patient.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Perfect procedures, techniques. See people, places, situations as they are, not merely as you wish they could be. Study Aries message. Accent on romance, hopes, desires, the way to utilize friendly contacts in a constructive, profitable manner.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Build, organize, get facts straight, stand tall, be responsible and demand justice. Emphasis on advancement, dream job, accolades from professional associates. Capricorn, Cancer persons could figure prominently.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Emphasis on distance, journey, education, philosophy and publication. Reach beyond what may appear to be a limitation. People respond to you — you gain chance for better display and distribution. Aries, Libra and Scorpio could be in picture.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Cancer with breakthroughs is evident. You're able to uncover mystery, to discern true values. Mate, partner wants to know more about financial status. Welcome chance for novel experience. Member of opposite sex is drawn to you and makes it secret [illegible]

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Friday, April 23, 1976

I have met many Leo persons of late who profess a love for animals. I do not question these assertions. What does puzzle me is why — in a sudden rash rush — are so many Leo natives declaring a need for pets, a love, an affinity for dogs, cats, birds, squirrels, skunks, porcupines, rabbits and you name it. If it's an animal, Leo is all for it. Why? More important, why of late, why now, why at this time does it become so evident, does it surface, this love affair between those born under Leo and the animal kingdom?

ARIES (Mar. 21-April 19): You are called for special conference — or a family meeting. Key is to be receptive, open-minded without being gullible. Taurus, Libra and Scorpio individuals could figure prominently. You share a secret and you "burst" to tell it. Be patient!

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Perfect procedures, techniques. See people, places, situations as they are, not merely as you wish they could be. Study Aries message. Accent on romance, hopes, desires, the way to utilize friendly contacts in a constructive, profitable manner.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Build, organize, get facts straight, stand tall, be responsible and demand justice. Emphasis on advancement, "dream job," accolades from professional associates. Capricorn, Cancer persons could figure prominently.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Emphasis on distance, journey, education, philosophy and publication. Reach beyond what may appear to be a limitation. People respond to you — you gain chance for better display and distribution. Aries, Libra and Scorpio could be in picture.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Concern with breakthroughs is evident. You're able to uncover mystery, to discern true values. Mate, partner wants to know more about financial plans, status. Welcome chance for novel experience. Member of opposite sex is drawn to you and makes no secret of it.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Emphasis on meeting opposition — and emerging victorious. Trust hunch. Share knowledge. Learn by teaching. Stress public relations. Aquarius, Leo persons play prominent roles. A legal document is more significant than you might imagine. Act accordingly.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Highlight humor, versatility. Social life, requests for written material could be accelerated. Gemini, Sagittarius figure prominently. Check medical, dental appointments. Review basics. Insist on quality as contrasted to frill.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Good Moon aspect coincides now with change, love, children, involvement and the creative process. You will break down certain factions for purpose of ultimate rebuilding program. One who plays "hard to get" may actually be pining for you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Emphasis on property, building, final agreements, associations with older individuals. You get chance to put together puzzle pieces. Your ability to analyze and interpret is spotlighted. Gemini person is in picture.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Accent on short trips, messages and ability to "touch." Means you bridge distance by illustrating, by letting people know of your presence. A special person should be held, touched. You will receive positive response.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Someone wants something for nothing — from you. Accent on personal possessions, estimation of values. Don't fall prey to get-rich-quick scheme. Check prices. Be aware of security requirements. Seek hidden clauses. They exist!

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Much that seemed to be left to others is now up to you. Lunar cycle high — get going, take initiative, trust hunch, judgment is on target. You have solid opportunity to climb, to increase prestige and income. Refuse to be awed by age.

IF APRIL 23 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are analytical, creative, have appreciation for art, food — and money. Gemini, Virgo, Sagittarius persons play important roles in your life. If single, this could be a marriage year. If married, there would be an addition to family. December should be one of your most significant months of 1976.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
